ANTI-4TH TERM GROUP FAVORS GOV. BRICKER

Urges Dewey Wait Until 1948.

Washington, D. C., May 12 (AP).—The American Democratic national committee, which has been opposing a fourth term, announced thru its chairman today it is prepared to support Gov. John W. Bricker of Ohio, if he is the Republican nominee opposing President Roosevelt.

Dr. G. L. Archer.

Dr. Gleason L. Archer, the committee head, said the group had concluded the "only practical method of preventing the reelection of President Roosevelt and purging New Deal influence from the Democratic party may be to support a Republican for President." He said this decision was reached in a series of regional conferences.

"It is natural," Archer said, "that the committee should wish to see a strong candidate nominated by the Republicans. The committee feels in this crisis that partisanship and greed must be subordinated to the welfare of the nation."

Favors Any Strong Leader.

"The committee is willing to join with the Republicans in nominating a conservative Democrat for President or if need be to support any strong leader named by the Republican party."

While Archer said there was "high praise" at the regional meeting for Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York, the group believed Dewey lacked experience and political training. He suggested that Bricker was older and had gained more experience in three terms as governor of Ohio.

"Our suggestion is to withhold Mr. Dewey's nomination to 1948, when he will be better equipped and qualified," Archer said.

"Perhaps Gov. Bricker would be satisfied with one term. Every one knows there is a mess to clean up. It will take a one-term President with no ambition to succeed himself to do a thoro job."

Organized by Woodring.

Bricker himself has proposed a constitutional amendment for a single six year term for President.

The American Democratic national committee was organized originally by Harry Woodring, former secretary of war, who withdrew recently because he said Democrats opposed to a fourth term feared to take an open stand on the issue. He said financial contributions had been disappointing.

[The committee has established national headquarters at 105 S. La Salle st., Chicago, and has announced plans for a series of regional meetings thruout the country as well as a national caucus in Chicago the middle of June.]

Bricker Welcomes Support.

Lincoln, Neb., May 12 (AP).—Gov. John W. Bricker of Ohio, commenting on the American Democratic national committee's statement it is prepared to support him for President, today said "I have felt all thruout the country this rising sentiment on the part of old line Democrats to support a Republican candidate."

"They are coming over to our side by the millions of votes," said Bricker, who carried his campaign for the Republican nomination into Nebraska today. "I am grateful for the support of all people and organizations who believe as I do."

Wire Firm Pleads: Put Name, Number on Door!

An appeal to residents to place house numbers on their residences and names on mail boxes, bells, and apartment doors to facilitate delivery of telegrams and other articles was made yesterday by S. E. Hastings, superintendent of the Western Union Telegraph company. Lack of house numbers and names often retards the delivery of important telegrams and results in a waste of time for messengers and other persons making deliveries, he said.

Report 39,000 War Workers Are Made Idle

Detroit, Mich., May 12 [Special].—Thirty-nine thousand war production workers were reported idle tonight after a two week old strike of 3,300 Detroit war plant foremen had forced the Packard Motor company to close its Detroit plant.

George T. Christopher, Packard president and general manager, said it was necessary to "close down all factory operations" as a result of yesterday's refusal by the army air forces to accept aircraft engines manufactured by the company in the absence of "inspection supervision to guarantee quality." Besides making aircraft engines, the company makes engines for PT boats.

Report 39,000 Idle.

Christopher said the number of employes made idle by the closing of the plant was a military secret. The United Automobile Workers [CIO] local at the plant, however, said 39,000 production employes had been thrown out of work.

The 39,000 total reported by the CIO local may include workers of other plants whose jobs were affected by the Packard closing.

The company had operated its plant until today without the striking foremen, who are members of the Independent Foreman's Association of America. Their strike started two weeks ago in the Briggs Manufacturing company body plant and spread quickly to the Packard and 11 other plants. None of the other plants, however, had been forced to close.

One Contract Signed.

The association went on strike because it failed in its attempts to negotiate contracts with the companies, except the Ford Motor company, which signed a contract last Tuesday. The Ford contract, however, did not include a closed shop clause.

When the war labor board refused to recognize the association as a bargaining agency, national officers of the FAA offered to order the striking foremen back to work if the board would assure them that the companies would restore them to their old jobs. Chairman William H. Davis of the board, however, said that his agency would accept no conditions to ending the walkout.

The offer to return to work was made in telegrams by Robert H. Keys, FAA president, to Davis, Undersecretary of War Patterson, and Secretary of the Navy Forrestal.

In addition to Packard, the plants affected by the strike, which is reported to have cut production as much as 50 per cent in some plants, include Briggs Manufacturing company, Hudson Motor company, Murray Corporation of America, and the Gar Wood industries.

WHERRY SEES U. S. ENSLAVED FROM WITHIN

Seizure of Ward's Cited by Senator.

New York, May 12 [Special].—Picturing the government seizure of Montgomery Ward's in Chicago as "one of the blackest pages in history," Sen. Wherry [R., Neb.] tonight warned that the nation is "within the shadow of the dictatorship of one man." He said the danger of enslavement of the people from within is "greatest because it is subtle and masked under high sounding phrases."

Sen. Wherry, speaking at a convention of the New Jersey Bankers' association, said Atty. Gen. Biddle should be impeached if congressional investigations now underway prove the seizure of Ward's was illegal.

"Today we are in a life and death struggle for our very existence," Wherry said. "Our country is threatened from without and within. But the threat of foreign invasion is the least dangerous because we know the enemies outside our border, and we shall conquer them.

High Sounding Phrases.

"Our greatest danger comes from within because it is subtle and masked under high sounding phrases."

Wherry said the nation at home faces a "struggle between two concepts of government."

"One, based on the Declaration of Independence, holds that the government is the servant of the people," he said.

"Our people have certain 'inalienable rights' and it is 'to secure these rights that governments are instituted among men.' Those are the words of our immortal Declaration of Independence, and they lie at the heart of our republican form of government, under a Constitution distributing only those powers to those who rule us, which 'we, the people' have freely granted.

"The opposing concept is the totalitarian philosophy which masquerades under many forms of government. In whatever form we find it the underlying principle is the same.

Self-Perpetuating Clique.

"The people are ruled by the dictatorship of one man, or a so-called 'elite,' or a self-perpetuating clique. The people exist for the state. The people are the slaves, not the masters, of the government.

"And their enslavement comes about in a gradual, subtle way; it begins with paternalism by the government which saps the people's self-reliance; paternalism soon begets regulations; the power of regulation breeds license, and the process finally reaches full stature thru the coercion and subjugation of the will of the people.

"Our enemies cannot force this form of government upon us by military conquest, but we are in great danger of fastening it upon ourselves by the course we are following in home affairs."

Fight for Great Principles.

Wherry said the nation is resolved to win the war, but that "it would be a hollow victory, a tragedy for our people, if in keeping foreign invaders with alien concepts of government away from our

LINCOLN: "MY PARTY CAN NEVER FALL TO THAT"

Two P-51s Zip Across U. S. in 6½ Hr. Flights

New York, May 12 (AP).—Two P-51 Mustang fighter planes shattered the cross-continental flight speed record today, one plane traveling from Los Angeles to New York in 6 hours, 31 minutes and 30 seconds with one stop and the other making the trip nonstop in 6 hours, 39 minutes and 30 seconds.

Both ships carried regular army equipment, including a full complement of six machine guns and armament and extra gasoline tanks.

The previous west-to-east speed record was made last April 17 by the Lockheed Constellation which flew from Burbank, Cal., to Washington, D. C., in 6 hours and 58 minutes. The Constellation is a huge, four engined transport plane.

Col. Peterson Is First.

Pilot of the first plane to land at New York airport was Col. Clair Peterson, army airman. Eight minutes later the Mustang piloted by Lt. Col. Jack H. Carter, who had taken off from Los Angeles one minute ahead of Peterson, swooped onto a runway.

Peterson, personal pilot for Gen. Arnold, commander of the army air air forces, stopped at Kansas City to refuel. He was away again 6 minutes, 25 seconds later.

Carter flew the great circle route of 2,464 miles, the regular route followed by service planes from west to east. Peterson's route, including the stop at Kansas City, was 2,470 miles. The Constellation's flight also was made over the great circle route.

Off Production Line.

Peterson, 34, and stationed at Fort Meyer, Va., told reporters he averaged about 390 miles per hour.

[Figuring his total elapsed time he averaged approximately 380 miles an hour.]

"I feel pretty good, but a little numb in spots," he said. "We used oxygen all the way and didn't eat. No, I wasn't pushing the plane. You could fly those planes all day and all night at that rate without pushing them."

Carter said:

"Those planes are ready to go to war right now. All you have to do is fill them with gas and water and refill the oxygen and they're set."

1ST WACS WELCOMED TO AUSTRALIAN PARIS; GET ESCORT OF M. P.'S

[By Wireless to the New York Times and The Chicago Tribune.]

SYDNEY, Australia, May 12.—The first large contingent of WACs to come to the Southern Pacific has arrived in this city, the Paris of the Pacific.

Sydney, the chief leave area for United States airmen and soldiers who have been fighting on the New Guinea battle fronts, greeted the girls with open arms. Crowds of curious people waved from the streets as the girls rode by in double decked buses escorted by M. P. motor cyclists on their way to camp.

Some of the girls will go eventually to New Guinea. The others will remain in Australia "to release men for service at the front."

ROMMEL'S DRUG FOUND HELPFUL IN WAR WOUNDS

LONDON, May 12 (AP).—The Lancet, British medical journal, today said marfanil, a sulfa derivative discovered among medical supplies abandoned by Field Marshal Erwin Rommel in the North African campaign, had proved second only to penicillin in the treatment of battle wounds.

Announcing results of tests, the journal said: "At present for technical reasons it may prove easier to produce marfanil in much larger amounts than penicillin."

Clinical use was said to have found the drug active in the presence of pus—unlike most sulfas. It prevents the growth of organisms in wounds which resist all other antiseptics. Almost no irritation or destruction of tissue was reported. Seventy per cent of the test cases showed an improvement and 50 per cent showed marked improvement, the article said.

The Lancet said marfanil was used in experiments in the United States several years ago but was rejected because it had little effect on streptococci in mice.

NewDealSinks More Cash in 'Ghost Town'

BY LAURENCE BURD.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 12.—The New Deal's venture in city building in the "ghost" community of Kingsford Heights, Ind., was denounced today by Rep. Grant [R., Ind.], who told the house the latest chapter in the experiment crowns the most absurd, reckless, and wanton wast of public funds imaginable.

Indiana ghost town.

The national housing agency, it has been previously disclosed, poured some 13 million dollars into 2,974 homes, household equipment, streets, and utilities to accommodate workers in the near-by Kingsbury ordnance plant, but then began to dismantle 2,400 of the homes because they apparently were not needed after all.

Dormitories to Be Moved.

Now, Grant told the house, even as the homes, refrigerators, and stoves are being shipped to other communities—some as far away as Ohio—the NHA has delivered "the crowning blow of all." The agency has just announced, he continued, that dormitory buildings may have to be moved into the "ghost city" of Kingsford Heights because too many houses have been moved out.

"While 2,400 homes from the ghost city are being moved to other sections of the country," Grant said, "the NHA plans to move other dwellings back into that same area. It is the most absurd, reckless, and wanton waste of public funds which could be imagined."

The congressman recalled that "New Deal master minds" originally bought up and removed from food production 775 acres of fertile farm land to build Kingsford Heights.

$133,350 for Landscaping.

"They built," he said, "18 miles of streets, 72 miles of sidewalks, spent $133,350 for landscaping, built a permanent sewage disposal plant at a cost of $166,738, a permanent water distribution system at a cost of $559,530. They bought and thus removed from the market 2,974 electric refrigerators, and 2,974 'bottled gas' ranges.

"Only 324 families moved into this ghost city of 2,974 homes. We are now told it is to be stripped down to 500 homes, but there will remain those 18 miles of streets, and 72 miles of sidewalks running thru those fertile fields."

2 TO 3 MILE GAIN IN ITALY; BLOCKED AT SOME POINTS

WE'LL DESTROY NAZIS IN ITALY, SAY GENERALS

ALLIED HDQ., NAPLES, May 12 (AP).—Gen. Alexander, commander of the allied forces in Italy, and Lt. Gen. Clark, commander of the 5th army, both promised in orders of the day today that the allies would destroy the German armies in Italy.

Gen. Alexander told his men that they had been chosen to strike the "first blow" in "the final battles . . . to crush the enemy once and for all," and added:

"From east and west, from north and south blows are about to fall which will result in the final destruction of the Nazis and bring freedom once again to Europe and hasten the peace for us all.

"We are going to destroy the German armies in Italy. The fighting will be hard, bitter, and perhaps long, but you are warriors and soldiers of the highest order who for more than a year have known only victory.

Mauled Best Nazi Divisions.

"The results of these past months may not appear spectacular but you have drawn into Italy and mauled many of the enemy's best divisions which he badly needed to stem the advance of the Russian armies in the east. Hitler has admitted that his defeats in the east were largely due to the bitterness of the fighting and to his losses in Italy.

"This in itself is a great achievement and you may well be as proud of yourselves as I am of you. You have gained the admiration of the world and the gratitude of our rising allies.

"Today bad times are behind us and tomorrow we can see victory ahead. Under the ever-increasing blows of the air forces of the united nations which are mounting every day in intensity, the German war machine is beginning to crumble.

Confident of Victory.

"You will be supported by an overwhelming air force, and in guns and tanks we far outnumber the Germans.

"So with God's help and blessing we take the field confident of victory."

Gen. Clark told the troops that, as a result of their fighting, 20 Nazi divisions had been contained and more than 13,000 prisoners taken.

"We can and will destroy the German armies," he concluded.

GEN. CLARK SEES F. D. R. IN SECRET BEFORE BIG DRIVE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 12.—Lt. Gen. Clark, commander of the allied 5th army, recently completed a secret flying visit to this country to confer with Gen. Marshall and President Roosevelt on the allied offensive which opened in Italy this morning, the war department announced today.

The plans which Clark submitted to Gen. Marshall here and to the President at Hobcaw Barony, S. C., during the latter's recuperation on the estate of Bernard Baruch, were prepared by Gen. Alexander, allied commander in chief in Italy.

While Clark was here a guard was placed around the apartment house in which his wife and daughter live. An orderly was assigned to wait on the general and replace servants so that there could be no leak about his visit. A guard also was placed about his war department office and a special car was assigned to him. He was flown to the Baruch estate to secure the President's approval of the plans. After completing his official duties the general rested a few days at a fashionable Virginia resort before returning to Italy. With him was his cocker spaniel which he left behind when he undertook the secret mission to arrange for the invasion of North Africa in 1942.

Bermuda Women Granted Vote; 21 Year Fight Ends

HAMILTON, Bermuda, May 12 (AP).—The legislative council today passed a woman suffrage act giving Bermuda women the right to vote in parliamentary, parochial, and municipal elections. Passage of the bill climaxed the Bermuda woman suffrage society's 21 year fight for such a measure.

Axis Counter Blows Wipe Out Several Advances.

BULLETIN.

LONDON, May 13 (Saturday)—(AP).—Berlin acknowledged today that allied troops in Italy had broken thru at several points in the Liri valley south of Cassino, but said "in spite of the high losses in men and material allied troops have not anywhere reached the actual German defense system." In a broadcast heard by the ministry of information the Nazi spokesman was reluctant to regard the allied offensive as "a big push." "It is much more probable this attack will prove only a diversionary operation which will enable the allies to launch another attack with their five fully equipped divisions held in reserve," he said. He predicted that "in all probability" a new landing would take place between the main 5th army front and the Anzio beachhead or immediately north of the beachhead.

ALLIED HDQ., Naples, May 13 [Saturday]—(AP).—The allied 5th and 8th armies punched out gains as deep as two and three miles yesterday on the first day of an all-out offensive officially described as the first "of the final battles" to destroy the Germans, it was learned early today.

At other points of the strongly fortified Gustav line, however, the allies were blocked by furious resistance after launching their big push at 11 o'clock Thursday night on a blazing 25 mile front from Cassino to the Gulf of Gaeta.

Sharp German counter-attacks in some instances also eliminated initial allied gains.

The exact localities where the allies penetrated two to three miles could not be divulged pending an official announcement.

Lt. Gen. Oliver Leese [left], Gen. Harold Alexander [center], and Lt. Gen. Mark Clark.

Planes Blast Foe All Day.

Allied fighter bombers gave close support yesterday to the attacking men of many nationalities who surged forward under an unprecedented aerial cover and with support of the greatest artillery barrage ever loosed in the Mediterranean area. Both sides were employing every weapon of modern ground warfare.

The 5th and 8th armies, completely regrouped since the bloody and indecisive battle of Cassino two months ago, struck together.

The Germans, recovering from the earth shaking barrage—some of it from American 240 millimeter guns firing 350 pound projectiles—used flame throwers at many points and counter-attacked sharply as opportunity offered. Allied officers appeared satisfied, however, with early results.

Planes Pound Nazis.

Starting with the first streaks of dawn, allied warplanes in record numbers joined the assault and took almost complete control of the sky as they smashed at every enemy target in sight along the battle line, ripped the enemy's rear areas, and smashed west coast harbors. A mist at 3,000 feet forced some planes to return to their bases with their bomb loads intact.

Allied heavy bombers smashed at seven primary targets, including the German headquarters towns of Massa D'Albe, three miles north of Avezzano, and Civita Castellano, 16 miles north of Rome.

Other targets pounded included railyards at Ferrara, Genoa's docks, Civitavecchia, Piombino, Santo Stefano, the naval base of La Spezia, Chiavari, Tarquina, and Portoferraio on the island of Elba.

Fighting forward thru a maze of the strongest defenses encountered by probably any army in this war were Americans, British, French, Canadians, Indians, New Zealanders, Italians, and Poles.

French Strike First.

French troops had the honor of striking first in the mountains near Cassino, some 15 minutes before the main body of infantry sprang forward in the darkness.

As in previous battles, Monastery hill and the mountain mass north and west of Cassino figured importantly in the fighting, since they dominate the surrounding terrain. At the outset of the attack the Nazis loosed the gates of the Rapido river at Cassino and flooded the surrounding country, but allied flyers reported the advance there was going "about as scheduled." British and Indian forces of the 8th army crossed the Rapido and Gari rivers in the early hours.

A number of German prisoners were reported captured in the early hours and several German tanks knocked out. A ground mist over the battle field at some points afforded cover to allied sappers working on Nazi emplacements.

The Germans had massed many hundreds of guns, including huge 170 millimeter rifles, to back up the fixed fortifications and craggy hills up which the allied warriors must crawl to get at the enemy's pillboxes. In addition, there were hundreds of mortars and thousands of mines protecting the main Gustav line. Some 10 miles behind the Gustav line is the Adolf Hitler line, reputedly of equal strength.

Six months ago air reconnaissance disclosed that the Nazis were blasting and pouring concrete for a deep belt of strongpoints from Cassino back 10 miles or more toward Rome, which is some 80 miles away. The enemy also has demolished the once important seaports of Formia and Gaeta, just ahead of the allied advance.

All had been in readiness for the big assault for more than a week. In the extensive regrouping carried out by the allies the British 8th army was transferred from the Adriatic sector across the Apennine mountains to the Cassino area, and Gen. Clark's 5th army moved into new positions along the Garigliano river front.

No Mention of Anzio.

There was no mention of unusual activity on the Anzio beachhead, some 50 miles up the coast from where Clark's army is engaged. Allied warships ranging off the coast rained shells into enemy positions west of the Garigliano river.

Artillery Capt. John Corcoran of 3534 N. Fremont st., Chicago, said the concentration of big guns in this show was greater than at El Guetar in the North African campaign.

Lt. Gen. Oliver Leese, commander of the 8th army, warned that "the defenses we now are attacking are the strongest the British army has encountered in the present war. Our success will only be achieved thru a series of hard fought encounters in which the infantry will have strong artillery and armored support and the backing of the powerful British and American air force."

In a bulletin announcing the start of the operation, allied headquarters said:

"Regrouping of the allied armies in Italy has now been successfully completed without enemy interference. Complicated and heavy road and rail movements of men and material have been smoothly carried out.

"It has made heavy calls on all administrative services. All formations have been involved. Despite bad weather and difficult terrain the regrouping has been accomplished on time. The 5th and 8th armies directed by Gen. Alexander and supported by the Mediterranean tactical air force began an attack against the Gustav line at 11 p. m. on May 11."

NAZIS TELL OF BATTLE

LONDON, May 12 (AP).—Berlin radio today located one of the main American blows of the Italian offensive near Castelforte, 13 miles south of Cassino, and said the United States troops had gained ground but then had been "defeated before they had been able to settle down."

The German account pictured 5th army attacks along a general line south and southwest from San Ambrogio—a town some seven miles below Cassino—to the coast near Minturno.

Report Heavy Fighting.

Castelforte is about six miles inland from the Tyrrhenian sea, and is about two miles west of the Garigliano river.

"In the area of Castelforte, fighting was particularly heavy," said the broadcast quoting a German war correspondent. "After having fulfilled their orders German field troops, withdrawing to the first defense line, left the field to German heavy arms. The American formations following up were exposed to extremely violent German artillery fire and suffered very heavy casualties.

"At the same time several German shock commandos carried out a counter-blow with such vehemence that the Americans were defeated before they had been able to settle down."

Coastal Area Attacked.

Fifth army reconnaissance thrusts began Wednesday afternoon along the coastal sector, the broadcast continued, "in particular in the district of the shore road as well as in the areas of Minturno, Castelforte, and San Ambrogio."

The "Anglo-Americans" attacked in this general area with reënforced formations this morning, it added.

Minturno is near the coast, about five miles southwest of Castelforte, and San Ambrogio is about midway between Castelforte and Cassino, near the Garigliano and Liri rivers.

Capt. John L. Corcoran, 3534 Fremont st., artillery officer who participated in the barrage that opened yesterday's new allied offensive in Italy and later told of its magnitude, was commissioned two years ago after attending officer candidate school at Fort Sill, Okla. He enlisted in the army as a private nearly three years ago.

His wife is the former Victoria Johnson. They have a 6 month old daughter, Kathleen, whom Capt. Corcoran last saw when she was a few days old. A graduate of Lake View High school, he attended night school at Northwestern university and worked in the tabulating department of the Northern Trust company. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur J. Corcoran, live at 702 Barry av.

"John always was athletic," his mother said proudly yesterday. "He once was offered a chance to go with the St. Louis Cardinals, but he passed it up. He's a wonderful boy."

NIGHT SPLIT BY BLINDING LIGHTS AS DRIVE BEGINS

BY SEYMOUR KORMAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WITH THE 5TH ARMY ON THE MAIN FRONT IN ITALY, May 12.—For three hours last night I waited on a hill overlooking the Garigliano river valley for the zero hour of the new allied drive against the Germans' Gustav line in Italy.

Then, at 11 o'clock, the big guns were unleashed and the night was split by blinding lights — white, orange, and red. Tracer shells from the Bofors guns went up in a fireworks tracery and gracefully curved down to the enemy held hills.

The roar was continual and terrific. Incendiaries, high explosives, fragmentation missiles from Long Tom 155 millimeter rifles, 4.5 rifles, 105 and 155 howitzers thudded into the German nests. Seventy-fives also joined the show.

Greatest Barrage.

The fire power and din when the first lanyards were pulled was much greater than at the crossing of the Volturno river last October. At that time nearly 500 American and British artillery pieces were employed.

The artillery tactic used last night is known as "time on target." This means that the range and time of flight of all shells were taken into account. The more remote field pieces were fired first, then at carefully calculated intervals the guns nearer the objective went off—the effect being that all the shells arrived in a devastating mass at the target at the same time. The alternative artillery technique is to fire all the guns at the same instant, the shells arriving periodically.

A French officer standing near me watched the display with delight. He was a veteran artillery man of the first war. "Magnifique!" he enthused.

Nazis Fear 'Magic Fire.'

And it was that, even tho the purpose of that concentration was as lethal as ever in a world conflict. The Germans were getting another dose of that "magic fire" they have always feared.

For 40 minutes the allied guns wreaked their destruction. Toward the end of that period and immediately afterward our infantry went forward. The Germans, as at Volturno, withheld their fire during the allied cannonading, but the enemy mortars, flame throwers, machine guns, and machine pistols which had survived the big guns opened up to contest the G. I.'s, Tommies, and Frenchmen as the latter surged up the hills. Hand to hand struggles were occurring all along the line.

By the standards of the last 40 minutes, there was comparative quiet as I descended the hill. Incongruously, there were audible the sweet notes of nightingales.

First Tax Penalty Date Expected to Be July 1

William Lake, chief clerk in the county treasurer's office, said yesterday that it was virtually certain the first penalty date for 1943 taxes would be July 1. He said effort is being made to have all bills mailed to taxpayers by June 1. This year's tax rate in Chicago will be $3.90 on $100 of full valuation, compared with $10.42 on a 37 per cent assessment for 1942. It has been forecast that tax bills for most property owners will be little different this year.

Crimea Drive Ends

Russians mop up axis force.

LONDON, May 12 (AP).—The Red army wiped out the last axis remnants trapped west of Sevastopol on Cape Khersones today, Moscow announced tonight. This action ended a five week old Crimean campaign in which 111,687 Germans and Romanians were killed or captured.

The axis toll apparently was even greater, because Moscow's bulletin said that Russian planes and ships of the Black sea fleet sank 191 ships, including 69 transports and 56 landing barges which the enemy was using both for supply and evacuation during the Crimean debacle.

More than 20,000 Germans and Romanians were killed in the final three day battle which toppled Sevastopol last Tuesday, and more than 50,000 were killed in the overall 34 day campaign which began April 8, the bulletin said. A total of 61,687 enemy troops was captured in the campaign.

Indications that a big battle was raging on the west bank of the lower Dnestr river the Russian bulletin said that 4,000 Germans had been killed and 100 enemy tanks destroyed in a two day repulse of heavy axis attacks northwest of Tiraspol.

ITALY DRIVE SEEN AS NO. 1 OF A BIG ONE-TWO PUNCH

BY WES GALLAGHER.

LONDON, May 12 (AP).—The full scale allied offensive mounted in Italy today brightened invasion hopes on this soldier filled island. Every one viewed it as a preliminary blow to an assault on the European fortress from the west.

As Gen. Alexander drew German troops into a death struggle in Italy, Gen. Eisenhower prepared the blow from here.

The position was likened to that of a boxer delivering a one-two punch. Alexander is hitting Hitler with the "one" punch; Eisenhower is expected to deliver the crushing "two," while Stalin delivers a mighty kick from the rear.

Ground gains—which can be expected to be very slow—are not considered important in Italy. The main thing is to engage as many German troops as possible and to inflict on them the greatest possible attrition. Every Nazi soldier killed in Italy means one less to deal with along the west wall.

Nazi controled radios, apparently surprised by the allied Italian offensive, said "D-day" of the allied invasion had come—and hinted strongly that a counter-invasion of Britain might be Field Marshal Erwin Rommel's defense. Axis reports said a picked German attack force spearheaded by paratroops would strike at England the moment the allied invasion began.

SHIP EXPLOSION KILLS SAILOR; 16 OTHERS MISSING

Boston, Mass., May 12 (AP).—An enlisted man died of burns and 16 others were reported missing as the result of an explosion and fire aboard a navy lighter while its crew was dumping old and condemned ammunition Thursday afternoon about 14 miles northeast of Boston harbor. Thirteen men survived.

First naval district headquarters said cause of the blast was undetermined and that a court of inquiry had been organized.

The explosion and fire came after the crew of the lighter had dumped about two-thirds of the cargo of condemned ammunition from the Hingham depot. The 132 foot vessel sank 35 minutes after the blast. Survivors, who had no time to cut loose rafts or other gear to keep them afloat, were rescued from the water by a navy weather vessel which was passing only 2,000 yards away when the blast occurred.

Those rescued included Machinist's Mate 1st Class William J. Bradley of Newport, R. I. He died today, however, of third degree burns. Among those surviving was Lt. Robert V. Knox, Springfield, Ill.

5 NAZI PLANES SHOT DOWN IN CONVOY RAID IN MEDITERRANEAN

ALGIERS, Algeria, May 12 (AP).—British and French fighter pilots knocked down five German planes and damaged others attacking an allied convoy in the western Mediterranean, coastal air force headquarters said today, without disclosing whether the convoy suffered damage.

Headquarters said 25 to 30 German planes attacked the convoy in two waves with torpedoes.

[The Berlin radio said Nazi planes sank a destroyer and seven freighters in an attack Thursday night on a convoy in the western Mediterranean. It said a cruiser and three destroyers were put out of action.]

Maj. Lodge in Hospital; Stricken on Italian Front

Washington, D. C., May 12 (AP).—The war department announced today that Maj. Henry Cabot Lodge, former Republican senator from Massachusetts, recently in action in Italy, is at Walter Reed hospital here with an intestinal disorder which may require an operation.

"Soon after action duty on the main Italian front," an announcement said, "Maj. Lodge suffered an acute intestinal disorder and was returned to the United States for hospitalization."

Gainesville, Tex., May 12 (AP).—Capt. B. M. Weathers of Elkton, Ky., and 1st Lt. Robert A. Landon, River Rouge, Mich., were killed yesterday when their plane crashed near Camp Howze, the field public relations officer announced today.

Wisconsin Cadet Killed.

Douglas, Ariz., May 12 (AP).—A Douglas army air field training plane crashed last midnight killing two cadets, the army reported today. One of the victims was Robert R. Rowe, 20, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Rowe, Fond Du Lac, Wis.

7 Killed in Crash.

Del Rio, Tex., May 12 (AP).—Seven officers and enlisted men were killed in a collision of two army training planes four miles east of the main airdrome at Laughlin field today. The dead and their nearest of kin included 2d Lt. Evan C. Acklin, aunt, Mrs. Marshall M. Uhl, 429 Washington, Grand Rapids, Mich.

Crash Kills Navy Flyer.

Seattle, Wash., May 12 (AP).—The 13th naval district announced tonight the naval aviator killed in the crash of a navy plane Wednesday near The Dalles, Ore., was Ensign Albert W. Johnson, of Potomac Mills, Va.

TWELVE LOSE GAS RATIONS.

Local rationing boards this week disciplined 12 motorists charged with speeding or using gasoline for pleasure trips by the revocation of their rations for varying periods, Paul A. H. Shult, acting OPO area director, reported yesterday.

SOUTH DAKOTA BIDS BELOVED SKIPPER ADIEU

Every Eye Is Moist When Capt. Gatch Leaves.

The former chaplain of the famed battleship South Dakota has told the story of two great battles in previous articles in this series, called "God on a Battle Wagon." Here he describes his commanding officer, who was wounded seriously by a Japanese bomb in the first battle, when the South Dakota's gunners shot down 32 enemy planes.

BY CAPT. JAMES V. CLAYPOOL.
[Chaplain Corps, United States Naval Reserve.]
AS TOLD TO CARL WIEGMAN.
[Copyright: 1944: By The Chicago Tribune.]

The old phrase "officer and a gentleman" can be applied correctly to many officers of the United States navy, but in describing Capt. Thomas Leigh Gatch, the skipper of the battleship South Dakota, I must amend the phrase to call him an officer, a gentleman, and a Christian, in the best sense of all those words.

Thomas L. Gatch.

The navy recognizes the value of religion and makes a place for it in routine. I knew this when I reported for duty as chaplain of the South Dakota in March, 1942, but I knew also that the importance of religion on board would depend largely on the attitude of the commanding officer.

Captain Accepts Invitation.

It was with considerable apprehension, therefore, that I prepared for my first interview with the captain. I knew he was a strict disciplinarian, not an easy man to please. I was told that his steely, gray eyes could drill thru a man. So I was somewhat nervous when I went to him shortly after the ship was commissioned and said:

"Sir, next Sunday will be the first church service on board. I should like very much to have you attend and read the scripture lesson."

He looked me in the eye, hesitated just a moment, and replied: "I'll do it. Send me a memo on what you want me to read."

I trust he didn't hear my sigh of relief.

Sunday came, and we rigged for church in one of the mess compartments. I had sent the captain a memo on the text for the day, and I prepared the Bible, with the text marked. To my surprise, he came to the service carrying his own big family Bible, and read the lesson from it in a firm, clear voice. The crew was much impressed, and to tell the truth, so was I.

Reads Scripture Often.

While it is the custom in the British navy for the captain to read the scripture lesson, this is not done on all American ships. But, from that first Sunday, it was done by Capt. Gatch at every service except when we were under way and he was on the bridge. At such times, his second in command, the executive officer, read the lesson.

We spent June and July in shakedown cruises, and sailed for the Pacific in August. One day I looked at the morning orders, the work plan for the day, which is posted thruout the ship, and was astonished to see a paragraph signed by the commanding officer. In the stilted, official language of a navy communication, he directed attention to our church services and encouraged all officers and men to attend.

Line officers told me they had never seen such a thing before. I was very grateful, feeling that, in addition to the navy's authorization for my work, I had received the captain's personal blessing.

Gatch Adored by Crew.

Thereafter, the captain frequently called me to his cabin for long conversations. The welfare of the crew was constantly in his thoughts. He drilled them unmercifully in gunnery and, all kinds of battle problems, torpedo hits, gas attacks, fire control, but the crew adored him.

"He doesn't make us keep dressed up, our shoes shined, our hair cut, and all that molly molly," an electrician's mate remarked to me one day, summing up his opinion of the skipper.

Capt. Gatch spent a good deal of time on personal legal problems of members of the crew. The navy had sent him to law school after he was graduated from Annapolis and he served in the judge advocate general's office for several years after World War I. One day he drew up a model will, admissible under the laws of any state, and encouraged me to have every one on board draft one in his own handwriting. In the months that followed, I notarized many wills, all of them copied from the captain's model.

Even Napoleon a Believer.

The skipper was a great student of the Civil war, and would talk for hours about the battle strategy of Grant and Lee. He also had read nearly everything printed about Napoleon. One day he summoned me and pointed to several paragraphs in a biography of the great French general.

"See here," he said. "People say Napoleon was an unbeliever. Look what he says here."

In my next sermon, I quoted the paragraphs, in which Napoleon confessed his faith in a divine being. The captain said the sermon was a good one.

But I did not always please him. One day the executive officer, Comdr. A. E. Uehlinger, quoted to me Tennyson's lines from "Sir Galahad," "My strength is as the strength of 10 because my heart is pure." This gave me an idea for a sermon. I preached it the following Sunday, referring to Sir Galahad and Elaine. After the service, Capt. Gatch stopped me.

"You made a terrible mistake," he said. "Elaine wasn't Sir Galahad's wife. She was his girl friend."

Chaplain Watches Step.

Thereafter, I saw to it that I knew what I was talking about whenever I quoted any poetry. I was especially careful about the works of Shakespeare, because Capt. Gatch told me he guessed he had read "Hamlet" at least 200 times.

The crew's affection for Capt. Gatch was very evident after he was wounded in our first battle. Reports on his condition were the chief topic of conversation for many days. Wounded men transferred to a hospital ship begged to be allowed to return if Capt. Gatch remained as the commanding officer.

In the sick bay, the skipper was not a good patient. I went in to see him one day and heard him denouncing the medical officers, who, he said, were keeping him from going back on the bridge. He swore they didn't know their business, and ought to be put ashore. I defended them with some heat, because his complaints were unreasonable and he knew it.

Convalescing, Hears Service.

In reply, he looked at me, pulling his upper lip down over the lower in an expression of stern disapproval, but he didn't say another word about the medical officers.

When the captain was well enough to be moved to his own cabin, he asked if I could rig church on the first super-structure just outside his cabin, so he could hear the service. I did that, and he sent me a note of thanks.

As the skipper recuperated, his impatience increased. I found him fuming one day and read to him Wordsworth's "Character of a Happy Warrior," suggesting that he ought to be a happy warrior, too. He said nothing, but thereafter he seemed to be slightly more patient.

His wound pained him greatly for some time, and he was unable to sleep. He told me how he paced his cabin most of the night, and added: "Padre, when I can't sleep, I find I can get the most comfort and peace out of reading the psalms."

Tears Mark Skipper's Farewell.

The first church service attended by Capt. Gatch after his recovery was his last service on board, for he had been ordered to duty in Washington. It was our Christmas service of 1942. On Christmas eve he called me to his cabin and very courteously asked, "When I read the lesson tomorrow, do you mind if I say a few words?"

I assured him it would be very fitting if he would.

When the time came, church was packed, for word had spread that he was leaving us. I announced that the captain wanted to say a few words. He arose, scowling at us.

"I suppose you men realize I'm going to be detached from the ship," he said gruffly.

Then he started to say something about what he thought of his men, but he choked up and sat down abruptly, without finishing. His eyes were wet, and so were the eyes of every man present.

Salutes His Battle Wagon.

Capt. Gatch went to a hospital for treatment when we reached the Brooklyn navy yard for repairs of battle damage. His last visit to the ship was on Jan. 31, 1943, when he returned to sign the papers transferring the ship's property to his successor, Capt. L. D. McCormick.

When we learned that the Old Man was aboard, all the officers gathered on the quarterdeck to see him go. Enlisted men crowded every vantage point. This was not the time for cheering and we were silent as he came out on the quarterdeck and shook hands with Capt. McCormick. As is the custom whenever officers leave the ship, he saluted the officer of the deck, then the colors, and walked slowly down the gangway.

The customary officer's leavetaking was finished, but Capt. Gatch had one more farewell to make—his own. At the foot of the gangway he turned on his heel and faced us. He saluted the whole ship, shouted, "God bless you," and walked down the pier away from the ship—his ship.

Declines Car to Walk.

We were all deeply moved. I regretted keenly that I had not anticipated his ordeal and done something to make it easier.

"Some of us should have walked with the Old Man down the pier," I told the executive officer.

"Offered to have a car at the foot of the gangway, but the Old Man said no, he didn't want it," the exec replied. "He wanted to walk away from the ship himself."

The exec hurriedly averted his face.

Capt. Gatch is now judge advocate general of the navy and is a rear admiral. He wears the navy cross for his gallantry on the South Dakota. But he was not happy about the personal publicity he received when the navy made public the name of "Battleship X" and her exploits. In a letter to me when the ship was back in the Pacific, he criticized an account of our battles by saying:

"Too much gossip about me in it, I thought. Makes me a sort of Rollo boy or something. I remember a remark in one of Dumas' books, 'It is degrading to be thanked for having done one's duty'."

[In tomorrow's article Chaplain Claypool tells the story of the battleship South Dakota's service in the Atlantic, where it supported the British home fleet while British units helped in the invasion of Sicily.]

Clark Gable Is Visitor in Chicago

Brings New Film

Capt. Clark Gable, former motion picture star and now an officer in the army air forces, paid a brief visit to Chicago yesterday en route from Hollywood to Washington, D. C., where he will deliver, "Combat America," a film he made abroad.

The captain, with smiles for all and autographs for none of the eager young women who clamored for his attention, checked his baggage from the Santa Fe Chief and then hurried to arrange reservations on a Washington bound train. He was wearing a summer weight officer's uniform, which bore the campaign ribbons and the air medal which he was awarded for his service over enemy territory in the European theater.

Gable declined to answer questions regarding his plans.

10 MILLION VETS TO WANT LOANS, HOUSE IS TOLD

Washington, D. C., May 12 (AP).—Ten million American war veterans will be in the market for government backed loans after the war, but none of them wants "charity," the house was told today.

The estimate of the number of men and women who will avail themselves of loan provisions of the "G. I. bill of rights" was given by Rep. Cunningham [R., Ia.] during house debate on the over-all veterans' aid measure expected to be passed late next week. Cunningham said the estimate came from the veterans administration, which will administer the bill.

Should they borrow the full amount provided by the senate—$1,000—loans would total 10 billion dollars. Should they borrow the maximum, as set up by the house committee on veterans legislation, the total would reach 15 billion dollars, half of which would be guaranteed by the government.

The senate measure would authorize the veterans administration to make the loans, while the house committee emphasizes the advancement of credit by private agencies with a government guarantee of 50 per cent of any loan up to $1,500.

U.S. FLYERS BAG 150 NAZI PLANES; RAID OIL PLANTS

Leipzig Area Hit by 2,000 Aircraft.

LONDON, May 13 [Saturday] (AP).—Smashing thru swarms of German fighters in one of the war's fiercest aerial battles, an American sky fleet of 2,000 bombers and fighters yesterday struck at five German synthetic oil plants. The Americans shot down 150 enemy planes at a cost of 42 bombers and 10 fighters.

A total of more than 3,000 allied planes based in Britain hammered German targets by daylight. Last night another great fleet of British bombers struck into German occupied territory. The targets were not immediately identified.

Fly Into Czechoslovakia.

Yesterday's main blow was delivered in the Leipzig area, where the Germans had concentrated four important refineries. In addition two formations of Flying Fortresses flew across the border into Czechoslovakia for the first time in the war and bombed another German operated oil plant at Brux.

It was on this stab that the most savage fighting of the day occurred. As many as 250 German fighters challenged the Americans.

The bulletin of the United States strategic air forces said that "strong enemy fighter resistance was encountered." Returning crewmen declared that they had come thru battles more terrible than any fought in the great daylight attacks on Berlin.

Sgt. Donald Hubbardt of Taylorville, Ill., a Fortress waist gunner; Sgt. Henry Judge of Garwin, Ia., tail gunner, and Sgt. Peter Koral of New Lenox, Ill., gunner, took part in the raid.

"Good Results" Observed.

The American airmen saw their bombs drop with what the bulletin described as "good results" on the assigned targets. These targets included oil plants at Merseburg, 18 miles west of Leipzig; at Lutzkendorf in the same general area; Bohlen, just outside Leipzig, and Zietz, 25 miles southwest of Leipzig. The planes also hit an aircraft repair plant and railway yards at Zwickau, south of Leipzig.

Besides the strategic success against the oil plants, the bombers and fighters dealt the German air force its heaviest blow since 176 German planes were shot down in the March 6 assault on Berlin. Of the 150 enemy planes destroyed yesterday, bomber gunners accounted for 84 and fighter pilots 66.

German fighter opposition was almost non-existent as hundreds of American and British medium and light bombers and fighter-bombers pounded air fields and railroads in France and Belgium.

DEATH RULED A SUICIDE.

A verdict of suicide while despondent because of illness was returned by a coroner's jury yesterday at the inquest into the drowning of Mrs. Pearl Carney, 57, of 1453 Olive av., in Lake Michigan at the rear of 5655 Sheridan rd. Thursday.

U. S. FLYER DOWNS 5 NAZI PLANES IN ONE DAY TO TIE RECORD

A FIGHTER BASE IN ENGLAND, May 12 (AP).—Lt. Robert Rankin, 25, Washington, D. C., Thunderbolt pilot, shot down five Nazi planes today in air battles over Germany, tying the record for a single day's kill. He declined to claim three others which would have given him the record. The three he refused to claim were enemy planes whose pilots bailed out without fighting. Lt. Rankin's camera proved kills of five ME-109s in a 45 minute melee north of Frankfort. This feat tied the joint record of Lt. Carl J. Luksic, Joliet, Ill., who bagged five German planes May 8, and Capt. Robert E. Moody, Roanoke, Va., who downed five April 24. The five brought Rankin's total to nine, all in the air.

Lt. Robert Rankin.

Washington, D. C., May 12.—The United States, Great Britain, and Russia today modified the "unconditional surrender" doctrine for axis satellites, but not for Germany or Japan.

In a joint ultimatum the allied powers called upon Hungary, Romania, Bulgaria, and Finland to surrender now, warning that terms will get more and more stringent as victory approaches. The ultimatum was directed to these nations over allied radios.

The joint offer of less rigorous terms than "unconditional surrender" followed a number of separate warnings issued in recent months to various satellites by the three powers.

Called Upon to Quit.

The United States has repeatedly called upon Finland to get out of the war, urging acceptance of Russian terms as an alternative to more rigorous terms on the collapse of Germany. Russia has called upon Bulgaria to surrender now or share war responsibility with Germany.

Romania was called upon to quit the war last month by the United States and Britain. It was understood Romania was offered what the allies consider to be lenient terms.

The ultimatum said German defeat is inevitable. It added that the satellites still have a short time to help hasten the end of the war by halting aid to Germany. In return for such action the nations can expect more favorable treatment from the allies than they will get at the end of the war if they go down with the axis.

It was reported that there is no intention of modification of the "unconditional surrender" formula, which was promulgated by President Roosevelt at the Casablanca conference with Prime Minister Churchill, for either Germany or Japan. It was also said that the satellites cannot expect to be absolved of all war responsibility by surrendering now, but can expect such a step would immeasurably improve their post-war relations with the allies.

Text of Offer.

The text of the bargain peace offer follows:

"Thru the fateful policy of their leaders, the people of Hungary are suffering the humiliation of German occupation. Romania is still bound to the Nazis in a war now bringing devastation to its own people. The governments of Bulgaria and Finland have placed their countries in the service of Germany and remain in the war at Germany's side.

"The governments of Great Britain, the Soviet Union, and the United States think it right that these peoples should realize the following facts:

"1. The axis satellites, Hungary, Romania, Bulgaria and Finland, despite their realization of the inevitability of a crushing Nazi defeat and their desire to get out of the war, are by their present policies and attitudes contributing materially to the strength of the German war machine.

Urged to Resist Nazis.

"2. These nations still have it within their power, by withdrawing from the war and ceasing their collaboration with Germany and by resisting the forces of Naziism by every possible means, to shorten the European struggle, diminish their own ultimate sacrifices and contribute to the allied victory.

"3. While these nations cannot escape their responsibility for having participated in the war at the side of Nazi Germany, the longer they continue at war in collaboration with Germany the more disastrous will be the consequences to them and the more rigorous will be the terms which will be imposed upon them.

"4. These nations must therefore decide now whether they intend to persist in their present hopeless and calamitous policy of opposing the inevitable allied victory, while there is yet time for them to contribute to that victory."

A DEAD GUNNER SAVES CREW OF TRAPPED PLANE

Boston, Mass., May 12 (AP).—A Flying Fortress turret gunner who "froze" in death to the controls of his weapon was credited today with saving the lives of other members of the crew when they were trapped by eight German fighters over Germany.

Lt. Sam R. Turner, pilot of the Fortress, said that Sgt. Joseph Moloney, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Moloney of Boston, kept his gun in apparent action, even in death, and supplied protection which enabled the Fortress to escape into Switzerland.

In a letter to Moloney's mother, Turner, now in Florida, wrote: "Only a quirk of fate saved the men in the plane, the front of which was blown away. Sgt. Moloney, who had been badly wounded, died. His hands closed on the grips of the gun, causing the turret ball to continue to rotate. The Germans apparently believed the gunner was still alive and shooting, so dared not try an attack from the bottom, giving time and protection to fly the wounded plane into Switzerland."

Turner said the plane hit a great lake with "terrific force," but all escaped.

THIS 'BOMERANG' BACK IN SPITE OF ITS MISSING 'O'

Capt. Walter T. Stewart, a Mormon missionary from Salt Lake City, Utah, and his gallant crew of 12, all of whom have engaged in 50 or more missions in Europe and the Mediterranean, flew into Chicago yesterday in their famous Liberator bomber, Bomerang.

Since flying their famous ship back across the Atlantic two weeks ago, the men have toured war plants in the east and visited materiel command installations at Milwaukee and Racine, Wis., in the interest of home morale.

The world famed Bomerang acquired its strange name, Capt. Stewart revealed, when a girl who was painting on the insignia misspelled "boomerang." Living up to its original nickname, the ship recently rounded out its 50th mission in a raid on Bremen, Germany. The crew includes Sgt. John E. Burchall of 724 E. 87th pl., Chicago.

REPORT HITLER ORDERS PEACE DRIVE BY PAPEN

BY SAM BREWER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ISTANBUL, Turkey, May 11 [Delayed].—Franz von Papen, German ambassador to Turkey, who returned from Germany to Istanbul Tuesday night, brought with him from Adolf Hitler authority to launch a vigorous "peace offensive" an axis source disclosed today.

Papen's mission is to work on the Americans so as to split them and the British from their Russian allies, thereby reversing the war lineup with the thought that we will help keep the Russians out of Germany on pleas of "saving Europe from bolshevism," it was said.

Basis for Plan.

Papen was reported to believe, as one of diplomacy's cleverest agitators, that he can sell the Americans the idea that their interests in the European war really lie on the German side and that most Germans really are peaceable people who do not want to fight the Anglo-Americans, but are willing to shed blood in protecting other people from communism. Being Nazi Germany's professional non-Nazi, Papen was said to think he is the obvious man to arrange a deal.

Papen definitely went to Germany for a spanking last April 26. Members of his mission had been deserting right and left, and he had lost Turkey's chrome. But the most important point was that Papen had long been grooming himself to become Germany's Badoglio [Marshal Pietro Badoglio, premier of Italy]. Hitler did not care to play Mussolini to any one's Badoglio.

Knows Nazis Can't Win.

Papen had been working many months to establish a roundabout contact with the Americans, it was understood here, but naturally exercised extreme caution.

Thruout his long career, Papen has maintained a reputation for "spilling the beans," but has kept a high position because he also has the gift for talking people into things.

He has insisted for the last two years in Ankara's inner diplomatic circles that Germany cannot win the war, but will not lose it because he can talk the allies into a compromise on the basis of a subsequent alliance against Russia. Now Papen's theory is being put to the test.

Report Resignation Rejected.

When Papen left here on emergency summons to Hitler's headquarters, it was said in axis circles that either his checkered career was approaching an abrupt end or that Nazi inner circles had become convinced the jig was up. Now these sources report he went home in disgrace and tendered his resignation, but found Hitler in a frame of mind to forgive past slips if Papen could make good on a peace scheme as Hitler's agent instead of his successor.

Allied circles consulted here today agreed that a peace offensive is most probable, but scoffed at the idea that it would receive serious consideration.

BURSTING SHELL PIERCES DINING CAR; 2 INJURED

San Maria, Cal., May 12 (AP).—More than a dozen shell fragments pierced a dining car unit of the northbound Southern Pacific Daylight Limited today, injuring two Negro women dishwashers, one seriously.

Witnesses said the shell, apparently launched from the land side, had gone over the train, struck the nearby beach, and fragments then hit the car.

The accident occurred at Tangair, 55 miles north of Santa Barbara.

The arm of Verti Logan, Los Angeles, making her first trip as a dishwasher, was severed at the shoulder, and Alice Jones, 39, Los Angeles, suffered face injuries.

Killed in Plunge

KILLED IN FALL FROM 8TH FLOOR ON MICHIGAN AV.

Arno B. Reincke, organizer and president of the advertising firm of Reincke-Ellis-Younggreen & Finn, Inc., was killed yesterday when he fell from a window of his eighth floor office in the McGraw-Hill building, 520 N. Michigan av.

His body landed on the sidewalk of Michigan av. in front of the building. It missed several pedestrians, one a woman, who screamed in fright.

Son Arrives at Scene.

Reincke's son, Charles A. Reincke, secretary of the company, arrived on the scene with Wallace Meyer, executive vice president, less than 60 seconds later. Seeing a crowd around the body, he stepped over, looked, and exclaimed, "That's dad's suit!" He went upstairs to his father's office, found it vacant and a window open, then collapsed.

Associates of Reincke said they believed he fell accidentally. His son said Reincke had been suffering from dizzy spells in recent years, and that he usually carried a canvas camp stool with him to sit upon in case of a seizure.

Offers Theory in Fall.

This stool was found at the window. It was folded. Reincke's son theorized his father had planned to sit at the window for fresh air, and that in opening the window he became dizzy, and lost his balance. The sill is low.

Reincke was 64 and lived in the Edgewater Beach apartments, 5555 Sheridan rd. He was born and educated in Chicago. His first job was as a salesman. Then in 1907 he organized his advertising firm. He was a member of the Chicago Athletic association and the Exmoor Country club. In addition to his son Charles he leaves his widow, Edith, and another son, Corp. Arthur L. of Camp Ord, Cal., and a daughter, Mrs. Ione C. Evans, wife of Norman Evans, an artist who is now an army private.

REPORTS WAR FILLS MIDWEST HOSPITALS 95%

Because of wartime, crowding civilian hospitals of the midwest are setting a record of 95 to 100 per cent continuous occupancy, it was revealed at the semi-annual meeting of the University Hospitals Executive council yesterday in the Palmer House.

Sixteen members representing middle western universities attended the round table session, presided over by Dr. Harley Haynes of the University of Michigan.

The meeting took up problems common to teaching hospitals, including costs, rationing, priorities, wage sales, commodities, food supplies and personnel. The latter was termed one of the most serious in view of loss of professional employes to the armed services.

The meeting reelected Dr. Haynes as chairman and Leo Smelzer of the University of Wisconsin as secretary.

R. A. F. Pilot Shoots Down 29th Plane Over Denmark

LONDON, May 12 (AP). — Wing Commander J. R. D. Braham, 24, a pilot of a Mosquito, became the top scoring R. A. F. ace still flying combat missions by shooting down his 29th plane today. Braham's latest conquest was a Focke-Wulf 190 over Denmark.

FEAR 11 KILLED IN HOTEL BLAZE ON WEST COAST

Oroville, Cal., May 11 (AP).—A hundred soldiers, working in shifts, searched the smoldering ruins of the 70 room Union hotel tonight for additional bodies after an early morning fire that killed at least four persons and injured a score. City fire officials said that seven persons are missing.

Where fire occurred.

Coroner W. H. Forward said that four bodies had been recovered from the collapsed three story building and two of them had been identified. Firemen said the blaze was believed to have started when an oil drum housed in a shed behind the hotel exploded.

More than 100 guests in the structure, built in 1862, escaped. Damage was estimated at $100,000.

The dead are Miss Louello Knott, former Butte county auditor; S. L. Harrigan of Roseville, a railroad brakeman; a man believed to be Herbert C. Brown, Oroville cab driver, and a man believed to be a soldier, altho no identification tag was found.

D-DAY SYMBOL HELPING ARMY GUARD SECRET

Because military operations must be planned well in advance and must be kept secret, the army long has resorted to symbols to designate time of execution. Thus, D-day, now mentioned frequently in dispatches from the European theater, means the day on which the invasion of continental Europe is to be started. Similarly, H-hour is the exact time for starting the action. To allow commanders sufficient time to prepare their forces for an operation, a complete battle plan is given to them. This plan calls for action at H-hour on D-day. When the officers subsequently receive a message designating H-hour and D-day, they will have final instructions.

ILLNESS FORCES REP. DIES OUT OF CONGRESS RACE

Throat Operation Advised by Physician.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 12.—A physician's orders today forced a halt at the age of 43 to the public career of one of the most colorful men in congress and its outstanding foe of communism — Rep. Martin Dies [D., Tex.], chairman of the house committee on un-American activities since its creation six years ago.

Rep. Dies.

A throat ailment which will necessitate an operation and prevent him from speaking for at least two months caused Dies to announce his withdrawal from the race for Democratic renomination in the 2d congressional district of Texas, which he has served for 13 years.

A Parting Blast.

Dies issued a parting blast against "a powerful coalition of New Dealers, Communists, Socialists, and racketeers strongly entrenched in our government, labor unions, and industries" which, he warned, seeks to destroy our republican form of government.

Noted as one of the most powerful orators in the house, Dies, during the last four years, made frequent speaking tours in which he preached the dangers of the insidious growth of communism in the Roosevelt administration.

Two weeks ago, while at his home in Jasper, Tex., he developed a sore throat which made speaking difficult. He spent several days at a clinic in Galveston, Tex., and this morning consulted a throat specialist in Houston, Tex., who detected the presence of a malignant growth on the larynx and advised an early operation in addition to an immediate cessation of all public speaking.

Stress and Strain.

Dies may undergo the operation at the Mayo clinic in Rochester, Minn., or at a hospital in Philadelphia.

"The stress and strain under which I have worked and lived for so long a period brought on several illnesses and aggravated my present condition which may confine me to a hospital for some time," he said in a statement. "It would not be fair to my friends or the cause which I represent to submit the important issues involved in the coming contest under the physical handicap which I now suffer."

Dies would have been opposed in the Democratic primary by Former Judge J. M. Combs, of Beaumont, Tex., who announced his candidacy Thursday. With the filing period expiring next Monday, Combs may be unopposed for the nomination, which is equivalent to election.

Altho his illness precipitated his decision to retire, Dies said he had for some time contemplated a return to private life.

Dependent on Public Trough.

"I have always had a dread of becoming a professional politician dependent upon the public trough for my livelihood," he said. "It produces cowardice and a willingness to do anything to hold one's job.

"The enemies I have made in the fearless discharge of my duties are supplied with unlimited funds which they can spend without fear of prosecution. I do not believe it would be fair to my family to impoverish them in an attempt to match my nickels with their dollars. Neither am I willing to obligate myself by the assistance of contributions from others."

In this connection, Sidney Hillman's CIO political action committee has announced that Dies would be the shining target of that group's efforts to defeat congressional enemies of communism with a 2 million dollar slush fund. Combs, however, in announcing his candidacy, said he "wanted no part of the CIO" in making the race.

The most recent action of the Dies committee was to issue a 215 page report which found that the Hillman group was controled by Communists who seek "to subvert the congress of the United States to their totalitarian program."

Temporary Setback.

"We must never become discouraged by temporary setbacks," Dies advised in revealing his withdrawal. "The people are becoming more and more aroused and informed every day. Eventually the hour of reckoning will arrive and the disillusioned citizenship will hold to strict accountability the Benedict Arnolds who now join with the enemies of our country for temporary gain.

"We cannot repeat too often or emphasize too strongly the grave danger our country faces from the enemies within our gates. If we are destroyed as a free country, I am confident it will come from within. There is a powerful coalition of New Dealers, Communists, Socialists, and racketeers strongly entrenched in our government, labor unions, and industries.

"They are united in a common aim to destroy our constitutional republic and substitute some form of dictatorship. They are succeeding to an extent which few citizens realize. Indeed our government has already been changed by intrigue and subterfuge. We are rapidly becoming an inefficient, expensive, and meddling burocracy which is the beginning of dictatorship. If this trend is to be reversed, the people must shake off their indifference and complacency."

Perhaps more than any other chairman of a special committee in the history of congress, Dies was identified with the activities of his investigating group. There were seven other members of the committee but little was heard of them. It was "the Dies committee" ever since it was established in 1938 to inquire into subversive movements in the United States.

Approved by House.

As chairman, Dies took the terrific volume of abuse which was leveled against the investigation whenever it examined the operations of communistic groups. He had enemies in the highest places and in the lowest—President Roosevelt and Walter Winchell being typical examples of the two extremes.

Year after year, however, the house, by overwhelming majorities, approved the work of the committee and voted it further funds to continue its activites. Its file on subversive activities became the most important collection of its kind.

The federal bureau of investigation consulted it frequently and, since the beginning of the war, representatives of the army and navy intelligence service have used it extensively.

A Taste of Home

Maj. Elias F. Desens enjoying an ice cream cone after return to Chicago from duty in the Pacific.

Home after 27 months in the South Pacific, the American dish his mouth most watered for was an ice cream cone, Maj. Elias F. Desens of 806 Ferdinand st., Forest Park, said yesterday. His wife, Eileen, quickly bought him a chocolate one.

Maj. Desens, who was an officer in the 33d division of the Illinois National Guard, went overseas on Jan. 23, 1942, and spent most of his Pacific duty with a quartermaster corps group on New Caledonia, trucking cargoes from shipside to warehouses. "An unglamorous job, but very necessary," he said.

"Chicago truck drivers are among the best in the army," he said proudly. He has returned on leave.

NYE GAINS FAVOR OF VOTERS WITH MACKINAC PLAN

BY ARTHUR M. EVANS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Grand Forks, N. D., May 12.—Sen. Nye [R., N. D.], against whom Atlantic seaboard internationalists are making a smear campaign, is running on a platform that endorses the Republican Mackinac program for coöperation with other nations to preserve peace after the war without relinquishment of American sovereignty.

Indications gathered from talks with dozens of men in constant touch with the farmers are that the Mackinac principles are as far as the citizenry goes. North Dakota, which is rated essentially nationalist instead of globalist, is pictured by one worlder publications as part of "the heart of the isolationist belt."

Many in Fargo, Bismarck, and Grand Forks assert that North Dakota is thinking a good deal like Wisconsin, which gave Wendell Willkie a goose egg in its April primary. The Wisconsin verdict is regarded here as a repudiation of Willkie's internationalist and one world theorizings.

Report Nye Gains.

Nye, who is in a stiff battle, is reported gaining ground. He is running on the slate of the regular Republican group.

His opponents in the Republican primary June 27 are Rep. Usher L. Burdick, who is on the slate of the Nonpartisan league group, and Lynn U. Stambaugh, independent.

At present, aside from the politicians, little interest is being shown in anything but the war and major domestic matters. It will be next month before the campaign goes into high. A light vote is looked for, somewhere around 140,000 Republican and 25,000 Democrat.

In Grand Forks and Fargo, home of Stambaugh, the latter is expected to get a heavy vote, but in the state as a whole he is expected to run third. The race is between Nye and Burdick.

Nye Sentiment Leads.

The senator's managers say their reports indicate Nye is leading in public sentiment today. If it were a two man race, opinion is general that Nye would have a walkaway.

Stambaugh is figured to cut into Nye more than into Burdick. Offsetting this, however, is the fact that many Nonpartisan leaguers in the rural regions and cities are reported for Nye.

In the campaign to smear Nye, his followers say that the book "Undercover" has been freely distributed. Copies have been sent to libraries all over the state. But it appears that the arsenic in it has been removed by the distribution of an article put in the Congressional Record by Sen. Wheeler [D., Mont.], written by John T. Flynn and entitled "Uncovering Undercover—the Real Facts About the Smear Book's Odd Author."

Few Have Read Smear.

One odd thing is that of all the North Dakotans whom I have talked with on this trip, none has said he has read "Undercover," tho some have said they have copies sent to them by some unknown.

Several of them, on the other hand, have pulled out of their pockets the reprint of Flynn's article exposing the book.

Wide circulation, too, has been given to a senate speech a few months ago by Nye entitled "Millions for Propaganda and Smear." In this, Nye accused the Communist Daily Worker, New York P. M., the New York Post, Dorothy Thompson, and other radio and newspaper commentators with misrepresenting him.

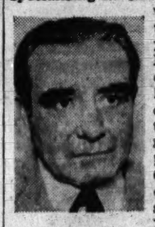
South Side Marine Killed in South Pacific Action

Pvt. Edward J. Burns of the marine corps was killed in action in the Pacific theater Feb. 14, according to word received yesterday by his brother, John, of 710 E. 91st pl. He previously had been reported missing by the war department. A graduate of St. Mary's school in Des Plaines, he was a truck driver until his enlistment two years ago. Surviving besides his brother is a sister, Mrs. Lucille Levatt. A memorial mass will be celebrated on his 24th birthday Tuesday, 9:30 a. m., in St. Joachim's church, 91st st. and Langley av.

WILLIAM W. O'BRIEN DISBARRED 2D TIME; FIVE OTHERS BANNED

William W. O'Brien, an attorney specializing in Criminal court cases, was disbarred for the second time yesterday by the Illinois Supreme court after he had been accused of accepting fees, then failing to render services promised. O'Brien, in and out of trouble since the early 1920s, lost his license in 1936, but was reinstated later.



William W. O'Brien.

Five other attorneys also were ordered disbarred, it was disclosed by Philip R. Davis, chairman of the information committee of Chicago Bar association. Davis said the five were Morris W. Lotterman, J. Willis Dix, Willert Beer, Harry I. Sternberg, and Michael Obartouch.

Lotterman, Dix, and Beer were accused of misusing money given them by clients and with failing to fulfill professional obligations. Sternberg was charged with forging a client's name, and Obartouch allegedly perjured himself by making contradictory statements in two different courts.

AMERICA FACES SLAVERY FROM WITHIN: WHERRY shores we were to sacrifice at home the great principles for which our men are fighting."

"Why sacrifice hundreds of thousands of lives?" he asked. "Why saddle ourselves with 300 billions of debt to win a war for freedom on foreign fronts only to lose our political and economic freedom at home?

"An excellent example of how quickly an irresponsible government proceeds to extremes occurred recently. While it is true that the government has turned the business back to Montgomery Ward and the President is attempting to laugh it off as a 'bedtime story,' yet it remains one of the blackest pages of our glorious history.

Questions Asked.

"A thoro investigation is being made to determine under what authority the attorney general [Biddle] made such an untimely and unlawful seizure. Should the investigation reveal it was illegal, then the attorney general should be impeached."

Regardless of final outcome of the Ward fight, Wherry said, "the American people are going to continue to ask:

"First, why were troops used?

"Second, where is the authority for taking over Montgomery Ward?

"Third, why did the executive branch take possession?

People Asking Questions.

"Not only are the American people going to ask the foregoing questions, but they are going to ask us, and are already asking in their protests:

"First, is it not time for congress to take back unto itself those powers which in the past have been delegated to the executive branch of the government, or at least curtail or clarify them?

"Second, is it not time for congress to check the high handed manner in which executive bureaus and governmental agencies are coercing the activities of the people of this country?

"Third, is it not time for congress to exert itself and scrutinize all measures that provide for any delegation of power and authority?"

ROWE ELECTED STATE CHAIRMAN BY REPUBLICANS

BY GEORGE TAGGE.

The Republican national convention opening here June 26 held the interest of the G. O. P. state central committee at its meeting in the La Salle hotel yesterday when it elected Richard Yates Rowe of Jacksonville as chairman.

Rowe, credited with being a hard worker, who revels in painstaking detail, referred to the importance of the national convention in accepting the state chairmanship.

"We assure the delegates and all true Americans," he said, "that Illinois will again take her full role in the return to constitutional American ideals that have been the constant creed of the Republican party.

"Victory Must Be Protected."

"The convention soon to be held here will name the next President of our nation. We are conscious that the victory for which our brave men are dying must be protected by our ballots on the home front."

Frank G. Thompson of Mount Vernon who heads a pre-convention committee on the state platform, stirred interest by announcing that the platform will not be adopted until after the national convention. He said this was the usual course altho it was not followed in 1940.

Thompson was asked whether this plan does not sacrifice the advantage of having the Illinois platform influence the writing of the national planks.

"I don't think the Illinois state platform would have much influence," he said.

He declared that the basic reason for postponing action on a state platform is to "avoid conflict" with the national platform.

Authorized to Fill Post.

Chairman Rowe was authorized to serve as temporary chairman of the state convention or name a woman to the position. The state convention meets in Springfield next Thursday.

John F. Tyrrell of Chicago and Fred B. Herbert of Murphysboro were reëlected vice chairmen. Others reëlected were Clement A. Nance of Chicago, secretary, and George R. Perrine of Aurora, treasurer.

Adopted unanimously was a resolution asking the patronage committee to work more closely with the state central committee.

BRICKER ASSAILS 'SELFISH WASTE' BY NEW DEALERS

Omaha, Neb., May 12 (AP).—Gov. John Bricker of Ohio, Republican Presidential candidate, tonight described the New Deal as "wasteful, careless, and politically selfish," and called for government economy.

Bricker spoke of the mounting debt of hundreds of billions and asked:

"Where, aside for the necessary purposes of war and the legitimate expenditures for government, has the money gone? Under what kind of an accounting system is it spent that the manner of its expenditure can be kept a secret?"

He demanded that the New Deal "disgorge the overloaded bureaus of the hundred of thousands of men and women who are on pay rolls but not performing any useful duties."

He urged elimination of the "millions of New Deal propaganda publications that are flooding the country."

SHOOTS SELF WHILE IN PARK.

John Liss, 52, of 1834 N. Drake av., shot and seriously wounded himself yesterday in Hanson park, Central and Fullerton avs. He had been despondent over ill health. He was taken to the Danish American hospital.

COL. McCORMICK URGES MIDWEST ROLE AT RALLY

Cites Predominance of Coastal Speakers.

Washington, D. C., May 12 (AP).—Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, today said he intends to call to the attention of Republican leaders that the midwest thus far is not represented by a speaker on the program for the party's nominating convention in Chicago, June 26.

On the program which has been announced, Gov. Earl Warren of California will serve as temporary chairman and keynoter; Rep. Martin [Mass.], house minority leader, will be permanent chairman and former President Hoover of California and Rep. Clare Boothe Luce [Conn.] have been invited to speak.

Coastal Domination.

Pointing out that two of these come from the far west and two from the east, Col. McCormick said middle westerners did not like coastal domination of the party's meeting.

"There is a feeling of resentment in the midwest and I fear people there think that they are being ignored," the publisher said in talking with a reporter. He added that any such feeling might react against the Republicans, particularly in such politically doubtful states as Missouri, Kentucky, and Wisconsin.

Place for Gov. Green.

Republican national committee officials said tentative plans had been made to provide a place on the program for Gov. Dwight Green of Illinois, to welcome the delegates to the convention.

Altho Col. McCormick said the signs seemed to point toward Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York as the Presidential nominee, he expressed the opinion that "Republican conventions are frequently rigged." He said before the 1940 meeting when Wendell L. Willkie won the nomination he thought Dewey would be the nominee.

NEW DEALERS WOO UNPLEDGED VOTE OF TEXANS

Austin, Tex., May 12 [Special].—New Deal Democrats, disappointed that a majority of Texas county conventions this week had failed to instruct delegates to back a fourth term move for President Roosevelt at the state convention here May 23, are attempting to woo uninstructed delegates to vote for the fourth term idea.

Charles E. Simons of Austin, executive secretary of the state Democratic party, said returns so far show 670 votes at the state convention will be in favor of an uninstructed delegation to the national convention, while only 402 will be for an instructed delegation.

Democratic leaders, however, hastened to add that the vote for an uninstructed delegation was not to be construed as an anti-Roosevelt vote.

Urge Nonattendance.

One county convention, Colorado county, favored a resolution against the state's participation in the national convention. Sam K. Seymour Jr., chairman of the county Democratic committee, said the convention adopted a resolution urging the state convention to support a proposition calling for a convention of the Democratic party of all states which do not choose to take part in the Chicago convention.

A preamble to the Colorado county resolution stated that the national organization had abrogated the two-thirds rule for nomination of the Presidential candidates and had actively advocated federal interference with local self-government similar to that in the southern reconstruction period after the Civil war.

Absolves the South.

The resolution said "the south is absolved of any duty or allegiance to the national organization of the Democratic party."

Efforts were being made today to get Gov. Coke R. Stevenson to consent to head the Texas delegation to the national convention in Chicago but the governor has demurred because the convention date conflicts with his own campaign for reëlection as governor.

Pro-Roosevelt leaders were marshaling their forces with Mayor Tom Miller of Austin, who has called a caucus of fourth term delegates in Austin for May 22, the night before the state convention.

James V. Allred, former governor and former federal district judge, is being mentioned as state convention keynoter by Pro-Roosevelt forces.

WINNETKAN MISSING ON ALEUTIAN PATROL DUTY, WIFE ADVISED

Lt. James J. McNulty.

Lt. James J. McNulty, 27, a navy bomber pilot, has been reported missing during patrol duty in the Aleutian Islands, the navy department yesterday notified his wife, Mrs. Marguerite Cleary McNulty, 227 Sheridan rd., Winnetka.

Lt. McNulty piloted a Catalina patrol bomber in the Solomons for 10 months. He was home on leave a few months ago.

A few hours before he left for Aleutians duty, Lt. McNulty heard over long distance telephone a cry of his new son, Patrick Sheridan. Lt. McNulty, son of Mr. and Mrs. James McNulty, 174 Linden av., Winnetka, was graduated from New Trier High school and Loyola university. He formerly worked for the Northern Trust company.

BOMBERS BAG 8 JAPS IN 96 TON SMASH AT TRUK

M'Arthur Planes Attack Across Wide Front.

ADVANCED ALLIED HDQ., New Guinea, May 13 [Saturday]—(AP).—American Liberator bombers fought off 30 Japanese fighters and shot down at least six on Wednesday in pressing home a 96 ton bombing of Truk, key enemy base in the Central Pacific, headquarters announced today.

Results of the 35 minute air battle were given in a recapitulation of the raid announced yesterday.

The Jap defenders of the big Caroline Islands base also probably lost two more interceptors. Two other enemy planes were smashed on the ground on Eten Island.

[Another raid on Truk on Thursday was announced last night by the navy. Two enemy planes probably were downed in the 62 ton attack by Liberators, which also struck Ponape Island.]

Strike Far West of Truk.

An American search plane bombed Aiet Island in the Puluwat group, 200 miles west of Truk, Tuesday and the next day one Liberator scouting in the Palau area damaged a 1,000 ton Jap freighter. This was the first mention of air patrol action from Southwest Pacific bases in the area of Palau, 1,175 miles west of Truk.

Other American bombers dropped 150 tons of bombs at Wakde Island, 125 miles northwest of captured Hollandia in Dutch New Guinea, exploding ammunition and fuel dumps.

Raiders also started fires in the Schouten Islands, beyond Wakde on the route to the Philippines.

Gen. MacArthur's bombers also attacked the Wewak area again, dropping 100 tons of explosives on this British New Guinea coastal area where by-passed Jap troops have been reported massing.

69 More Japs Killed.

MacArthur's bombers struck two quick blows at the Schoutens, 260 miles northwest of Hollandia, at night and the following day.

Spokesmen said Jap troops, trapped by the American invasion at Hollandia, were attempting to make a stand at Masro, a strongpoint on the southeast shore of Lake Sentani. The enemy positions are under heavy attack.

Eight patrol actions in the Hollandia area Thursday netted 45 Japs killed and 45 prisoners. Twenty-four Japs were killed in 14 patrol actions in the Aitape area, 150 miles south of Hollandia.

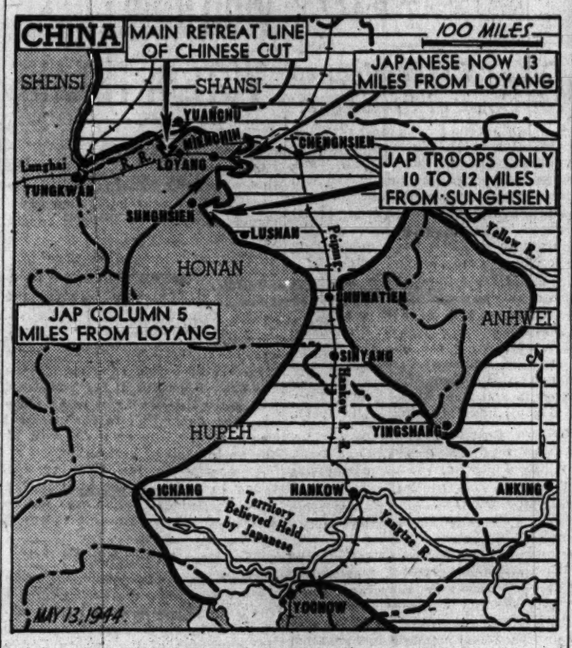
Bomb Bases in Truk Area.

U. S. PACIFIC FLEET HDQ., Pearl Harbor, May 12 (AP).—Striking thru the Jap held Caroline Islands area in the Central Pacific, American bombers battered landing strips and other enemy installations of at least four Jap bases Wednesday, the navy announced today.

Search planes hit Kusaie, southeast of the big enemy base at Truk, and Murilo, in the Hall Islands 40 miles north of Truk.

In the eastern Carolines, army bombers struck at frequently bombed Ponape and the Marshalls.

Jap Offensive Gains in China



Progress of the Japanese drive in central China.

JAP FORCES CUT RAILWAY ESCAPE LINE OF CHINESE

Cross Lunghai Route West of Loyang.

CHUNGKING, China, May 12 (AP).—Japanese invaders sweeping into northwestern Honan from Shansi province have cut the east-west Lunghai railway 48 miles west of Loyang, severing a main retreat line for several hundred thousand Chinese troops, the Chinese high command acknowledged tonight.

A simultaneous drive from the south drew the noose tighter about the ancient city. A Chinese army spokesman said Japs striking from that direction were only five miles from Loyang, while a third column, pushing along the Lunghai railway from the east, was only 13 to 18 miles away.

100,000 Japs Attacking.

He estimated the Japs, with the troops from Shansi, now have more than 100,000 men in the field in an ambitious attempt to destroy the Chinese army in Honan.

While fighting raged in the outer defenses of Loyang, another Jap drive menaced the important town of Sunghsien, 45 miles to the southwest, as the Japs, striving to safeguard their hold on the north-south Peiping-Hankow railway, attempted to sweep the defenders from the great Honan plains. Enemy troops have reached a point from 10 to 12 miles from Sunghsien, a Chinese war bulletin said.

The enemy plunge from Shansi across the Lunghai route was made by reënforced Japs, the war report said, about six miles west of Mienchih, which spokesmen previously admitted "may have fallen."

A crossing of the Yellow river, which preceded the attack, was accomplished by two Jap columns of 5,000 men, part of an invasion force using 600 light tanks and armored cars. The Japs pushed on to the Yinghao rail station and an area about 12 miles farther west. The report said "serious fighting" was proceeding at both points. Chinese airmen made extensive attacks over the Honan front.

The enemy advances were facilitated by the use of the largest number of tanks employed since the Jap drive on Hankow in 1938.

70 Tanks Support Attack.

Striking from a point nine miles south of Loyang yesterday afternoon, the invaders, supported by about 70 tanks, pushed thru points southwest of the city, and veered to an area about 12 miles west, where, the Chinese said, they were "hotly engaged."

Other Jap troops which have closed the north-south Peiping-Hankow railway gap, last were reported pressing close to Loyang from the south, one report placing them within six miles of the city.

15,500 Chinese Slain: Tokio.

LONDON, May 12 (AP).—The Tokio radio quoted imperial headquarters today as saying 15,500 Chinese troops had been slain since the beginning of the Jap offensive in northern Honan province on April 18.

In addition, the bulletin said, 4,031 Chinese were captured. Total Jap fatalities were given as 313.

Illinois Flyer Rescued 3 Miles Off French Coast

LONDON, May 12 (AP).—Fighter Pilot Capt. Sherwin Desens of Union Hill, Ill., who was knocked down by anti-aircraft fire during Wednesday's attacks on the continent, was rescued from the English channel three miles off the French coast after floating an hour and a half in his folding dinghy, it was reported today.

ALLIED RAIDERS BLAST JAP FORT ON INDIAN FRONT

SOUTHEAST ASIA HDQ., KANDY, Ceylon, May 12 (AP).—Allied air forces sent unprecedented swarms of bombers and fighters to the direct support of ground troops today in a smash at Japanese lodged on the edge of India's Imphal plain.

[A Tokyo broadcast boasted that the Japanese were ready to launch a large scale offensive on these plains. It claimed that artillery had broken up allied plans for a counter-offensive to cover a withdrawal.]

Blast Jap Fortifications.

With the sky swept clear of the enemy, waves of allied heavy and medium bombers poured 200 tons of bombs on Tuesday and Wednesday on embedded tanks, pillboxes and bunkers manned by thousands of Japs at Ningthougkohong, key stronghold 22 miles southwest of Imphal.

Now the attacks are continuing on Potsangbam, a village near which allied patrols and Jap jungle fighters were reported locked in battle, and at Moirang. Both towns are in the same area south of Imphal on the road to Tiddim in Burma.

These bombers were reaching for the communication lines over which the Japs moved in their drive into eastern India, loosing their loads almost as far south as Tiddim with a strike at Tongzang.

Japs Halted on One Route.

The Japs were using this Tiddim-Imphal road after being stymied trying to approach the plain from the direction of Palel.

The Tiddim-Imphal road is not as good as the Palel-Tamu route to Imphal, but it now appears to be the main line of communication, since the Japs were stopped at the pass below Palel.

Bombing along the northward approach to the plain was running into hundreds of tons.

Gain in Kohima Area.

To the north on the Kohima front, an allied war bulletin reported "operations to clear the enemy from strongpoints in the hills in the southern outskirts of Kohima have made initial progress." Artillery broke up Jap concentrations south of that British base.

Lt. Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell's fighters and bombers in northern Burma attacked Jap bridges and installations. One raid reportedly destroyed the main bridge on a road north of Mangshin. Stilwell also reported a damaging attack on the Taso hydro-electric dam in French Indo-China.

Quiet prevailed generally on the Arakan front.

Officer Reported Missing Is Prisoner in Germany

Lt. Joseph H. Chapas, 28, navigator on a Flying Fortress bomber shot down over Germany two months ago is a prisoner of war, his mother, Mrs. Joseph H. Chapas, 831 Mason av., Aurora, was notified yesterday by the war department. "This will be my happiest Mother's day," she said.

NEWSMAN'S TRIAL AS JAPS' AGENT NEARS N.Y. JURY

New York, May 12 (AP).—Prosecution and defense rested today in the trial of Frederick Heizer Wright, New York newspaper man, charged with serving as a Japanese agent prior to Pearl Harbor without notifying the state department.

Federal Judge John Bright dismissed the jury until Monday.

Wright, who has denied that he was employed by the Japanese consulate, testified this morning that statements he had made on loan applications, claiming an income higher than his salary as a newspaper man, were untrue.

Under cross-examination by Asst. United States Atty. John F. X. McGohey, Wright read five applications he had made for loans. He said that in the first he listed as sources of income besides his salary "publicity and writing—$2,400."

Wright had testified previously that Former Consul General Kensuke Horinouchi of the Japanese consulate had offered him the position of publicity advisor, but he said the position had been retained by his father, a properly registered agent before 1941.

WAR PASSES UP AIR BASE 'BABY' IN NEW GUINEA

BY ARTHUR VEYSEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

AT AN AIR BASE IN NEW GUINEA, May 12.—The sentry mumbled something and then, when he saw he wasn't being understood, he reached into his pocket, pulled out his teeth, slipped them into his mouth and said again:

"This place has changed some."

The two oldtimers nodded. Once this was the biggest air base in New Guinea, but the war has moved on. Grass grew a foot high thru the steel matting on some air strips and again had taken over the hillside, which had been beaten into dust when it was a pilot tent area.

The door to the screened-in operations office hung half off its hinges and scraps of copy paper and clippings were covered with dirt in the corners of the former war correspondents' shack. The sandbagged sides of the dugouts which had housed communications during the bombing days were rotting.

Inside of the big officers' club which had been painted in a gay red, white, and blue motif, and where once you had to beat your way thru the crowd, only two Red Cross girls played ping pong listlessly. Once bright young men had swarmed over the area. Now there were only 50 or so around—characters like this sentry without teeth.

Only the road was the same. Once it was rough from the constant parade of trucks and jeeps. Now it was rough from disuse.

YANK SUBS SINK JAP DESTROYER, 13 OTHER SHIPS; TOTAL NOW 558

Washington, D. C., May 12 (AP).—Destruction of a Japanese destroyer and 13 merchant vessels by American submarines battering steadily at Nipponese supply lines in Pacific waters was announced by the navy today.

The sinkings raised to 709 the number of Jap ships sunk or damaged by American submersibles. Of that number 558 have been sent to the bottom, 36 probably sunk and 115 damaged.

The destroyer was the fourth Jap warship reported sunk by American submarines this month, indicating accelerated sub operations against enemy efforts to supply their scattered bases in the Pacific.

CONGRESS URGED TO FORCE PEARL HARBOR TRIALS

Impeachment Hinted if Chiefs Delay Action.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 12.—A new drive was started in congress today to force the administration to bring to trial the army and navy chiefs who were in command of Pearl Harbor on Dec. 7, 1941, when Japanese bombs crippled the huge base.

Rep. Short [R., Mo.] told reporters he will offer a bill early next week ordering the court martial trials of the commanders, Rear Adm. Husband E. Kimmel and Maj. Gen. Walter C. Short, by next Dec. 7, third anniversary of the disaster.

Rep. Short asserted that if congress adopts the legislation and the administration persists in postponing the trials, impeachment proceedings should be considered against the war and navy secretaries.

Willing to Face Trial.

Short and Kimmel were retired from active duty soon after the Pearl Harbor fiasco, but have expressed a desire to stand trial at an early date.

The congressman termed "absurd" the administration's contention that the trials should be delayed until after the war on the ground that evidence taken might give vital military information to the enemy.

A more likely reason for the delay, he continued, is the possibility that a full story of the nation's greatest military disaster may fix some of the responsibility on high officials in Washington, perhaps including, he added, the war and navy secretaries and the President himself.

Demands Trials Now.

"When the complete story of Pearl Harbor is told, it will shock the country," the Missourian declared, "the trials should be held now in fairness to the nation and to the accused."

Under the articles of war, the statutory limit for trying the Pearl Harbor commanders was due to expire last Dec. 7, but when the administration refused to hold the trials, congress extended the time to June 7 in the expectation action would be taken by then.

Rep. Short's proposed new bill would not only extend the permitted time six months but would "direct" that the trials be held before the new limit expires.

No Further Excuses.

The congressman observed that Adm. Thomas Hart recently returned from a Pacific tour on which he gathered information preparatory to trying the two former commanders. Certainly, he continued, there can be no further valid excuse for delay.

The late Navy Secretary Knox said last month that the navy advocate general had submitted an opinion that the statutory limitation would not prohibit the trials, even if congress did not extend the time. Rep. Short said he could not agree with this interpretation.

STEAL 30 CASES OF WHISKY.

Burglars jimmied a door of the McCoy Liquor store, 6148 North av., yesterday, and stole 30 cases of whisky, it was reported to police.

French Admiral Convicted

[Associated Press Wirephoto: Via OWI radio from Algiers.]

Adm. Edmond L. Derrien (hatless) surrounded by officers as he went on trial in Algiers charged with treason.

FRENCH CONVICT ADM. DERRIEN OF ASSISTING NAZIS

De Gaulle Is Expected to Cut Life Term.

[By Wireless to the New York Times and The Chicago Tribune.]

ALGIERS, May 12.—Adm. Edmond Derrien, 61, was convicted today by a military court of having been responsible for the acquisition by the Germans of a score of French naval vessels at Bizerte, Dec. 8, 1942, and was sentenced in view of his age to solitary confinement for life. The sentence might have been death for this offense.

He was acquitted of the charge of having surrendered Bizerte itself to the enemy without using the means of defense which were at his disposal.

Derrien Keeps Silent.

When the sentence was read, Derrien in a blue naval uniform bearing the glistening silver cross of grand officer of the Legion of Honor, stood erect, saluted and said nothing.

The court was understood to have decided that Derrien had been taken by surprise when the Germans began arriving by air at Bizerte, Nov. 9, the day after the allied landings in North Africa and hence was excusable for failing to defend the land and naval base. The court concluded, however, that when the ships were taken by the Germans a month later Derrien had had time to scuttle them, especially after the example of the French naval officers in Toulon who meanwhile had sunk their ships to prevent their falling into German hands.

The verdict came as a surprise apparently even to the prosecution. Persons who attended the secret session said an acquittal or a conviction of negligence only with a light sentence had been expected. It is now widely believed here that an appeal will be made and that Gen. Charles de Gaulle will reduce the penalty.

Admirals Refused to Serve.

Officers of the French navy hold Adm. Derrien in high esteem because of his 40 year naval record and were reported inclined to believe him guilty of no more than poor judgment. It was understood further that the original plan was that Derrien would be tried by a court composed of admirals, as French custom demands, but that only one admiral could be induced to serve.

The defense plea which evidently won most consideration was that Derrien had played a waiting game expecting the allies to arrive at any moment and desiring that they find Bizerte intact instead of invested or partly destroyed by the Germans.

REVEALS NAZI DRAFT INDEX OF DUTCH WAS DESTROYED IN RAID

LONDON, May 12 (AP).—Aneta, official Netherlands news agency, today said the R. A. F.'s recently announced mystery bombing of the former Kleykamp art gallery in The Hague was made in coöperation with the Dutch underground to destroy "Z" cards, or files on workers to be drafted and sent into Germany.

An air ministry report on the raid last week termed it "probably the most spectacular example of low level precision bombing of the war." The building, housing "thousands of documents of the greatest importance to the Netherlands people" was reported razed after being hit by every bomb except one, which hit a German barracks.

Aneta said the card system was forced on Dutch employers, and thru it the Nazis had complete data on workers to be drafted into work battalions.

CHICAGO OFFICER GIVEN CLUSTER FOR SILVER STAR

Washington, D. C., May 12 (AP).—Award of the bronze oak leaf cluster to the silver star medal to Col. John K. Gerhart of 2211 E. 69th st., Chicago, was announced today by the war department.

A citation which accompanied the award said:

"While leading a combat wing of B-17s on a bombing mission over Germany, and after the fighter escort withdrew, the wing led by Col. Gerhart was attacked by over 200 enemy planes.

"Despite the intensity of these attacks, which were pressed to suicidal range, he regrouped his units and led them to the assigned target. Under his inspiring leadership, an installation of vast importance to the enemy's war effort was dealt a devastating blow."

TITO INTERVIEW SUPPRESSED BY ALLIED CENSORS

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

An Associated Press dispatch, the first interview given the American press by Marshal Josip [Tito] Broz, Yugoslav Partisan leader, has been stopped by censors of the allied Mediterranean command at Algiers, despite official assurances that political censorship would not be imposed in the Mediterranean theater. No reason has been given.

Representations have been made to the war department in Washington, D. C., authorities in London, and to Gen. Henry Maitland Wilson, supreme allied commander in the Mediterranean, but the dispatch, by Correspondent Joseph Morton, after 12 days' consideration, has been refused clearance.

War Department Mum.

In Washington, the war department said it had no comment at this time because the situation is "manifestly a theater matter."

When Gen. Wilson took command in the Mediterranean theater in January he told correspondents he would continue Gen. Eisenhower's policy of no political censorship.

"I hope you don't thing I have brought all those middle east rules over here with me," he said. "Here I see no reason for introduction of political censorship."

Gen. Wilson had been commander in the middle east, where Cairo has been noted as a center of censorship difficulties.

On May 4, Kent Cooper, executive director of the Associated Press, sent this message to Gen. Wilson:

"Earnestly request your intervention in matter of release of Associated Press story written by Joseph Morton, based on questions submitted to Marshal Tito but which censors under your command refuse to permit be sent to us.

Seeks Reasons for Ban.

"Edward Kennedy, chief of AP staff in Mediterranean, declares that suppression constitutes political censorship in spite of your assurances and those of British and American governments that political censorship would not be introduced in Mediterranean theater.

"If you feel unable to pass dispatch in question, we would like statement from you as to your reasons therefore which we can publish, together with our disclosure of imposition of political censorship in your theater. Assurances high regard."

Gen. Wilson has not replied and Kennedy informed the Associated Press in New York Thursday night that Cooper's message was "apparently ignored." Kennedy further reported that he had "attempted full details regarding Tito story, but censors prevent me from sending at this time."

Morton obtained his interview with Tito by submitting written questions from Bari, Italy.

Tito Writes His Answers.

The Communist-trained guerrilla leader, whose forces often have clashed with those of Gen. Draja Mihailovitch, war minister of the exiled Yugoslav government, sent back personally written answers. The story, about 1,600 words, was sent April 30 to headquarters at Algiers for censorship and transmission, but there the censors stopped it.

Kennedy cabled on May 3 that he regarded the affair as "a censorship scandal ten times more important than suppression of Patton incident and if accepted by us can only lead to permanent allied political censorship in Europe and end all freedom in reporting political news from here." He appended a note that his message itself had been held up by the censors in Italy for six hours.

This is not the first clash between correspondents and censors in the Mediterranean theater, but Kennedy said it "is the most clearcut yet involving freedom of the press."

One Dispatch Killed.

Daniel De Luce, Associated Press correspondent who went into Yugoslavia last September and got a firsthand account of the Yugoslav Partisans' struggle against the Germans—a feat which contributed to his winning the 1943 Pulitzer prize for reporting of international affairs—had one of his five dispatches killed by the censors.

Two of the others were sent as written and two "slightly mutilated" after a battle with the censors that lasted "until long after midnight," Kennedy reported at that time. He reported also that De Luce was the subject of "an official investigation and report, but they could not prove he had violated any regulation."

Subsequently, Kennedy said, airtight regulations were imposed against correspondents going to Yugoslavia, and two [not AP men] who attempted to do so were arrested.

Refuse Writer's Request.

De Luce applied for permission to return to Yugoslavia as a correspondent officially accredited to Tito's headquarters, but was refused, despite two specific requests by Tito himself and Tito's offer to furnish transportation.

On March 28, De Luce telegraphed New York that he had obtained "the only travel order issued a correspondent by Tito, but using it would make me liable to military arrest and disaccreditation by Mediterranean command."

As part of the general picture, a Blue network correspondent in Naples radioed Thursday night that "relations between military authorities in Italy and the representatives of the world's press have fallen to a new low in the past month. Even the pretense of daily press conferences has been dropped. Instead, all news comes out via the mimeograph machine."

Meanwhile, Morton's Tito story lies in a censor's pigeonhole, or safe, in Algiers.

Ships Going to Portugal Stopped by British Orders

LONDON, May 12 (AP).—Several merchant ships laden with coal, wheat and oil for Portugal have been held up by British naval authorities and may stay harbor-bound until Portugal stops wolfram [tungsten] exports to Germany, it was disclosed today. The official explanation was that the ships were delayed because of "technical reasons," but there seemed little doubt that the technicalities would dissolve when flow of the vital war metal to Germany is stopped by Lisbon.

U. S. OFFICER FINDS TITO BURNS MIDNIGHT OIL TO BEAT THE NAZIS

HDQ. OF THE 15TH U. S. AIR FORCE IN ITALY, May 9 [Delayed].—(AP).—The military operations of the Yugoslav Partisan army are forcing its headquarters to burn the midnight oil. Marshal Tito works far into the night. In the day time he rides busily about in his jeep on staff business despite loss of sleep.

This was disclosed today by Lt. Col. Louis A. Neveleff of Dallas, Tex., after spending two weeks at the carefully concealed nerve center of Partisan operations.

Col. Neveleff said he found complete integration under one headquarters, which was conducting operations as far apart as Macedonia and Slovenia and directing corps commanders by telephone and wireless.

Discipline was good, he said, judging by the snappy salutes he received.

The American officer found Tito living a Spartan life, working hard and eating little.

Yanks of North Russian A. E. F. in 1918 to Meet

A reunion of all veterans of the American North Russian expeditionary forces, which served near Archangel, Russia, in 1918 and 1919, will be held in Detroit, Mich., May 28 to 30, Bernard J. Elfman and Larry Salter, chairmen of the Chicago area veterans association, announced yesterday. All former soldiers and sailors who served in these areas during the last war are requested to communicate with the Polar Bear association headquarters, Hotel Book Cadillac, Detroit.

HOLLY REFUSES PREJUDICE RULE IN WARD'S CASE

Federal court litigation in the Montgomery Ward & Co. case was formally ended yesterday when Judge William H. Holly dismissed without prejudice the government's injunction suit.

Had Judge Holly dismissed the suit "with prejudice," a potent legal rule, the government would have been barred from bringing or maintaining an injunction suit against Ward's based on the same claims and causes. As the order now stands, the government is free to sue again, if occasion arises. Such an occasion, legal experts said, could be another disputed plant seizure.

Suit Filed After Seizure.

The dismissed suit was filed April 27, the day after the mail order house was taken over by the federal government with the use of bayonet armed soldiers. The seizure was ordered by the President, acting under the war labor disputes act, after moves by the war labor board and the national labor relations board had failed to resolve a dispute between Ward's and local 20 of the CIO United Retail, Wholesale and Department Store Employes' union.

Ward lawyers, headed by Harold A. Smith, fought the injunction suit and the government seizure. Smith contended that Ward's is a mercantile house and not a war plant. President Roosevelt's seizure powers were challenged.

High Court Precedent Cited.

Judge Holly was to have ruled on the entire question Wednesday, but on Tuesday night the government turned control back to the Ward management, leaving nothing for Judge Holly to decide. In legal terms, the case had become moot; that is, the issues were no longer alive, but merely hypothetical. He indicated that on his own motion he would dismiss the suit. Atty. Smith then asked that it be dismissed "with prejudice."

Ruling on that point, Judge Holly said that under a precedent set by the United States Supreme court he had to dismiss the suit without prejudice. "The Supreme court ruling leaves me no discretion at all," he said. On his own motion then, he dismissed the case.

Another development was Ward's formal recognition of the union as the bargaining agent for the company's employes. The union won a majority vote of employes earlier in the week. In a letter to the union, John A. Barr, a company lawyer, said the company was ready to negotiate a new contract at the union's convenience.

Set Against Closed Shop.

However, Ward's thru its chairman, Sewell L. Avery, who was forcibly carried from his office by soldiers early in the controversy, has indicated it will not agree to any closed shop provisions in the contract. This has been the main barrier in its long dispute with the union. It was this point which led eventually to the plant seizure.

Judge John J. Lupe in the Superior court, continued to May 26 a suit by local 20, of the CIO union seeking $21,067 from Ward's for alleged damages suffered because of an injunction obtained by the company during a union strike last month, just before the plant seizure.

GRAFT HEARING DELAYED; THREE FAIL TO APPEAR

Lansing, Mich., May 12 [Special].—Failure of three respondents to appear today forced postponement until May 22 of a scheduled hearing for 14 persons accused of graft conspiracy in a mass indictment returned May 2 by Judge Leland W. Carr's one-man grand jury investigating state affairs.

Judge Carr, on petition of Kim Sigler, special prosecutor, instituted extradition proceedings to force the appearance before the court here of Armand E. Robichaud of Newark, N. J., public relations counsel for the Beneficial Management corporation. Robichaud is charged, with four other finance company officials, of having given bribes during the 1939 legislative session to influence the form of a new act taxing intangible personal property. The other defendants are legislators or former legislators said to have taken bribes.

Sigler asked deferment of the hearing but indicated it would be necessary to launch formal extradition procedure only in Robichaud's case. The two other missing defendants are expected to appear of their own accord. They are Julian Thompson, lobbyist for the Household Finance corporation and Michigan Association of Small Loan companies, who sent word he would appear Monday, and Pvt. Walter N. Stockfish, Hamtramck state representative now in the army. He is expected to be given a furlough to attend the hearing.

TALE OF 2 CITIES BARES NEW DEAL INCONSISTENCY

Avery Evicted, but Tobin Goes Scot-Free.

Indianapolis, Ind., May 12 [Special].—Copies of the International Teamster, the magazine of the teamsters' union, an American Federation of Labor organization, are going thru the mails again following the settlement of a dispute between Daniel J. Tobin, teamsters' union president, and members of the independent mailers' union. Mailing of the May issue of the magazine was delayed three weeks before the settlement was reached.

While parallels were being drawn today between the fundamental aspects of the dispute here and that of Montgomery Ward & Co. in Chicago, newspaper editorials and private discussions emphasized the differences in the treatment of the two cases by the federal government.

In each case a labor union sought to negotiate a contract with an employer, but both employers refused to meet the unions' terms. Both unions then appealed to the national labor relations board and went on strike, halting the distribution of their employers' products.

No Action Against Tobin.

Tho the labor board ignored the appeal of Tobin's employes and refused to take any action against Tobin, who is a New Deal stalwart, it ordered Sewell Avery, Ward's chairman, to sign a contract.

When Avery refused to deal with the union, federal troops evicted him from his office and federal officials took over the operation of the business.

Tobin refused to bargain with 11 girl members of the mailers' union who were employed in the union office to cut mailing stencils for the teamsters' magazine. At one time he ordered the girls fired, but rescinded his order when the Indianapolis printing crafts council, composed of printers, pressmen, stereotypers, and mailers, supported the mailers and branded the teamsters' magazine unfair to organized labor.

Tobin Saves Face.

The mailers, who charged that Tobin had tried to force them to join the AFL stenographers' and typists' union, refused to handle the magazine. Tobin, finding himself in the postion of being a union executive and at the same time refusing to deal with union employes, saved face by having the magazine mailed by the firm that prints it, the Bookwalter-Ball-Greathouse Printing company.

The company agreed to hire Tobin's 11 mailers as members of its mailers' union.

During the dispute, the mailers' union appealed to the NLRB, which did nothing for three months. When the publicity became too hot, the board set May 5 to hear the union appeal.

Tobin reached his agreement with the printing company a day before the scheduled hearing. Since the girls no longer were in his employ, the hearing was not held.

Get Higher Pay.

At the printing company, the girls will be paid a union scale of $40 a week instead of the $32.50 paid by Tobin. They also will get overtime pay for more than 40 hours a week, which, they charged, Tobin had denied them.

In an editorial on the Ward and Tobin cases, the Indianapolis Times said that while troops had ousted Avery in Chicago, the scene in Indianapolis was different. There "had been no stern orders from Washington, no sound of marching feet in E. Michigan st.—and not a bayonet in sight around the offices of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, Chauffeurs, Warehousemen, and Helpers."

FOREMAN WHO CAUSED STRIKE OF 700 RESIGNS

Glenn Sanderson, whose efforts to increase production as foreman of the machine shop of the Barber-Greene Co. in Aurora caused a walkout of 700 employes last Monday, has resigned, and his resignation has been accepted the company announced yesterday. Officials said they hoped to retain Sanderson in another key position. Sanderson had increased production at the plant which produced road machinery for war use, more than 12 per cent since he was made foreman last September. The employes walked out after protesting that he worked them too hard. H. A. Barber, company vice president, was told yesterday at a meeting with the employes' committee that they would increase their production even above Sanderson's rate if he were removed. The employes will meet today to act on returning to work.

DAY BY DAY ON THE FARM

The FARM by Gail Compton

May 12, 1944.

THE men at the farm still are trying to get the oats seeded. This is the latest date in the history of the farm that oats have been planted. Wet ground has kept the machinery out of the field and the heavy clay soil is drying so slowly only 20 acres have been seeded to date.

Most other farmers have given up planting oats because of the lateness of the season. Ground prepared for oats now will go into soybeans and corn. Oats need cool weather for good growth and any seeded now likely will have hot weather for sprouting. Agricultural colleges estimate that one bushel per acre is lost for every day past May 1 that oat seeding is delayed. There is no doubt that late planted oats yield considerably less than those seeded on time.

The manager is determined to put his oats in the ground, "even if it isn't until July." The farm needs oats more than it does corn this year because of the large number of beef breeding animals being carried, in addition to the dairy cows.

Large Acreage In Corn.

With thousands of acres going into corn instead of oats thruout the corn belt it is reasonable to assume that oats will be at a premium this fall. The manager plans to be one person who has an adequate supply of the grain for his animals.

Altho the farm land is tiled the soil is not dry. Neighboring farmers fortunate enough to have a light soil already are working their fields, but the men at the farm are forced to spend their time spreading manure or doing odd jobs.

There are more signs of spring on the farm as warm weather gives impetus to the trees and shrubs. The snowball bush in the arboretum is filling the air with the scent of cloves as it unfolds delicate pink and white blossoms. The Callery pear tree is showing white petaled flowers and the apple and cherry trees are putting on their colorful show. The Zumi crab also has burst into bloom to add more gayety to the spring scene.

Magnolia in Bloom.

The cup and saucer magnolia has pushed out huge pink and white flowers and it is easy to see how the tree gets its name. The lower petals of the blossom stand straight out and in the middle of them is another group of flowers in the form of a cup. Toadstools have appeared in profusion on the lawns to add the final real touch of spring.

The GARDEN by Ben Markford

HOME owners planning to start any sort of hedge would do well to examine the many sample hedges under cultivation in the Morton arboretum, on highway 53 between Glen Ellyn and Lisle.

Among the hedges in the demonstration garden are such native growths as black haw and lilac, both suitable for large lots, as well as small hedges of barberry and privet.

Among the unusual hedge plantings in the Morton grounds are evergreen plantings of arbor vitae, Japanese yew, and white pine. Yew hedges, utilizing taxus capitata and taxus hicksi evergreens, are particularly striking. All three of the evergreen hedges can be pruned in box form similarly to privet. Larch also can be handled in the same way, and provides an attractive light green color in spring.

'MEETING' HALTS TWO WAR PLANTS EMPLOYING 2,000

Walkout Comes After WLB Delay Protest.

Approximately 900 employes of the two plants of the Revere Copper and Brass company, at 2200 Natchez av. and at 6630 Fullerton av., left their jobs yesterday in protest against the delay of the war labor board in reaching a decision in a case pending before it since last October. The work stoppage affects more than 2,000 employes. The plants are engaged in war work.

Later, at a stormy meeting in a hall at 1643 N. Cicero av., where 1,000 employes crowded in to voice their objections, it was voted to continue the union "meeting" today in defiance of a WLB statement that it would take no further action in the case until the employes returned to work.

War Work Halted.

Both plants were closed yesterday and the night shifts remained away from the job. Meanwhile production of rolled ammunition brass and parts for small arms at the plants was halted by the dispute between the United Automobile Workers union, local 477, of the A. F. of L., which is the bargaining agent for the employes, and the WLB.

Union leaders at yesterday's meeting, which lasted four hours, tried in vain to induce the workers to return to their jobs. Several employes who spoke in favor of resuming work were booed down.

Deadlock on New Contract.

The Revere case goes back to June, 1943, when the United Automobile Workers' contract with the company expired. Negotiations for a new contract reached a deadlock on the questions of a maintenance of membership clause and of an increase of the vacation period from one week to two. The case was certified to the WLB in October. A panel of the board was reported to have reached a decision six weeks ago, but no action by the WLB has been taken.

Thursday night the union was notified that the WLB had placed the case on its docket for hearing at 2 p. m. yesterday, but during the employes' meeting yesterday, Anthony Audia, chairman of the union's bargaining committee, was notified that the WLB had taken the case off its docket because the employes were not at work. They then voted to continue their meeting today.

Argentine Radio Silenced for Airing BBC 'Insult'

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, May 12 (AP).—The subsecretariat of press information press announced today the Buenos Aires radio station Radio Libertad has been denied permission to broadcast commercial advertising for 16 hours tomorrow because it re-broadcast a British Broadcasting company news program which contained "insulting references" to the Argentine government. The subsecretariat's announcement did not specify the nature of the references.

POLICEMAN SET FREE BY JURY IN TAVERN SLAYING

A jury of 11 women and one man took only 20 minutes yesterday to find William Howard Perdew, 33, a radio technician for the Evanston police department, not guilty of a charge of manslaughter growing out of the fatal shooting on Jan. 26 of Nick Ublasi, 39, of 524 N. Aberdeen st., a bartender.

Testifying on his own behalf before Criminal Court Judge Daniel P. Trude, Perdew said that he and two companions were threatened by Ublasi with a revolver outside the Log Cabin inn, 1047 Wilson av., where Ublasi worked. Perdew declared that he fired in self defense after Ublasi ordered him to "put up" his hands.

Perdew and his companions, evicted from the tavern at closing time, tried to reenter a short time later. Julius Sherwin, representing the state, argued that Perdew was drunk and shot without cause.

MAKE CITY AIR GATE OF WORLD, MANDEL URGES

Lt. Col. Leon Mandel, now on terminal leave from the army air forces after two years of service in the air transport command, was the guest of the aviation committee of the Association of Commerce yesterday at a luncheon in the Morrison hotel. Representatives of the air lines serving Chicago and others interested in post-war aviation development attended. Col. Mandel urged that every effort be made to consolidate the city's civic interests behind a program to make Chicago "the aerial gateway as well as the rail gateway to the world." He advised the air lines men to coöperate with organized industries in developing services and rates favorable to air cargo transportation expansion.

91 WORKERS SUE TO RECOVER PAY TAKEN FOR CIO

Steel Welders Tell of Union Threats.

A suit to recover money taken from their pay, as union dues in a check-off system, was filed in Circuit court yesterday in behalf of 91 employes of the Bethlehem Steel company who charged that the CIO United Steel Workers union fraudulently included their names in a list of members given the company paymaster.

Edward L. S. Arkema and Carl Howig, attorneys for the plaintiffs, said the men are employed, principally as welders, in the company's works at 8301 Stewart av. Bethlehem Steel is nominal defendant in the action.

Company's Position.

The company's position, Arkema said, is that it merely is complying with a national war labor board directive of July 16, 1942, to deduct monthly union dues from the pay checks of employes named in a sworn list supplied by the CIO. It is indemnified by the CIO against any liability arising by reason of complying with the check-off order.

Arkema said the employes he represents are not members of the union, and have informed the CIO, the national labor relations board, and the company that they are not. The NLRB has not replied. The CIO supplied the company with a notice that 76 of the men are not members. Deductions from their checks have been stopped, but they want the return of money already deducted. Check-offs from the checks of the other 15 men are being continued.

Relate Union Threats.

In their suit, the employes charge the union often has threatened to use physical force and violence to compel them to become members.

When the shop employes voted in the WLB election Aug. 31, 1943, there were 144 votes cast for the CIO, and 104 against it. Eleven men withdrew their cards. On Jan. 21, 1944, $1 was withheld from the wages of 258 men, including three not employed by the company for some time, 11 who had sent their withdrawal notices, and 90 who signed statements they were not members.

Arkema said he will be prepared to prove that George Chunis, an agent for the CIO, signed blanks as union lists, which later were filled in with names of employes.

A company representative told a union agent he knew some of the employes named were not members of the union. Arkema said he cautioned the CIO agent that "the men are not going to take this lightly," but was told it was none of his business.

SISTER DODGES F. M'CORMICK CUSTODY BATTLE

Gives Foster Children to Educator for Adoption.

Middletown, Conn., May 12 (AP).—Wealthy Muriel McCormick Hubbard relinquished today the foster parenthood of her two adopted children three days before a scheduled Probate court hearing on a petition brought by her brother, Fowler McCormick of Chicago, seeking to have her declared an unfit person to care for them.

The litigants are the children of the late Harold F. McCormick and Edith Rockefeller McCormick of Chicago.

Judge of Probate Leonard O. Ryan after a brief hearing approved Mrs. Hubbard's petition to give the children, Elisha Dyer Hubbard, 7, and Edith R. Hubbard, 11, in adoption to Dr. Frances M. Clarke of Durham.

Denies Charges.

Mrs. Hubbard said in a statement that the charges made against her by her brother, who is president of the International Harvester company, were "baseless and not true," and that she made her surprise move today only to avoid "notoriety and publicity for two innocent children."

In his petition asking that the custody of the children be given to himself or "some other proper person," McCormick charged that his sister was "addicted to the excessive use of alcohol," that she had "repeatedly beaten and abused" the children, and that she had conducted herself in such a way as to "endanger their morals, health, and happiness."

Known Children 5 Years.

Mrs. Hubbard said Dr. Clarke, who teaches in a New London school, had been closely associated with the children since she adopted them five years ago.

The children are now in a school at Deerfield, Mass., and Mrs. Hubbard, the widow of Maj. E. Dyer Hubbard, is a corporal in the women's army corps.

McCormick was not represented at today's hearing.

Judge Ryan approved Mrs. Hubbard's petition after studying a confidential report of the circumstances made by agents of the state welfare commissioner.

Mrs. Hubbard's statement said:

"I have this day given in adoption my two foster children to Dr. Frances M. Clarke of Durham, Conn. This was done by application to the Probate court for the district of Middletown on an adoption agreement duly executed between myself and Dr. Clarke, and all necessary proceedings have been followed under the adoption laws of this state.

Tells of Affection for Children.

"The proceeding instituted by my brother for my removal as guardian was unnecessary, and his charges against me as to unfitness are baseless and not true.

"I had custody, care and maintenance, and directed the education, of these children for the past five years and my regard and affection for them is beyond question.

"It is not my desire to enter into any controversy, particularly a court wrangle, creating notoriety and publicity for two innocent children of tender years, one 7 years old and the other 11 years old. The welfare of the children being my paramount consideration, I desire to avoid any controversy which would affect their welfare now or in the future, and with their adoption by Dr. Clarke I sincerely hope that they will be spared any further unnecessary embarrassment.

Wants to Stay in Service.

"The regulations of the women's army corps prohibit my acting as guardian over the children, they both being under the age of 14. I desire to continue in military service for the duration of the war, and believe that the welfare of my children can best be served by placing them only in the care and custody of some person who has a sincere interest in their future.

"Dr. Clarke has been intimately associated with both children since their adoption, is devoted to them, and is in every respect qualified to assume the duties of a parent."

Mrs. Hubbard had not been the actual, legal guardian of the children since March 11, 1943, when she resigned and her housekeeper, Mrs. Elvira Parsons, was named in her stead. When McCormick's petition was filed about two months ago, Judge Ryan named Mrs. Grace Bement of Deerfield temporary guardian pending disposition of the case.

HEARING SET FOR MONDAY.

Austin Wyman, attorney for Fowler McCormick, last night in Chicago said that he will leave tomorrow for Middleton, Conn., where a hearing has been set for Monday in Probate court on McCormick's suit. He said he expects the case will be called as scheduled, despite Mrs. Hubbard's action in relinquishing her two adopted children to Dr. Clarke. The attorney said McCormick was informed of his sister's action yesterday but stated it was "too early" to predict its effect on the suit.

CHICAGOAN DIES AS JAPS ATTACK HOSPITAL PLANE

George E. Brannan, 38, a volunteer ambulance driver with the American Field service, died of wounds received when a hospital plane in which he was assisting the evacuation of wounded was attacked by Japanese fighter airplanes, his widow, Mrs. Lois Fletcher Brannan, 415 Fullerton pkwy., was informed yesterday.

Mrs. Brannan was told the hospital plane was attacked near Kohima, in India.

Before volunteering for the field service, Brannan was in charge of the industrial film division of the Ideal Picture corporation. He attended Loyola university.

The Inquiring Camera Girl BY MARYON ZYLSTRA

[The Tribune will pay $5 for each interesting question submitted by a reader and used by The Tribune. Today's question was submitted by Fay Michaels, 1616 S. Ridgeway av.]

THE QUESTION.

How do you celebrate your birthday?

WHERE ASKED.

North Pier Terminal building, 365-589 E. Illinois st.

THE ANSWERS.

Lorry D. Black, secretary, 6621 N. Rockwell st.—I used to have open house every year on my birthday for a group of my girl friends and their dates. We gathered at my house, then went dancing or to some other place of amusement. Last birthday was different. The boys have gone into service. I invited relatives.

Elaine Zohrer, stenographer, 2143 N. Marmora av.—Around our office whoever has a birthday has to treat the rest of the office to some chocolates. After work a group of girls from the office take me to dinner. We then go bowling or to a night club. They usually try to embarrass me by singing "Happy Birthday" at every place.

Cecilia Smedensky, secretary, 5024 S. Loomis st.—On my birthday I like to really make a special occasion of it and go as many places in one night as I can get into my schedule. I like to spend it with my closest friends because we all think along the same lines. That's one time when I want to have fun and enjoy myself.

Dolores Prange, bookkeeper, 1745 N. Menard av.—My birthday is in the winter and it seems the weather is always against me. One year it rained and the year before that it snowed. I buy a new outfit of clothes every year as a gift to myself. Then the weather never permits me to wear it. I'm thinking of changing the date to June or July.

Gertrude Radkiewicz, comptometer operator, 1844 S. Troy st.—It's sort of a tradition in our family that whoever is having a birthday is boss of the house for the day. The day before my birthday I tell mother what I want on the menu for breakfast, lunch, and dinner the next day. I pick my favorite foods and she prepares them my favorite way.

Rosemary Johnson, secretary, 1449 Winona st.—There's no cake I like better than lemon and there's no one I know that can make it better than my mother. Every year she bakes me a lemon cake on my birthday. Other than the cake I don't make any special issue of my birthday. Last year I went to a movie.

MAJ. DICK BONG GIVEN SENATE OVATION ON VISIT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 12.—Maj. Richard I. Bong, Poplar, Wis., youth who knocked 27 Japanese planes out of the sky with his P-38 Lightning fighter, today received an ovation from the senate when he appeared in the gallery during the poll tax debate.

Sen. LaFollette [Prog., Wis.] called his colleagues' attention to the presence of the 23 year old army pilot, and senators and gallery visitors rose to their feet and applauded—an unusual occurrence in the senate chamber.

Maj. Bong, who has returned to this country from his South Pacific exploits to teach aerial gunnery, later was the luncheon guest of LaFollette and a group of other senators.

Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker, World War I. ace whose record of 26 enemy planes shot down in aerial combat was first broken by Maj. Bong, was in the capitol testifying on aviation matters at a commerce committee hearing. He was asked what happened to the case of Scotch whisky he promised Bong for breaking his record, and said smilingly it was a military secret.

BY WILLIAM MOORE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 12.—Sen. Capper [R., Kas.], white haired veteran of the senate's league of nation's battle almost 25 years ago, told the senate in plain language today that the poll tax is being used to keep Negroes from voting, in defiance of the Constitution.

Sen. Capper.

The Kansan spoke in ringing fighting tones when he fired the first gun for his party in the fourth day of the debate over the bill to abolish the poll tax as a qualification for voting in southern states.

Until he took the floor, the debate, now in the filibuster stage, had been principally confined to speeches by Democratic poll tax advocates who have been insisting that no racial question—only a constitutional one—was concerned. While Capper argued that it is unconstitutional to disfranchise American citizens, the poll tax Democrats have been contending that it is unconstitutional for the federal government to eliminate the poll tax.

No Use Mincing Words.

Plunging boldly into the question of Negro suffrage, Capper said:

"I see no use beating the bushes or mincing words about this matter. The Constitution prohibits the right of suffrage being denied any citizen because of race or color. That means the Negro race."

Capper said he will vote to impose cloture, or the limitation of debate, when the proposal comes before the senate Monday. He said cloture, proposed to end the poll tax senators' filibuster, is the only way to bring the bill to a vote and restore suffrage to several million Americans.

Poll tax Democrats spared neither President Roosevelt nor his wife today as they fought to keep the institution by which they are accused of maintaining their party in power in the south. Referring to Mr. Roosevelt's earlier espousal of poll tax abolishment, which poll tax Democrats tried in vain to keep out of their party squabble in view of the forthcoming election, Sen. Ellender [D., La.] expressed the belief Mr. Roosevelt does not favor federal abolishment. But, Ellender shouted:

"If the President of the United States should come out for a bill of this kind, then I say the President should bow his head in shame for playing politics with the Constitution."

Wife Called a Fanatic.

Of Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, he said:

"She has become such a fanatic on similar subjects that I doubt if she is any longer taken seriously."

Attacking Gov. Dewey of New York as an "upstart," Ellender challenged Dewey to make clear his position on the poll tax before the Monday cloture vote. Dewey has said he opposes the poll tax, but Ellender demanded the Republican Presidential aspirant explain whether he favors federal abolishment.

Wagner Calls for Vote.

Sen. Wagner [D., N. Y.] demanded that the bill be brought to a vote, and not be allowed to die in a filibuster, for "the dignity of democracy."

Sen. Maybank [D., S. C.] showed the senate a picture of the South Carolina legislature of 1866 as an argument for the poll tax. He said 50 of its 65 members were Negroes, and that 42 members had been unable to write their own names.

During the debate, several Democratic senators who said they had been placed on a "purge" list of the CIO United Auto Workers union asserted they were ready to accept the challenge in forthcoming campaigns.

Sen. Smith [D., S. C.], called the list an "honor roll" and said he considered it a compliment to be on it.

"Purge List" Read.

Sen. Eastland [D., Miss.], read the names from a UAW pamphlet and said those marked by the CIO for election defeat because they had voted contrary to CIO views on various items of legislation, included himself, Smith, and Senators Glass [D., Va.], McKellar [D., Tenn.], Bankhead, [D., Ala.], Stewart [D., Tenn.], and McClellan [D., Ark.].

Eastland said he was "proud to be listed in such distinguished company."

Denouncing the CIO political action committee as a prime mover in the pending bill to abolish poll taxes, Sen. Smith asserted:

"This isn't the first time that an attempt has been made to purge me. Send 'em a note for me thanking 'em for putting me on the honor roll."

Proud to be on List.

McClellan asserted: "I'm proud to travel in that company. Whenever these senators can be purged by some group that owes its allegiance to a Communist, then I'm ready to be purged."

Stewart declared he had "no apologies" to make for his voting record.

HOUSE ADOPTS LEND-LEASE BILL WITH F.D.R. CURB

Washington, D. C., May 12 (AP).—Congress today authorized President Roosevelt to continue lend-lease aid to allied nations for another year, but wrote into the law a notice that it wants to have the last say if these transactions ever involve future military or economic commitments.

The house adopted a minor senate amendment and sent the extension to the White House.

The lend-lease authority would have expired June 30. Under it, President Roosevelt had been given $24,683,629,000 in direct lend-lease funds. In addition, the war and navy departments set aside 35 billion 970 million dollars in indirect lend-lease aid.

The revised law states that nothing in the legislation is to be construed to give the President power to obligate the United States in post-war matters unless congress consents.

Sen. Vandenberg [R., Mich.] said he hoped the amendment would have a sound effect. Master agreements under lend-lease have provided, he said, for international removal of discriminatory treatment in commerce and tariffs, but that "by no stretch of the imagination" is the executive authorized to make such a commitment.

TOWARD DICTATORSHIP.

The appointment of James V. Forrestal as secretary of the navy calls attention again to the fact that in this New Deal administration there are two kinds of totalitarians—the Fascist kind, represented by Mr. Forrestal, and the Communist kind, represented by Vice President Wallace.

They can work together now because they hold in common the desire to destroy the constitutional and traditional limitations on executive authority. Both wings of the New Deal party have striven to undermine the independence of congress and the courts. Both are for the fourth term. Likewise, the two elements share the desire to liquidate both the Republican and Democratic parties by chicanery.

The Democratic party has already been captured. It still contains many men and women who have no sympathy for the totalitarian trend, but their influence is now negligible. The party today is committed to the fourth term and to the support of Mr. Roosevelt's ambitions to rule as a dictator.

The Republican party succumbed to New Deal intrigue in 1940 and may do so again. If that happens the people, for all practical purposes, will have only one party to vote for in November, tho nominally there will be two parties in the field.

On so much of the program the Fascist and Communist wings of Mr. Roosevelt's following can agree. Later on they expect to fight for ascendancy. For the moment the Fascists in the President's entourage have control of the organized force of the nation and, as they showed in the armed attack on the Montgomery Ward store, they will use it without scruple to whip the citizens into line. The Communists are looking ahead to the day when their strategy of armed revolution can be employed in establishing the dictatorship of the proletariat.

There is no slightest hope of checking the totalitarians in the Democratic convention this summer, for the delegates, in overwhelming majority, have been bought up with jobs and other favors and the rest have no candidate against Mr. Roosevelt. He has maneuvered in a fashion to prevent the rise of any possible rival within his own party's ranks.

As for the Republicans, the outcome remains in doubt. If the conspiracy to capture the party is again successful Mr. Roosevelt's reelection will be rendered probable and in the fourth term the totalitarian goal will be within reach. The preservation of the Republic and its institutions depends, therefore, upon the delegates who will assemble in Chicago next month. Theirs alone is the opportunity to rescue the nation and its institutions from the men whose ambition it is to set up a dictatorship to boss everybody and everything.

EVEN-HANDED JUSTICE.

James J. Laughlin, one of the lawyers for the defense in the sedition trial in Washington, was held to be in contempt of court and was fined $150. The finding was not vindictive, and was in accordance with the evidence regarding his conduct during the trial.

To that extent justice was done, but it was not even-handed justice. Mr. Laughlin has been punished, as he deserved to be, but nothing has been done about the conspirators who, in newspapers and on the air, have been creating prejudice against the defendants for over a year. When are these so-called commentators going to be cited to show cause why they should not be held in contempt?

SOCIALISM IN ACTION.

Recent days have seen renewed confusion in the agricultural markets. Extraordinary efforts are being made—with what success remains to be seen—to provide the corn using industries with an adequate supply of their raw material. The problem has been a recurrent one. It arose first when there was a great surplus of corn and other grains in the country, much of it in government hands. The solution then was relatively simple, but it isn't so easy now and it may safely be predicted that if the immediate emergency is surmounted, new ones will arise which will present even graver difficulties.

Likewise there has been a renewal of confusion in the live stock markets. Once again, more hogs are being shipped to the various stock yards than the processors can handle. This, too, has been a recurring problem of late, marked by alternate shortages and gluts in supply.

Other evidences of disorganized markets could be mentioned, but these will suffice to show the inefficiency of the socialist or planned economy under which we live. A first requirement of any economic system is that it move goods from the producer to the consumer in an orderly fashion, with a minimum of waste and cross-hauling. Ideally, the markets should always be able to absorb all the offerings and move them into consumption. That is what used to happen in what the New Dealers still think of as the bad old days, before the government started fixing prices and quotas, and regulating everybody's business.

Under the free play of supply and demand the corn supply was divided among those who had the best use for it; and so also with other commodities. It was not until the government stepped in that we heard of towns in which there was a surplus of pork but no lamb chops and at the same time other towns where the butchers had more lamb chops than people would buy, but no pork.

If the socialist economy could ever be made to work in the orderly fashion to which this country was accustomed that time is now. The government has control of commodities and markets. It fixes prices. It has the power to ration consumers, merchants, and processors. It can tell people that they can't have what they want and must take something else or do without; and because of the war these orders meet with relatively little protest. And yet, despite all these forces working in their favor, the planners have not been able to bring about an orderly distribution of the nation's production.

It is no longer necessary to make a purely speculative comparison of the operations of the free market and of socialism in America. The actual record can be compared. We have no doubt that the moment the last shot is fired the people of this country are going to insist upon an immediate demobilization of the socialist burocracy and a return to an economy of the free market. It performed its daily miracle of distribution without benefit of burocrats or politicians. Perhaps that's why they hated it.

POLITICS AND THE DRAFT.

Maj. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, national director of selective service, has announced some new draft regulations, the import of which seems to be that all men over 30 years of age who are working in what the government calls essential industries will receive blanket deferment from military service. Gen. Hershey has indicated that this deferment will be as permanent as it is possible to make it and will be lifted only if military reverses should demand the drafting of the older men.

At the same time he decreed that men in the 26 thru 29 age bracket who are "necessary men" in essential industries also will be deferred, probably for the next six months, and will be called to arms only as they are needed to supplement the supply from the pool of young men, 18 thru 25 years old. The drive will be, as common sense dictates, to get the young fellows into uniform as fast as possible, excepting only those who are physically unfit or unusually essential to war production.

This is the first time since Oct. 16, 1940, when men first registered for the draft, that they have been given any real indication of what they could expect from selective service. For nearly four years confusion has been piled upon more confusion. At one time the army began to discharge all men over 26 years of age, but not long afterward 37 year old fathers who were employed in war jobs were being marched off to induction stations.

Sensible people have maintained all along that young men make the best soldiers and that the army had no use for and no foreseeable need for men in their thirties. A few of these older men may have made their mark in the army or navy, but most of them were specialists in some military or affiliated line and joined the services as volunteers. The rest, generally, were relegated to inactive duty or discharged after being crippled up in training camps.

Selective service has done now what it should have done three and a half years ago—set forth a long range program covering every draft registrant and giving at least semi-permanent deferments to all older men who are most useful to war industries but who have little military value. It is possible now for all draft registrants to plan their futures with some degree of security. They have not been able to do that up to now, and that is one of the principal reasons for the unsatisfactory state of the nation's war economy and the civilian economy.

It would be interesting to know why Gen. Hershey's announcement was made when it was, two or three months before the start of the 1944 Presidential campaign, instead of two or three years ago. In the absence of any official explanation, most people will assume that the timing was political. President Roosevelt is once again going before the nation's electorate. He would like to see the people in a happy and appreciative state of mind.

To this end, meat was virtually removed from the ration lists a couple of weeks ago. Now the draft regulations are liberalized, stabilized, and made to approach a common sense basis. We have no inside information, but considering the amount of sackcloth and ashes that are being distributed around Washington these days, the abandonment of gasoline rationing looks like a cinch.

A WELL-EARNED MEDAL.

Milton Caniff, creator of "Terry and the Pirates," got a medal for achievement, and we can't think of any one who better deserves it. Mr. Caniff is about the best writer of adventure stories now extant as well as an illustrator of great talent. How good he is may be gauged by the number of his imitators and more especially by their inability to approach him either as story teller or as artist.

Sometimes we wonder whether Mr. Caniff could do a novel that would have the qualities of "Terry." When we get that notion we promptly dismiss it. Mr. Caniff is supreme in his own field. He is making a unique contribution to the happiness of mankind and, incidentally, has done a great deal to set the youth of the land thinking along the right lines. That's career enough for anybody.

RECORD-BREAKING UNPLEASANTRY.

[Kansas City (Kas.) Star.]

The present younger generation has seen nearly every weather record on the books broken. Since 1934 we have had the hottest summer, the coldest winter, the longest run of 100 degree days, and the biggest floods at least since 1903. Now the weather has broken a long time latest frost date as well as snowing clear out of season.

All of these new "records" have been the reverse of pleasant. The younger generation has our sympathy, but at least it can say it is getting toughened to the slings and arrows of outrageous weather fortune early enough to develop some sort of a philosophy about it.

Select the answers which you consider best. The last problem counts five points. Then look for the correct answers below.

1. How many fluid ounces make up a quart of milk?
   8 ounces 16 ounces 32 ounces 36 ounces.
2. A hutch should make one think of which creature?
   Bear Lion Peacock Rabbit.
3. If all were planted at the same time, which would show above the ground first?
   Corn Potato Radish Bean.
4. Of these four related words, which is the generic term that includes the other three?
   Sugar Food Protein Fat.
5. Which one of these creatures is a rodent?
   Squirrel Dog Fox Cat.
6. The terms in the left hand column below may sound rather cruel, but they are legitimately used in various fields of sport. You are entitled to one point for each correct matching.

MR. PEPYS' SPRING SONG.

13th May—Woke up the other morning to find the thermometer marking 80 degrees, and the sun shining, and an apple tree in full bloom outside my window, and said, "This is it, but how long will it last?" Was surprised again, later, to learn that the Cubs had won a game.

Was accosted on the street by an old wreck of a man carrying a shovel, who asked, "What time is it?" I told him half past one and a minute more, and then he said, "It's the beginning of the end of the world." So mark down 1:31 p. m., May 11, 1944, for the official start of mankind's doom, altho many have suspected that it began several years ago.

Took my dog for a walk, and she came home with a badly cut foot and now skips about on three legs. Hope the approaching doom will strike first at the zanies who drop bottles in the streets, and then at the zombies who huddle in the doorways of street cars, buses, and trains.

Went to see the great display of Mexican drawings at the Art institute, all by a certain Posada, who had skulls and skeletons on the brain. Heard Mr. Watson, the lecturer, discourse upon said Posada as an artist of the people, and was enlightened, but still prefer the works of John McCutcheon.

Graduated from a long course of sprouts in a dentist's chair, and feel considerably improved. Am now trying to find a beefsteak for testing purposes. If the weather holds, will go "gathering nuts and May," according to the old song, on this week-end.

MOTHER'S A GOOD SOLDIER.

Who is it that rises, for years on end,
Earlier far than the buglers send
Their reveille notes thru the clear, cold air?
Who gets our breakfasts and combs our hair?

Who is it that takes the good with bad
(The good far less than she should have had)
And marches more miles on an average day
Than her soldier lad who is far away?

Who is it that elevates sagging morale
And carries the troubles of boy and gal,
And goes without, that the rest of us
May not let the blues get the best of us?

Who is it that answers her country's call
With courage to conquer the world and all,
Nor whimpers at staggering sacrifice
That weighs so heavy in heart and eyes?

Mother, the talk is of soldiers today,
But I'd like to tell you, you're far and away
The best of all soldiers I've seen yet—
And I hope that you know that I don't forget.

Spring Springs Eternal.

At last it is spring, and the earth is gay, and green, and glad, but I am reluctant to share her spirit. Walking in the rain at evening thru alternate bright and dark patches as I pass lamp-posts and trees, I think of many another spring when sheer delight drove me to dance in the wind. Now the falling rain resembles millions of fresh water tears, blending with salty ones below! I remember it is the second spring I walk alone, and the feet that once walked beside me are shod in Uncle Sam's Yukon boots, crunching thru arctic snows.

A bend in the road, a blooming apricot tree, a steel mill light reflected on a cloud provoke a review of other springs, when friends were jolly and living was ecstasy. Years when sorrow was personal and individual, and grimness was something in a detective's face.

Yet the rain of April and the flowers of May still wield magic power over a saddened heart! Their indifference to war and peace, their eagerness to brighten and adorn the world, their inability to mourn soon brush away tears, and furrows, and heavy thoughts. They beckon, cajole, and invite. They are irresistible. Captivated and entranced I rush forward, nestling in the bosom of spring!

FOR MOTHER'S DAY.

Ah, Mother has a job that's light,
She merely slaves from morn till night
To make the home a perfect dream
And keep the family on the beam.
And but for her, the dads, poor lubbers,
Would, half the time, not wear their rubbers.
Her house is very neat and clean,
There's always food in her cuisine;
She helps her children grow and thrive,
She keeps the Golden Rule alive;
She giveth all and doth not grudge it;
She even balances her budget;
And she will never be content
Until there's better government.
So earnestly we hope and pray
That her reward will come this day.
In numbers, a minority,
She holds enough authority
To make us creak down in our joints,
For she controls those precious points.

Samuel Pepys' diary was written in a shorthand or code in several languages. A persistent divinity student deciphered it by working 14 hours a day for three years. A few months after completing this arduous task he was handed a complete key to the code, which had been prepared by Mr. Pepys to accompany another record.

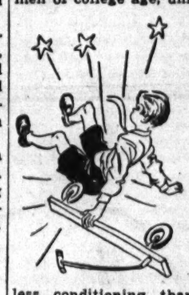
FRACTURES AND SPRAINS DURING PLAY.

ACCIDENTS due to play, particularly organized contests on the part of high school and college students, should be at a low ebb. Most of our young men of college age, unless pursuing specialized courses, have joined the armed forces. They are learning perhaps for the first time, the importance of physical training. The one who has kept his muscles in good tone will require less conditioning than the office clerk who is flabby and soft.



But games are played during rest periods and after hours by workers in industries, and, all too often, trouble is encountered. Young participants are fearless; they take greater risks. Thus boys in their teens will meet more sprains and tears of the muscles. This is in contrast with the man of 30 who will be more cautious. But when he collides with a fellow player or sustains a fall, the chances are that the damage will be extensive.

Because the arms and shoulders are more exposed and are used more, they will receive the brunt of the impact. Landing on an outstretched hand is likely to result in a fracture. Unless deformity is obvious it may be regarded merely as a sprain. For safety's sake, an X-ray film should be taken. The small bones which form the shank of the hand are readily broken.

Next come elbow injuries, which will run the gamut from actual breaks to dislocations. In the shoulder, the bone of the upper arm may be forced out of the socket with enough trauma to cause hemorrhage and rupture of some of the parts which have to do with maintaining function. These episodes must not be dismissed lightly unless Roentgen pictures show conclusively that the skeleton has not been involved. Dislocations are readily adjusted but healing may be slow. Even such a thing as a broken collar bone may put the arm on the affected side out of commission for quite some time.

We must look upon knee joint casualties as tricky. There are a number of ligaments and cartilages which will need to be restored if normal performance is to be regained. A common type of disability is the tearing away from its attachment on the thigh bone of what is known as the "internal lateral ligament." Now and then a fleck of the femur will be split off. In consequence, considerable pain and swelling may ensue. It is essential that the area be maintained in correct alignment.

Ankles are sprained more frequently than the bones are cracked. Here the binder [ligament] on the outer portion is the one most often damaged. Pain is severe altho there is no displacement of the foot. The usual plan is to bandage firmly to prevent the escape of a large amount of fluid into the tissues. The leg is elevated for at least 48 hours and, thereafter, walking may be encouraged. The more promptly the dressing can be applied, the better.

Now and then jumping will lead to a tiny, threadlike split in the heel bone. If this is not recognized the fissure may widen. Thus the structure may become deformed. Every crack must be treated so that complete repair will take place. Spreading of the fragments can occur under use if they have not become cemented together. This is what nature will attempt to do. Fixation may be demanded in order to bring it about.

Of course, cuts and bruises are matters of routine first aid but every minor mishap will require just as aseptic care as if it were a major wound.

F. V. writes: Is eczema hereditary or contagious?

REPLY.

Neither. The tendency to sensitivity, however, which is responsible for the skin manifestations, may be inherited. Cure depends on finding the irritant and removing it from the diet, environment, etc.

PAINFUL SPINE.

Mrs. E. Z. writes: The buttons on my spine, especially between the shoulder blades and the back of the neck, are sore to the touch. What causes this?

REPLY.

Altho the defect may lie in the muscles, it is probably arthritis. You touch merely the tips of the spinous processes of the vertebrae.

PERSPIRATION.

C. R. M. writes: What is the cause of persistent night sweats?

REPLY.

An infection of some sort should be searched for. It may be nothing more than a vasomotor imbalance.

NOT CANCER.

F. R. writes: Can cancer of the stomach be detected by a blood count?

REPLY.

No. Anemia may be disclosed but this can come from scores of causes.

Mother's Day.

The mail has brought at least five Mother's day poems from boys overseas. They are touching and awkward and beautiful in their fervor, but a litfle incident took place in a busy steel mill near here the other day that epitomizes the thought behind each.

The hot little office was crowded and busy, as it always is these days, but the manager was glad to see the boy, even if he did remember his smile before he could recall his name.

"Home from overseas?" he said, noting the campaign ribbons.

"Just now on leave from the hospital," he smiled. "My wife and I are expecting a visit from the stork, sir, so the hospital allowed me to come home."

"Congratulations!" the manager said heartily, thinking how handsome the boy looked, how radiant at the prospect of becoming a father, and wishing he might have been his own son. And then he saw the boy's right hand was gone.

"But not in combat, sir." The boy hastened to disclaim honor. "I just happened to reach down in my tent at the time the shell passed that way. But I make out nicely, sir. People are kind."

"And your wife?" The manager was anxious to mask his compassion.

"O, my wife's very good, sir. But my mother . . . my mother takes it quite hard."

The manager was thinking swiftly, saying to himself, "These boys, these are the ones we must make a place for in industry when it's over, the hurt ones, hurt but sound in mind."

But the boy was speaking again. "Do you know, sir, it's just since I've been sick that I have realized things. It's the mothers that are fighting this war. The mothers don't know where we are, and they wonder and worry. Why, they keep their minds on us all the time. Soldiers don't worry. They know where they are. They know what's up. But the mothers don't. They see us in every battle. Yes, sir, it's the mothers that are fighting this war."

Weather Note.

Word comes from an army lieutenant in Iran that it gets so warm there—130 degrees or more—that the army is forced to take afternoon siestas. It rains rarely, he reported, and the last time it did one man fainted from surprise. It took three buckets of sand to bring him to.

Handicaps of Age.

The rewards of adulthood are scanty. David O'Neill, the son-in-law of Gov. Dempsey of New Mexico, is a private in the army, but the governor has just made the private's son, 18 months old, an honorary colonel.

Nomenclature.

W. E. Dove has charge of the United States department of agriculture's division of insects affecting man and animals.

The Home Front.

The crowd was a trifle restless. Dr. Preston Bradley was principal speaker for the evening, but he was preceded on the program by a spokesman for the Red Cross. Her talk was neat and long and, possibly, a trifle dull, and she had talked for 10 minutes when a man in the rear of the hall rose and impatiently shouted: "Bradley!" The Red Cross speaker paled and said softly, "I'm sorry my talk isn't well received, but it is important," then completed her remarks and sat down. At this an army sergeant, his chest covered with decorations and campaign ribbons, rose. His face was flushed and angry. "I just want to say I've been all over with the army," he cried, "and everywhere I have been, the Red Cross has been, too. They are doing a wonderful job. I think," and his gaze was riveted toward the rear of the hall, "that the man who yelled 'Bradley' should have shouted 'gladly.'"

Organized Confusion.

Any day now we expect to hear a radio announcer rattle out:

"Buy a war bond, but buy a Bruin first."

WAR WIDOWS ON THE JOB.

HONOLULU, T. H., April 16.—I have just read your March 28 issue and noted on the picture page a wirephoto showing Mrs. Jack Feinstein who it was believed was the first American war widow to visit her husband's grave on foreign soil. Altho this is not a foreign country, a word on that subject can be added about the territory of Hawaii.

There are countless women here who were with their husbands and lost them on Dec. 7, and who have remained here because this is their home. They are authorized to remain here because they willingly accepted work or continued to work at the outbreak of the war.

I can name a more specific case: The one of Mrs. Alta Huey, whose home was in Berwyn, a suburb of Chicago, who accepted a civil service position with the navy in Pearl Harbor and arrived here early in March of this year. She has bravely given up her home to be here, because her husband is buried here in Hawaii, and she accounts for her presence in a war zone by staying on the job.

It is my opinion that the many women like Mrs. Huey, Mrs. Feinstein, and those countless others who remain on the job after having already given up so much should not go unmentioned or unthanked.

MRS. ROBERT NEMECEK.

ON USURPATION AND INSOLENCE.

Missoula, Mont., May 8.—War or no war, we need more—not less—examination and criticism of what is happening to us. Our people must keep alert, lest we soon face issues here at home comparable to those we are fighting against abroad. Mr. Roosevelt is drunk with power. Each usurpation becomes bolder than its predecessor. Insolence in high office runs amuck and must be restrained. Mr. Roosevelt must be taught that he is our servant, and not our master. His recent seizure of a large civilian industry in Chicago, under the flimsy pretext that its unhampered operation is vital to the war, is the latest and most flagrant example of his bull headed determination to destroy those who disagree with him and his political quackery.

Apropos of the Chicago incident, I quote from the Declaration of Independence: "In every stage of these oppressions we have petitioned for redress in the most humble terms; our repeated petitions have been answered only by repeated injury. A prince, whose character is thus marked by every act which may define a tyrant, is unfit to be the ruler of a free people." J. C. ROBINSON.

WARD'S RETURN.

Chicago, May 10.—The return of Montgomery Ward & Co. to its owners immediately after the NLRB election clarifies Mr. Roosevelt's position. Evidently there never was any intention to hold it long enough for a test of legality. The administration undertook to guarantee union control by permitting the C. I. O. to campaign under government protection. Having done this, and thus assuring a majority vote in favor of the union, Mr. Roosevelt returned the business at the earliest moment. Can there be any doubt now that he intends to have a fourth term?

CARL M. RHODES.

THE WORKING MAN'S FUTURE.

Dubuque, Ia., May 10.—With class hatred, industrial strife, and dissension on a steady increase today, it is hard to figure out just what the future holds for American working men and women, if we continue to drift toward fascism or communism or both in America under New Deal regimentation.

If the New Deal burocratic octopus continues to grow, it will sooner or later destroy the very things which have made America great. Industrial progress means increased employment and prosperity for all. New Deal regimentation of industry, agriculture and business destroys the fundamentals of American freedom and progress.

If all indsutry in America is to be controled and dominated by political burocrats, where will we find men and women willing to risk their savings in business ventures which require the employment of labor? You can't keep American workers employed by simply growing Christmas trees. If those who invest their money in business have nothing to say as to how the business should be operated, why should they take the chance of establishing a business? Why not do away with all burocratic control of industry, agriculture, business, and labor before we destroy the incentive which is necessary for the employment of labor? H. J. M.

SAYS IT'S DIFFERENT NOW.

Minocqua, Wis., May 9.—Irving H. Weiss, appearing in your Voice of the People, states the majority of the people want Mr. Roosevelt. I believe he is speaking for the past. People voted many Presidents into office, but before their terms had expired they were looking for other men to replace them. I would suggest Mr. Weiss look around him and see if the majority wants Mr. Roosevelt and the present administration now. HAROLD R. FISCHRUP.

UNDER F. D. R.'S BED?

Chicago, May 10.—The President suggests that people are looking under their beds for things, so how about taking a look under F. D. R.'s Presidential bed? He might find a lot of Republican governors, congressmen, and recalcitrant Democrats bouncing the bed springs from underneath. MRS. DALE.

WHY ATTILIO!

Chicago, May 9.—My bobby sox sister swooned last night, and not over Sinatra but over Attilio Baggiore.

BUILDING HAZARD.

Chicago, April 13.—The building next door to mine has been abandoned and is a dangerous menace to the children in the vicinity who may be playing in or around the structure. I have repeatedly asked the owner to demolish the property, but no action has been taken. I am, therefore, appealing to you for assistance and advice. C. C.

Our inspector reports this three story and attic building is vacant, open, and in a dilapidated condition. The owner has been notified to wreck or repair said building, and having failed to comply with said notice, the matter has been placed in the law department for prosecution.

CHICAGOLAND'S MAY BLOSSOMS NOD IN WELCOME

Nature Arrays Herself for Mother's Day.

Chicagoland trees and shrubs have donned their gayest dress to greet crowds which will seek a rest from war time duties in the quiet of countryside and park tomorrow. The area now bids fair to surpass the beauty of an Ozarks mountainside or the cherry blossom lanes in Washington, D. C.

The south suburban section is dotted with the pastel blossoms of the wild crab apple and roadside cherry orchards are nearly in full bloom. An occasional clump of red dogwood spots a touch of heavier tone in the crayon-like scene.

Flowers Carpet Fields.

Early spring rains have brought grass to a rich green, from which white adders' tongues and purple violets peep. Whole fields are carpeted by wild sweet williams and the banks of flooded creeks are heavy with moss.

For 17 miles the Outer drive is lined with wild crab apple trees and hawthornes, the buds of which have just started to unfold their petals. More than 25,000 wild crabs, the same number of hawthorns, 17,000 flowering plums, and 30,000 forsythia bushes have been planted and carefully nurtured in the city's parks and boulevards.

The azure blue of the shoreline provides a proper background for the graceful white blossom covered shadbush, known to Robert E. Moore, landscape architect for the Chicago park district, as amelanchier.

Petals Provide Contrast.

The delicate white petals of the wild plum provide sharp contrast for the chaenomeles japonica, better known as the fire bush, which grows off the drive just opposite the marine hospital.

The surest sign that the Chicago region is awakening to another spring and summer is the tangy scent of the flowering currant, the blossoms of which send off a fragrance akin to that of a freshly opened tin of cloves.

STALIN'S PLEDGE TOLD BY PRIEST; POLES SKEPTICAL

Co-operation with the Catholics Vowed.

BY THOMAS MORROW.

Chicagoans of Polish extraction yesterday greeted with a tongue in cheek attitude the statement of the Rev. Stanislaus Orlemanski of Springfield, Mass., that he has a document promising coöperation of Premier Stalin of Russia with the Catholic church.

As predicted in THE TRIBUNE, Father Orlemanski defended his mysterious trip to Russia, which drew protests from Polish organizations, in a press conference in the Stevens hotel. Here he announced that he had the signed question and answer statement from Stalin and translated it as follows;

1. Do you think it admissible for the soviet government to pursue a policy of persecution and coercion with regard to the Catholic church?

Calls Policy "Precluded."

Stalin—As an advocate of the freedom of conscience and that of worship I consider such a policy to be inadmissible and precluded.

2. Do you think that the coöperation with the holy father, Pope Pius XII., in the matter of struggle against coercion and persecution of the Catholic church is possible?

Stalin—I think it is possible.

Karol Piatkiewicz, editor of the Polish Daily Zgoda, official daily and weekly publication of the Polish National alliance, which has a membership of 300,000, said that "any Stalin policy must be proved by deeds, not words.

He said Stalin had made so many promises that the Poles doubt his sincerity. The attitude of Russia toward Poland, he added, is imperialistic rather than communistic. Other Polish-Americans, who did not wish to be quoted, echoed his attitude.

Makes Trip as a Citizen.

Father Orlemanski said that in the Stalin paper he has an historic document and an answer to his critics; that he acted while they talked. He asserted that he had made the trip alone as a private citizen and not as a representative of the state department or the Catholic church.

"I am not a Communist," Father Orlemanski asserted.

Of his trip to Russia he said he paid his own expenses to Great Falls, Mont., and rode a Russian plane from there. He said that he had two conferences with Stalin, found him democratic and amenable to the question technique on the religious question.

Father Orlemanski left Chicago yesterday afternoon for Springfield. He said he would confer with Catholic officials on arrival there. He plans to say mass in his church tomorrow.

URGES IMPROVED TREATMENT FOR VICTIMS OF T. B.

Federal efforts to care for tubercular veterans of World War I were ineffective and, unless changes are made, tuberculosis victims of this war will face the same prospect, Louis I. Dublin, third vice president of the Metropolitan Life Insurance company, said yesterday. He spoke at the final session of the 40th annual meeting of the National Tuberculosis association in the Stevens hotel.

Dublin, who also is statistician of the insurance company, said that more than 200,000 veterans of the first World war have been admitted to hospitals and sanatoriums, chiefly those operated by the veterans' administration, for treatment of tuberculosis. He asserted that the pattern of service to these patients has been so poorly planned that it actually leads to a breakdown.

One of the weaknesses of the system, he said, is that patients have been allowed to come and go at will.

ALUMNI COUNCIL AWARD IS GIVEN TO MME. CHIANG

Mme. Chiang Kai-Shek, wife of the generalissimo of China, yesterday received the American Alumni council's first annual award of merit. The award was made at the organization's 29th annual meeting in the Medinah club.

Citing Mme. Chiang for her distinguished life since graduation in 1917 from Wellesley college, for "the ennobling work she has performed on behalf of her people, and for the evident desire to see the world more abounding in human kindness and thoughtfulness," the scroll recording the citation was received on her behalf by Dr. Liu Chieh, Chinese minister.

In the course of her response of acceptance, broadcast from Chungking, China, Mme. Chiang said:

"Most of my American friends have asked me," she said, "what contribution in peace America can best make equivalent to the magnificent effort she is making toward our common victory. America has been and is the arsenal of democracies in forging weapons of war; she must continue to be this arsenal in fashioning the patterns of peace."

Divorced Wife Benefits in Will of Alan C. Dixon

The estate of Alan C. Dixon, president of the Arthur Dixon Transfer company, who died May 4, was estimated at $100,000 yesterday when the will was filed in Probate court by Atty. Edward DeBolt. In an unusual bequest, Dixon left his household furnishings and furniture, his automobiles, a coin collection, and silverware to his divorced wife, Janet, of 1448 Lake Shore dr. The remainder of the estate will be divided among two brothers, three sisters, and 19 nieces and nephews.

ADMIRAL URGES ENFORCED ARMY PEACE TRAINING

Passage of a national service act to require compulsory military service for at least one year, as a means of combating unpreparedness, was recommended yesterday by Rear Adm. Arthur S. Carpender, commandant of the 9th naval district, in a speech before the Executives club in Hotel Sherman. Adm. Carpender was the key speaker at the club's civic assembly, a highlight of Chicago's observance of annual Youth week.

Special luncheon guests were 96 outstanding students from Chicago high schools, junior colleges, and the Chicago Teachers college who were awarded civic achievement medals.

Adm. Carpender congratulated the students, telling them "you are here because you have creditably accomplished the first real individual task of your lives."

Selected from the honor students to discuss "Youth's Service to Our Country," Horace K. Ivy of Bowen High school and Shirley Anderson of Steinmetz High school, also contributed to the program. A thousand guests attended the luncheon.

R. A. DONNELLAN, 44TH WARD G.O.P. HEAD, IS DEAD

Services will be held at 10 a. m. Monday for Richard A. Donnellan, 44th ward Republican committeeman, who died of a heart attack yesterday in his home at 2215 Dayton st. Mr. Donnellan had attended the G. O. P. county convention on Thursday.

Mr. Donnellan was a manufacturer. With a brother he was the inventor of coin counting and packing machines used by banks thruout the country. Besides his interest in the Standard-Johnson company making these devices, he was part owner of the Consolidated Screw Machine company, now engaged in war work.

After losing a close race for the committeemanship in 1940, Mr. Donnellan was appointed to fill the vacancy caused by the winner's death. He was elected to the party position April 11. Surviving is his widow, Harriet.

GOSSIP SWAYED DRAFT RULINGS, U. S. TRIAL TOLD

Felix Paul Stella, 51, of 2939 Van Buren st., former member of draft board 39 at 2124 Van Buren st., went on trial yesterday before United States Judge Michael L. Igoe on charges of irregularities in conduct of board affairs. Stella was indicted last September with 10 other defendants.

The chief witness was Edward A. Chill, 46, of 2650 23d pl., who has pleaded guilty. He testified that he made a false affidavit so one of Stella's three sons, Frank, 19, could be classified as an esential war worker.

Chill also is charged with receiving money to influence his decisions. George A. Dustin, 2120 Van Buren st., a hair tonic manufacturer, chairman of the board, testified that the board sometimes had no basis for its decisions other than neighborhood gossip.

Stella will be questioned further when the trial resumes Monday. His attorney is A. Bradley Eben.

DEATH NOTICES

In Memoriam

BOBEK—Mary Ann Bobek, In sad and loving memory of our precious daughter, who passed away one year ago today, May 13, 1943.
A bitter grief, a shock severe,
To part with one we loved so dear,
God loved her, too, and thought it best
So He took her home to eternal rest.
LOVING DAD, MOTHER, AND BROTHER ALBERT JR.

FUCIARELLI—Ted Fuciarelli, May 13, '43. More and more each day I miss him,

25,750 UNDER 26 AVAILABLE FOR DRAFT IN STATE

May Have to Take a Few Farm Workers.

Illinois' pool of draft available men under 26 years old was 25,750 May 1, after deducting a few thousand deferments for necessary men in war industry and subtracting the estimated 40 per cent who would be found physically unfit for military service, Paul G. Armstrong, state director of selective service, said yesterday.

From this pool of 25,750, and an additional 2,500 availables who become 18 years old each month, the state will be called upon to fill future draft quotas until the pool is empty. After these men are inducted into the military service the next group facing call are the 18,500 availables in the 26-30 year group. In this group Illinois has nearly 50,000 now in classes 2-A and 2-B—essential industry or war production.

"To meet draft quotas with men under 26," Armstrong said, "a few men still will have to be taken off the farms of Illinois, altho we have taken just about all the young farm men who can be spared."

The war and the navy departments have emphasized the necessity for filling May and June quotas. State and local board quotas hereafter will be based upon the number of availables under 26. However, Maj. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, national draft director, has said that if filling quotas meant dipping into the over 30 age group the quotas should be ignored.

When local draft boards begin taking men in the 26-30 age group all non-fathers will be called before any fathers are taken, Armstrong said. In addition local boards will take volunteers, delinquents, and men who have left farms without permission, regardless of age, if they are under 38.

WANT TO KNOW DRAFT STATUS? THIS WILL HELP

Washington, D. C. May 12 (AP).—Here are answers to some of the questions that still may bother draft registrants 26 and over:

Q. Is every local draft board bound to follow the new policies announced yesterday?

A.—National headquarters believes that the boards, by and large, will attempt to carry out the principles laid down.

Q.—Can a board draft men over 30 even if it still has not inducted all its men under 26?

A.—Yes, but this would be the exceptional case.

Q.—What shall a board do if it runs out of men under 26, exhausts its 26-29 group of nonnecessary men, and has no 30-38 men in nonessential industries from which to draw?

A.—The board should fail to deliver its quota.

Q.—What should an essential employer do if a deferment for an over 30 employe is turned down?

A.—Selective service advises that an appeal be filed.

Q.—What if a man is already accepted—that is, has passed his physical examination—but has not yet been inducted?

A.—He is in no less favorable position. Selective service has directed that these cases be reopened immediately.

Q.—Local boards have been directed to review the cases of all men in the 26-29 and 30-37 groups who have been classed 1-A, and to defer those who meet the new requirements. Will this reclassification be automatic, or should the employer file a deferment application?

A.—To make sure, the employer should file at once for every man he wants deferred who is over 30 and who has been class 1-A.

Q.—What should the registrant himself do?

A.—The 30-or-over registrant should make sure that his local board is aware of his status. If he is in 1-A, and in essential work, he should notify his board he should be in 2-A or 2-B.

May Queen

BETSY ROBSON.

Betsy Robson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marshall W. Robson of Beloit, Wis., was enthroned last night as May queen of the National College of Education in Evanston. Miss Robson is president and scholastic leader of the senior class. She appeared with her court of eight students in the school's annual spring festival, "America Dances," staged by the junior and senior classes.

OPA GAS SLEUTH CAUGHT DODGING A LAW HIMSELF!

Fined for Having No 1944 Auto Tag.

Marion, Ill., May 12 [Special].—An OPA investigator of black market gasoline operations was fined $20 and costs by Justice of Peace Earl Benedict here yesterday for operating his personal automobile without 1944 license plates.

He is Pat O. Driscoll, former Democratic precinct committeeman in Rockford, who has been working out of the state OPA office here for several months. His territory includes 62 counties in the southern half of the state.

Besides lacking 1944 plates, Driscoll's car had no federal use stamp and displayed only an "A" gasoline sticker, said Chief of Police Robert Ramsey, who spotted his car at a local gasoline station.

Travels on "A" Ration.

"I didn't bother about charging him with not having the federal stamp. That is a case for federal men," said Chief Ramsey.

"I don't understand, either, how he can drive from one end of Illinois to the other on gasoline he can legally obtain on an 'A' ration," the chief added. "But that's up to the OPA."

At Springfield headquarters of the OPA, a spokesman said investigators are required to use common carriers wherever possible and are not given special gasoline allotments except in emergencies. In such cases, however, the spokesman said, the investigators must account for the extra gas. The official said the office had no knowledge of any extra gas having been given to Driscoll.

Fine Is Protested.

When arraigned before Justice Benedict, Driscoll was accompanied by an unidentified man, who tried to have the fine lowered.

Asserting he was a lawyer, Driscoll's companion said he knew the $20 fine was excessive, insisting that the statutory fine was $10.

"The law says the fine can be anything from $10 to $100," Benedict replied.

"All right, we'll pay," asserted Driscoll's companion.

The justice said Driscoll did not have enough money to pay the fine and court costs and borrowed some from his companion. Before leaving, Driscoll had the justice fill out an application for 1944 license plates, Benedict said.

Boy, 6, Injured in Fall from 2d Story Window

Robert Holst, 6, fell from a second floor window of his home at 4958 Princeton av., yesterday when his brother, Jack, 3, pushed him at play. Robert suffered a fracture of an arm and several of his teeth were knocked out.

'OVER 26' DRAFT MAY HIT 150,000 IN REST OF YEAR

Washington, D. C., May 12 (AP).—Only 150,000 to 200,000 men 26 and over need be drafted for the rest of this year, informed government officials estimated tonight, and selective service was reported apprehensive that too many older men might be taken despite a new deferment policy.

The estimate was declared to be high, if anything, since it did not take into account the likelihood that many more young farmers 18 thru 25 will be inducted under tightened farm deferment procedure.

Liberalized Standards.

More older men may be taken than needed, officials feared, because local draft boards may not immediately adjust themselves to the liberalized standards of essential work set forth yesterday by Selective Service Director Hershey.

The war man power commission informed its 1,500 United States employment service offices today that men 30 thru 37 in essential industries are not expected to be inducted probably "for the remainder of the year." This was the first official statement that the over 30 group could expect deferment thru 1944.

Government Workers Eligible.

A committee on government deferments announced that government workers 30 and over will be eligible for indefinite deferment under the new policy and those 26-29 will be subject to the "necessary worker" standards applied to private industry.

Fined $5 for Striking Boy with Clothes Line

Marco Mateazzi, 68, of 34 E. 115th st., was fined $5 and costs on a disorderly conduct charge in Grand Crossing court yesterday when he admitted striking Marvin Tumiati, 10, of 13 E. 115th st. with a piece of clothesline for throwing stones near is house.

NEW DEAL BARES GESTAPO STREAK —MISS KELLEMS

Miss Vivien Kellems, who manufactures at Westport, Conn., a tricky cable grip much used by the army and navy, has got over her first fury at the reading of her private correspondence in congress and on the air and now perceives that episode as part of a gestapolike "smear campaign.

Vivien Kellems.

"I realize now that I was supposed to be so enraged I would do something senseless," she said yesterday when she arrived in Chicago to speak last night before the Citizens U. S. A. Committee on "I Answer the Smear Bund."

"Now I have been able to get myself in check," she said, "and see the cold calculation behind it. I am being attacked in just exactly the fashion the German Gestapo operates. I can see that plainly.

"The people of Chicago have seen the high handed use of armed soldiers to enforce dictatorial rule in the Montgomery Ward seizure. I don't know what more is needed to persuade them that they are being carried along the road to the concentration camp."

Miss Kellems, in her address last night, detailed her criticism of income tax administration, to which she attributes her disfavor with the New Deal.

She proposed repealing the income tax, for which she would substitute a general sales tax, on the ground that it is a violation of constitutional provision for uniform apportionment and in practice the collector disregards the 4th and 5th amendments, guaranteeing security against unreasonable search and assuring no one shall be compelled to be a witness against himself.

As a means of reducing taxes, she proposed "drastic reduction of fantastic governmental expenditures," and elimination of "every worldwide boondoggling project . . . in other words, instead of spreading largess all over South America, send a few weapons to Gen. MacArthur."

Miss Kellems asserted in a speech in Kansas City, Mo., last January that she could not pay her income tax without endangering the existence of her business.

"I still believe this administration is unwisely taxing small concerns so heavily it is impossible to prepare for the future," she said. "My company employs only 150 persons, and half of them are women who make $40 a week working in their homes. I have been attacked by the New Deal press for running a sweat shop. But these women make as much as they could if they worked in a factory, and under my system they are able to stay at home and look after their children."

Miss Kellems was attacked as being friendly with "Count Frederick Carl von Zedlitz," a Nazi business agent in Argentina. Passages from letters she had written to him were read in congress by Rep. Coffee [D., Wash.] and on a broadcast by Drew Pearson, radio gossiper. She demanded investigation of how mail entrusted to the postoffice department was made available for hostile publication.

TWO AGED MEN DIE AS TRAIN STRIKES AUTO

Walter Shipley, 72, and Daniel Manny, 80, of St. Anne, in Kankakee county, were killed yesterday when the Chicago and Eastern Illinois railroad's Dixie Flyer struck the automobile in which they were going to work in the village cemetery. The accident occurred at the Main st. crossing, in the center of the village. Witnesses said Manny, who was driving, apparently did not see the flasher signal.

A middle aged woman wearing a pink dress and carrying a wicker basket was fatally injured last night by a Chicago Surface Lines bus as she was crossing at Central and Windsor avs. She died in Belmont hospital. Fred W. Ahrens, 42, of 3441 Evergreen av., the driver, told police she ran against the side of the bus.

Fifty passengers were shaken when a 47th st. surface lines car struck a motor truck driven by Benjamin Marsalis, 443 E. 45th st., which stalled on the tracks near Morgan st.

Friend of the Yanks

[The Friend of the Yanks department will answer questions about the draft and military service, both in the daily columns and by mail, if stamped, self-addressed envelopes are sent with queries.]

E. G. P. writes: "My II-B deferment was up Jan. 21 and I was put in 1-A on Jan. 3. My company received a 6 plus rating on our replacement schedule. An appeal with a state stamp on it was sent to the local board. I passed my pre-induction physical examination Feb. 17. On April 21 I was put into 1-A by the appeal board by a vote of 5-0. The local board says this makes me eligible for immediate induction even if I am 33 years of age and employed as a foreman in an aircraft plant engaged in 100 per cent war production for the army air forces. I have been a foreman for over two years and directly responsible for the instruction and development of four leaders and 140 to 160 workers. Other workers, younger and with less responsibility, have received II-B's. Do you think the decision of the local and appeal boards is correct?"

ANSWER: It is possible that on the replacement schedule it was indicated by your company that your release date was Jan. 21 and if such is the case the local board and the appeal board are right in their decisions. The local board always has the right to determine the occupational status of a registrant subject to appeal and it would appear that, since both the local board and the board of appeal decided on the basis of evidence submitted that you should be made available for service, that you and the company probably overestimate your indispensability. It is true that the aircraft industry has been declared super critical, but that does not mean that every job therein is super critical. State memorandum 744 is the only one dealing with aircraft for the state of Illinois and covers firms building long range bombers only. From this memo it appears that firms engaged in such production are required to file certain forms of affidavits in addition to regular 42-A forms to secure deferments. Your age will prevent your local board from inducting you for the time being.

W. P. P. writes: "I am a war veteran in a vet hospital drawing $60 per month compensation. I went out without permission and got drunk, for which the hospital court barred me from the hospital for one year. If I had to come in on an emergency before that year is up will I have to pay the rate of $4 per day for staying in the hospital? Could they take my $60 for that pay for staying in the hospital?"

ANSWER: From conversation with veterans' administration representatives we gather that if you got drunk "it must have been a real bender" because disciplinary boards of these hospitals seldom take away privileges for more than three months and then not for emergency hospitalization. We are also told that your compensation could not be seized or demanded of you as payment for such hospitalization.

NOTE: We have received an appeal for phonograph records and needles from several ships in the Southwest Pacific. All the records they had are worn out and the needles as well. If any one has any to spare send us a letter listing the records and we will forward the letters to the ships.

(Another chapter in the story, "Working for Victory on the Santa Fe")

It's done with Lights

★ View of one of the newly installed Centralized Traffic Control system boards which controls train operations on various busy sections of track along the Santa Fe in California, New Mexico and Texas.

How the Centralized Traffic Control System is speeding shipments along the Santa Fe

You've seen a miniature railroad controlled by a central board.

Here you see how traffic is controlled on an important stretch of Santa Fe track in almost the same fashion.

On Santa Fe's big Centralized Traffic Control boards, miles of track are laid out in miniature scale before the eyes of the operator. Lights show the location of each train.

By simply turning a lever, the operator can signal an engineer miles away to take his train into a siding to clear the track for a train coming from the opposite direction.

It eliminates the issuing of train orders, cuts down the detention of needed freight cars, and conserves manpower and engine power.

It permits a greater use of track and switching facilities, virtually adding another "mainline" to important parts of the Santa Fe System.

This efficient "C. T. C." system is just one more step Santa Fe is taking to move more vital war freight faster.

Women in War Work

By Dorothy Johnson

The first SPAR to go on active duty in the United States [she enlisted in January, 1943] will be stationed as an interviewing officer in the coast guard women's reserve recruiting office, 53 W. Jackson blvd., beginning Monday. She is Ensign Theodora Jennings, 22, whose home is in Green Cove Springs, Fla.

[U. S. Coast Guard Photo.]

Ensign Theodora Jennings.

Ensign Jennings will start work at her new post by making a tour of La Salle, Ill., and surrounding area as an advance agent for the "spring caravan" which will bring SPARS on a recruiting assignment in the territory.

SPAR Jennings was an enlisted woman who came up thru every yeoman rating, except that of chief, to become a commissioned officer.

Two Chicago posts of the WOW [woman ordnance workers] have completed plans to obtain funds with which to provide dog guides for service men blinded in action in this war.

Post No. 12 at the Mills Industries, Inc., 4100 Fullerton av., will have a tag day at the plant Monday. Members of the unit expect to receive contributions from every employe. Proceeds of the project will go to the Seeing Eye. Miss Sylvia Gordon is post 12 president.

Miss Ann Lipka, president, and members of post 24, at Oscar Mayer & Co., 1241 Sedgwick st., will sponsor a variety show May 19, 20, and 21 at the Forester theater, 1018 N. Dearborn st. Proceeds of the three performances, each of which will begin at 8:30 p. m., will go to provide guide dogs.

More than 50 persons, some of whom are company employes, are in the cast. Miss Helen Hockett, industrial relations counselor at the plant and one of the WOWs, is co-author of lyrics.

Still another WOW post, No. 25, at the Stewart-Warner Corp., will have an open house from 2 p. m. to 9 p. m. tomorrow at the Belmont-Cragin service men's canteen, 3111 N. Central av. Mrs. Helen Wett is president of the unit.

Chicago WAC officers who are mothers will be the guests of fellow officers at a Mother's day luncheon at noon tomorrow in the Knickerbocker hotel.

Special guests will include Maj. Doris E. Epperson, WAC director of the 6th service command, whose son, Capt. Earl R. Epperson, 22, is serving overseas with the air transport command; Lt. Paula Amrein of the public relations staff, whose son, Gordon Taylor Amrein, 14, attends school in Berkeley, Cal., and Lt. Aleda C. Moyer, who has a son, Patrick, on duty overseas with the Canadian army.

The Marine Mothers of America this week retained in office the members who have guided the war projects of the club in the last year. Officers reëlected are Mrs. Catherine Rogal, president; Mrs. Evelyn Hall and Mrs. Pearl Watkins, vice presidents; Mrs. Violet Shaffer, recording secretary; Mrs. Margaret Levy, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Helen Epperson, treasurer; Mrs. Helen Bodner, sergeant at arms, and Mrs. Minnie Brown, chaplain.

Display House Recalls Days of Early 1800s

BY EDITH WEIGLE.

The recent preoccupation with Victoriana has reached its peak. When Hollywood gilded the already gilded lily of this ornate decor in the sets for "No Time for Love," it marked the apotheosis of a period.

Now decorators are harking back to the era just before the days of the massive rocker, the marble topped center table, and the corner what-not. They are reviving the style that bloomed during the early 19th century, the Regency, called by Walter Rendell Storey "the last of the great English styles."

In this country it was known as Federal or Greek Revival after the type of house in which it was used—the house of the tall, white columns, spacious, high ceilinged interiors, and woodwork beautiful in classic detail, and was a reflection of the world's interest at that time in Greek and Roman design.

Duncan Phyfe and Samuel McIntyre, famed cabinet makers of the eastern seaboard, and hundreds of other craftsmen all over the country were copying English Regency furniture, and of course sailing ships were bringing over original pieces, as well. The Greek Revival house, too, was being built in the middle west as well as in the east and by 1850 it completely dominated American architecture.

In a newly furnished and very handsome exhibition house designed by a Chicago store you may see the 1944 version of the Greek Revival. The interiors have great dignity which results from chaste white backgrounds and flowing white draperies, from the presence of fine antiques of the era mingled with artistic textiles of the present day, and from an excellent choice of decorative accessories: paintings, busts, and statues, chandeliers, and bibelots.

Lustrous upholsteries are in deep, rich shades of crimson, green, and gold which set off the elegance of the dark mahogany couches, chairs, and tables. In the drawing room the floor has been done to resemble white marble with green veining.

In the dining room the table is completely hidden under a very beautiful white brocaded cover. A large porcelain vase with Greek motifs, placed in the center, holds masses of red roses and the long draperies at the windows are of velvet in exactly the same shade.

Instead of the usual dining chairs an antique Regency settee, done in dull gold velvet, is on one side of the table, faced by two side chairs with velvet seats on the opposite side and at the head and foot are armchairs to match. Antique black iron stands, shaped like obelisks, hold masses of green plants on their shelves, flanking the long sideboard. The effect of this room, like that of the others, is one of great elegance.

Beside the drawing and dining rooms, this Greek Revival house has two bedrooms and a spectacular Roman bath and dressing room.

Floral Motifs

BY NANCY CABOT.

Floral motifs are one of the most effective bits of needlework which may be used for wall pictures or color-spots. This pair of vases filled with a variety of flowers is an ideal bit of pickup work for the warm months ahead, and a means of using odds and ends of embroidery floss. The motifs measure 8 by 10 inches.

For the hot iron transfer pattern of the pair of flower filled vases, No. 707, send 10 cents in stamps or coin plus 2 cents to cover mailing cost, to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth av., New York City.

Hour of Symphony Starts New Series on W-G-N Tonight

The Chicago Theater of the Air Symphony hour, heretofore heard over W-G-N on Monday nights, will inaugurate its new summer hour—8 to 9 p. m. on Saturdays—before 600 guests in the main studio tonight. The program will be broadcast over W-G-N, WGNB, and the Mutual Broadcasting system.

Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of The Tribune, will continue his Saturday evening talks on the symphony hour. Col. McCormick will speak from New York tonight.

Henry Weber will conduct the W-G-N Symphony orchestra and Richard Tucker, tenor, will be the guest soloist. The program will feature the orchestra in the overture to "Die Meistersinger," by Wagner; "The Southern Roses Waltz," by Strauss, and the "Caprice Italienne," by Tschaikowsky.

Tucker will sing "The Flower Song" from the opera "Carmen," by Bizet; "Cielo e Mar" from "La Gioconda," by Ponchielli, and "Il Mio Tesoro" from "Don Giovanni," by Mozart.

The operetta series has been discontinued for the summer months.

"It's better even than having Maw here. It don't eat Wheaties."

Now Paw can shut off the conversation and get down to some real eating—Wheaties, with plenty of milk and fruit. Good whole grain nourishment in a "Breakfast of Champions." And a delicious "second helping" flavor that shifts your appetite into high gear. Had your Wheaties today?

Looking at Hollywood

By Hedda Hopper

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., May 12.—I've done nothing to deserve the honor that will be bestowed on me Monday when I christen one of Douglas' C-47 ambulance planes which the company is naming Hedda Hopper. Having one of those giant birds of mercy bearing your name is something to have lived for. I'm so happy that my friends—Charlotte Greenwood and her husband, Martin Broones—will be there to help me. . . . Leo McCarey is huffing and puffing, trying to make his next picture better than "Going My Way." This, too, is for Bing Crosby at R. K. O. Listen, Leo, no one can turn out pictures like that every time—it's not in the cards. . . . Bing didn't realize what he was letting himself in for when he announced he would make "The Great John L. Sullivan." We want Ward Bond. Bing's director and producer favor an unknown. A fan from Chester, Pa., wrote, "Whatever you do, don't get some young upstart." So they're testing everybody, and Ward Bond is still waiting.

Great Sight on a Gala Night.

'Twas pretty seeing 50 stars and starlets including Merle Oberon, Lucille Ball, Esther Williams, Lana Turner, Bonita Granville, Phyllis Thaxter, Gloria De Haven, Claire Trevor, and others line up according to height on one side of the R. K. O. parking lot, and, on the other side, convalescent soldiers from Birmingham hospital, their escorts for the opening of "Show Business." But the girls I'd like to tip my hat to were women drivers of the Red Cross station wagons. These gals are doing a great job. Eddie Cantor and Joan Davis make an ideal comedy team. Eddie's never been funnier than in "Show Business," and I must find out what Metro's got against George Murphy. He's excellent, yet his studio rarely uses him. The evening netted nearly $9,000 for Birmingham hospital.

O, Boy! What a Dog.

When Asta, "Thin Man's" dog, hears his name he barks, so a line in "Thin Man Comes Home" about Astor hotel had to be changed to Sherry-Netherlands hotel. Every time they said "Astor," the dog barked. When I walked on the set at Metro a roar went up. "Props" enlightened me. I walked in wearing a conservative skimmer, but all day they'd been kidding Myrna Loy about her "Hopper topper." If living in New York and a new husband can do what it's done for Myrna, then those who are beginning to sag here should try it. Wait 'til you see her. . . . It makes me a little ill reading of the "honor" going to Leslie Fenton because he'll direct Greta Garbo. That's reverse English to me. Leslie was one of our first Hollywoodites to enlist. He went to England, did a good job, was injured, and sent home. Garbo's still playing hide-and-seek with herself. She's threatened to appear at Hollywood canteen or, perchance, make an appearance on the radio for the Red Cross, but to date nothing has come of it.

"Ziegfeld Follies."

Fred Astaire and Gene Kelly are playing heavenly twins. They start dancing with a harp in a scene laid in heaven. So George Sydney's nicknamed them "Frankie" and "Winston." Lena Horne, in a gorgeous yellow sequin gown, looked like a butterfly. The public's going to see that gown, too, because when the picture's over she can wear it on her personal appearance tour. . . . It took an hour on "National Velvet" set getting Mickey Rooney down from the rafters. He'd won $4,400 on Boy Knight, but said he, "That doesn't begin to make up my losses." Elisabeth Taylor started in the picture as a child, but she's growing so fast she'll be a woman if they don't hurry and finish. Butch Jenkins is getting raves again. I asked Clarence Brown, who put him in "The Human Comedy," how many times he had to make the kid a star before the fact was recognized. . . . Pretty Hazel Brooks got the lead in "This Thing Called Love" at the Bliss-Hayden theater so David Selznick, Warners, and even her own studio, Metro, are now interested. Smart lassie! You've gotta show the boys, 'Twas ever thus.

Pretty Dress

The shoulder line of this dress especially recommends it for the new spring and summer prints. The scalloping does away with a collar. Below the yoke is deft shirring in the bodice. The skirt is slimly paneled. Style No. 3655 is designed for sizes 14 to 50. Size 36 requires 3¾ yards of 39 inch fabric.

Rummage Sale in Lake Forest to Benefit Y.W.

BY JUDITH CASS.

SELL or exchange what you no longer need, says the OPA of clothing, footwear, and household furnishings and equipment. In effect, that is accomplished by the hundreds of rummage sales which are held thruout this area and at the various resale shops operated by charitable organizations.

Bargain shoppers in the Lake Forest neighborhood will throng the Lake Forest Y. W. C. A. between 9 a. m. and 6 p. m. today when its annual rummage sale is held. Mrs. C. H. Wilmerding and Mrs. Calvin D. Trowbridge are in charge of the 100 women who have been coöperating on the sale. The rummage is of high quality and carefully priced to suit war time pocketbooks and the proceeds will help to defray the running expenses of the Y. W. C. A. In the last 18 months the Tuesday get-togethers for the many navy wives living in the community have been one of the outstanding projects of the Y. W. C. A.

Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday of next week will find a rummage sale in progress at 1546 Howard st., sponsored by the North Shore center of the Infant Welfare society. All types of clothing, household equipment, furniture, and costume jewelry will be on hand, and on the first day, between 10:30 a. m. and 5 p. m., a large stock of new but slightly imperfect glassware will be disposed of at a fraction of its original cost. The sale will be open from 1 to 9 p. m. the other two days. Each member of the center is responsible for the care of one child or mother for one year in the infant welfare station at the Northwestern University settlement.

The Kenwood center of the Infant Welfare society is holding its spring rummage sale Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday at 514 S. Michigan av., with Mrs. Lee Strauss as chairman.

The woman's society of the Winnetka Congregational church raised more than $7,400 at its rummage sale this week at the Winnetka Community house, proving that such a sale can be big business. The stock was nearly gone by 4 p. m. and what remained unsold was given to various charities and the Chicago Industrial league. Mrs. James L. Palmer was general chairman.

On the Calendar.

The Barrington center of the Infant Welfare society is making plans for a supper-dance to be given June 10 at the Barrington Hills Country club. Mrs. Leonard Karcher is in charge of arrangements, with Mrs. Harold B. Smith, Mrs. John Radcliffe, and Mrs. Carrington Clark among her assistants.

Mrs. Karcher is looking forward to the arrival next week of her daughter, Mrs. Andrew P. Rebori Jr., and Maj. Rebori, who has been in a hospital in Florida. They have gone to Washington, D. C., and will come here from there. Mrs. Karcher's son, Freer Willson, is in Miami attending an officer candidate school. His brother, Lt. Archie Willson of the marine air corps, is at home on leave.

The annual benefit of the senior group of the Glencoe center of the Infant Welfare society will be a lecture at 2:15 p. m. Monday that should attract a capacity crowd to the Glencoe Union church. Vera Megowen will be the speaker, with "War Time Entertaining" as her subject. Tea will be served following the lecture.

A number of center members are giving luncheons before the talk, among them the president, Miss Loraine Hayes, Mrs. Isaac Curtis, and Mrs. Hiram H. Belding Jr. Admission to the lecture will be $1.

Here and There.

Somewhere at sea Lt. Edward A. Limberg Jr. of the navy will receive word of the birth of the Limbergs' first child, a girl, yesterday at St. Luke's hospital. Mrs. Limberg [Sally Perry] is living with her mother, Mrs. I. Newton Perry, while Lt. Limberg is on sea duty. The baby, who has been named Mary Bruce, has several uncles in service—Maj. Brewster Perry, now in Italy; Lt. Perry Jr. in the state of Washington, and Capt. Charles Limberg, who just has returned from the Mediterranean area. The baby's other grandmother is Mrs. E. A. Limberg of St. Louis.

News of the arrival of a daughter to Lt. and Mrs. Robert G. Plunkett [Nancy Palmer] was cabled to the baby's father in England, where he is serving with the army. The baby, who will be named Anne Palmer after her aunt, Mrs. David Schoonmaker, was born Tuesday at Presbyterian hospital. Mrs. Plunkett and the baby will join Mrs. Schoon-

White Collar GIRL

Mothers and Daughters.

There have been few famous mothers and daughters. . . . Marie Theresa and Marie Antoinette . . . Anne Boleyn and Queen Elizabeth. . . . Closer to our time: Mme. Curie and Eve Curie. . . . Alma Gluck and Marcia Davenport. . . . Louise Homer and Louise Homer Stires. . . . Carmel Snow and Ilka Chase. . . . Michael Strange and Diana Barrymore [now playing in Chicago in "Rebecca"]. . . . Elizabeth Morrow and Anne Lindbergh.

Few daughters have succeeded their mothers in business. . . . Rare exception: Marion Sturm, blue eyed and blonde as her mother, Eva Sturm, known for 30 years in the beauty business in Chicago. . . . Mother ran the Congress hotel beauty shop 20 years. . . . Daughter, just out of high school, ran the Stevens hotel beauty shop. . . . Now, taking over her mother's business in a loop building, Marion recalls the illustrious stage and operatic stars who sought appointments during those glittering Peacock Alley days . . . remembers in particular a certain little tenor given "upsweep" permanents to make him look taller . . . and Norma Shearer . . . Ethel Barrymore . . . and Rosa Raisa.

There are few mother and daughter business combinations. . . . In the war plants, tho, it's a different story. . . . There you find mother and daughter working together and of them, on this Mother's day, some word should be said. . . . The mother, Jennie La Brow, who was in Belgium during the last war, now a machinist's helper and the daughter, Emily, who left her job in the ceramic laboratory to join the WAVES. . . . And Elice Surprenant, an inspector, and her daughter, Jean, a metallurgical observer. . . . Eleanor Foster and her daughter, Shirley Kemp — all of them employed in the South Works of Carnegie-Illinois Steel.

At Western Electric there's Lillian Free, employed 20 years as a stenographer, whose daughter, Elizabeth Free Naughton, is a clerk [the daughter's husband is with the army in Iran.] . . . Adeline Soper and Dolores Soper who work in the same department — and dozens of others. . . .

And at Amertorp you'll find countless mother and daughter employes, such as Pattie Myers in industrial relations, whose mother Mildred Myers, is an inspector. . . . Lillian Mack and her mother, Rose Tesar, Catherine Wagner and Cassie Clow. . . . Anne Stroch and Lucille Last — and enough more to crowd a column. Of them, on this Mother's day, let some word be said.

Houseshunting.

A robin built a little nest
Upon a window sill
And sat upon the nest serene
And confident and still.

She had no fear of those who came
And went upon the stair
You see, she looked within that house
And saw my mother there.

And saw a crown of soft white hair,
A gentle face, so dear,
She said to Mr. Robin: "Look!
Now, why not build right here!"

Here Are Gift Suggestions for Mother's Day

BY REA SEEGER.

Florists operating under the pressure of Mother's day business report that men in service have deluged them with orders. So civilians, who can't be accommodated, can turn to tributes other than floral. Six pairs of the finest and filmiest stockings, tho of super-duper cotton and rayon, will get a tremendous welcome, when the sizes are correct, and the shade is one of the good looking all-purpose tints to wear with everything.

For very sheer, fragile beauty, combined with unexpected long wearing qualities, nothing matches the hand embroidered white vestees, made in Puerto Rico. The embroidery is so fine and exquisite that it resembles the embroidery on baby dresses and christening robes. And while these pieces are costly, they are well worth the price, for, with care and coddling, they'll last for years. Such a beautiful whiff of snowy white lawn with such effective embroidery and hand work is a flawless touch of charm to add to any dark street or town costume-suit.

Some of the most beautiful costume jewelry imaginable is the summer collection of pastel and white plastics. Earrings, stunning lapel pins, brooches, and bracelets provide a wide assortment. Some of the gigantic earrings are made of colored plastic to look like pulled taffy in big whorls. Green, raspberry, yellow, pink, violet, and blue are exceptionally effective; cool accents for summer coiffures and hats. The flowers like camellias, daisies, wild roses, lilies, gardenias, and violets are miniature blooms, realistically effective down to the tiny green veined leaves used for contrast.

Speakers Put Delinquents Up to Community

Solution of the war time delinquency problem was placed at the doorstep of communities yesterday by speakers at the 13th annual Conference for Delinquency Prevention. Next to home, they asserted, the most important influence in the lives of boys and girls is the community, and therefore the responsibility of fixing goals, formulating programs, and determining policies to lessen delinquency rests with local citizens as well as parents.

Recognizing the neighborhood as the hub of a delinquency program, Gov. Green said the state would continue to place upon the community the primary responsibility in the moral education of its youths but promised continued coöperation of state agencies.

"We are contemplating," Gov. Green said, "the setting up of regional offices whose function it shall be to integrate and coördinate in each region the work of several agencies of the state department of public welfare concerned with the problem of children. Workers from these agencies will be stationed permanently in each of the regions so they will be available at all times to local agencies, schools, institutions, and citizens."

The governor asserted it is not "special" programs delinquents need, but "the sort of normal home and community environment in which the majority of our children grow up in to become normal and useful citizens."

Mothers and fathers must share responsibility for delinquency, said Joseph Kluchesy, chief of police of Milwaukee, who accused parents of failing to set a good example for their children. Parents who boast of obtaining extra gasoline ration coupons, who "put one over on the government" in making out income tax returns, and who fail to vote because "they are all a bunch of crooks" were cited as poor examples for children.

Lt. Col. Walter L. Moser, post chaplain, at Chanute field, Rantoul, urged more paternal control over teen age youngsters. "The average soldier," he said, "wishes parental control might be exercised over the young girl who so often puts herself in his way."

Youth leaders were urged to encourage boys and girls to remain in school by John E. Ott, plant manager of the Acme Steel company, who said, "experience has shown employes under 18 years of age indulge in more horse-play, more loafing, and have more accidents than older employes."

Thru the Looking Glass

Lately our professional shoulder has been the weeping wall for a surprising number of women who have been on self-imposed, self-directed reducing programs and who now wish that there were some magic wand—or cream, or lotion, or treatment—which would restore their neck and face contour to youthful firmness.

We have to report that restoring the contour isn't easy. Constant oiling and firm massage are helpful, of course, and the good professional treatment, we've always thought, is more efficient than amateur attempts. There are special preparations designed to fight skin crepiness and these are good—but you can't expect miracles.

The drawn look and flabby flesh are two of the most irritating but perhaps least menacing of all the ill effects of bad reducing programs. We don't believe that any woman is qualified to be her own doctor and we do believe, firmly, that the physician is the one who should decide first, whether reduction is necessary and then either direct the program or approve the plan the heavy woman wants to follow.

We don't believe beauty operators are reducing experts, either. Before you adopt the diet or the exercise program suggested by your beauty salon by all means have a doctor check on its suitability for you, and that after a complete checkup. There are many factors to be considered, notably the state of heart, kidneys, and blood pressure, before you dive into a diet or an exercise program.

Taking up the diet of a friend of a friend who lost 20 pounds in practically no time and with no discomfort to herself is dangerous business. Reduce, by all means, if you need to—but do it sanely, with a physical examination your starting point.

Soldier's Last Mother's Day Gift Arrives

BY GLADYS PRIDDY.

Ever since he was old enough to understand a little the significance of occasions such as Mother's day, John Floss remembered his mother, Mrs. Jacob Floss, 6344 Elizabeth st., with some little gift.

John Floss.

When he was small, often it was nothing more than a card made at school. As he grew up, his thoughtfulness increased. He remembered each special day even after he enlisted in the army in 1941, after he was commissioned a second lieutenant in 1942, and after he went overseas about six months ago.

On Easter, Mrs. Floss received flowers ordered long in advance. And yesterday a box of mixed plants arrived, the last Mother's day gift from her son, for she and his father received word April 14 that Lt. Floss, 25, died in action March 29 at Bougainville.

Thruout Chicago again this year flowers will carry messages of men overseas to their mothers. Deliveries began yesterday as florists, hampered by lack of help, shortage of flowers, and curtailed deliveries, struggled to meet orders that arrived in batches of 50 and 100 at a time.

Orders come thru the army exchange in New York, where they began to arrive as long ago as February with May 14 delivery dates. The orders have one characteristic in common, florists say—generosity so far as flowers for mother are concerned. Unlike last year, the Red Cross will not handle any of the Mother's day deliveries.

Red roses are the top choice for cut flowers, while, if all orders can be filled, many a mother who probably never dreamed of such extravagance will be wearing an orchid corsage. Indications are that several thousand mothers here will have received plants, flowers, or corsages over the week-end.

Yesterday was Mother's day at Chicago service men's centers, with mothers participating in the programs at all three units—176 W. Washington st., 430 S. Michigan av., and 50 E. 49th st. The majority of the mothers came alone, and a glimpse at the registers showed that among them were women who had as many as five sons overseas.

Mothers' day is recognized in England, Canada, Australia, Mexico, Brazil, and other South American countries. Dr. Ella E. Boole, world Women's Christian Temperance Union president, is said to have carried the Mother's day idea of Miss Anna Jarvis abroad.

Hospital Day Gives Increased Stimulus to Drive for Nurses

Several Chicago hospitals yesterday marked National hospital day, 124th anniversay of the birth of Florence Nightingale by holding open house as the Chicago Hospital council emphasized its campaign to recruit Red Cross nurses' aids and members of the United States cadet nurse corps.

Wesley Memorial hospital will hold an induction of cadet nurses this afternoon, and will dedicate three rooms in memory of the late Bishop Ernest L. Waldorf of the Chicago area of the Methodist church at 4 p. m. tomorrow.

In addition to holding open house, Provident hospital at 426 E. 51st st., dedicated its new $75,000 story and a half quarters for internes.

Movie Mixture Is Skilful Blend in 'Cover Girl'

"COVER GIRL."

A Columbia picture, directed by Charles Vidor, starring Rita Hayworth and Gene Kelly, and presented at the State-Lake.

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

Here is a musical of perfect blend. May its tribe increase!

It spins the story of lovely Rusty Parker who dances in the Brooklyn night club of Danny McGuir. She is his beloved lady in tights and he her adored knight in dancing uniform—for Danny is a popular entertainer as well as boss—until—she wins a "Cover Girl" contest run by the owner of a fashion magazine, who, many years ago, had loved and lost Rusty's grandmother . . . Rusty's entrance in the competition brings her to his notice.

Like Satan—tho he is in no manner a devil—Publisher Coudair offers the red headed image of the woman he had once worshiped all the riches of his world if she will only let him—and Noel Wheaton, big producer—give Rusty the fame and easy living he had longed to give her grandmother. . . . But Rusty is loyal to Danny and her present environment until misunderstanding drives her from the night club to Broadway . . . .

Her heart, nevertheless, is cool to the new and passionately yearns for the old. Rusty wants the little night club and the oyster bar where each night she, Danny, and their best friend, "Genius," met after the show to open a dozen and later caper home thru the Brooklyn streets. . . . Danny? Well, Danny closes shop and—but I shouldn't be giving away plots like this. . . .

According to the mode of the moment, the action dips back often into another era, with its songs, dances, and costumes. . . .

The picture has many intriguing, and surprising situations, some rich comedy, grand music, and dancing that is little short of sensational. [Gene sings like a fog horn, but in him you like it.] Famous magazine cover girls dominate a fascinating sequence. As for the acting—IT—IS—SLICK!

I hope that the glamorous, romantic and dancing team of Hayworth [Rita has everything!] and Kelly will be with us often. I hope Director Vidor will always direct them. And I hope that YOU will have time for "Cover Girl"—because over your busy life it will cast a lovely light.

See you tomorrow.

$100,000 Grant Given to Provide Books for War Area Libraries

The Rockefeller Foundation has approved a grant of $100,000 to the American Library association for purchase of books of permanent value to be used in rebuilding libraries in war areas after the war. Carl H. Milam, Chicago, executive secretary of the association, said yesterday.

Science and cultural advancement might be held back for years if such books were not made available, Mr. Milam said, because many war area libraries have been looted or destroyed by the Nazis.

The library association has 15,000 individual members, and 2,000 library institution members, including the Chicago Public library.

INSTALMENT XII.

A MASKED FIGURE.

A little group met that afternoon in the central hall of the hospital. "We saw you trotting the inspector round, Maj. Moon," said Woods. "What did he say? Is he going to arrest us all for murdering poor old Higgins?"

"Really, Nurse Woods, the way you do talk!" cried Sister Bates.

"He looked rather a sweet little man," said Frederica.

Inspector Cockrill was anything but a sweet little man. Maj. Moon was about to explain this, when he was interrupted by Sgt. McCoy, who, coming out of the reception room, hesitated, saluted, and stood respectfully silent until given permission to speak. "What is it, McCoy?" asked Moon.

Sgt. McCoy was orderly sergeant on night duty in the reception room, where, among other things, various keys were kept. He now had a tale to relate of which he proposed to make a great deal of capital. On the night of the blitz, the night of Higgins' admission, a figure masked and gowned, had come into the reception room, taken the key of the operating theater off its hook, and silently glided away; returning some time later, unseen, and replacing the key on the hook. His expression added: There now! What do you think of that?

Maj. Moon thought very little of it. "Well, what about it, McCoy? You must often have people in their gowns coming in for the key."

"But this was the key of the main theater, sir; and it wasn't being used that night."

"Well, somebody in the emergency theater wanted something and sent up for it. Didn't you see who took the key?"

"No, I didn't, sir. I thought it was just one of the nurses, like you say; and then I was busy, and I didn't see any one put it back."

Sister Bates was up in arms at a fancied reflection on her staff work. "I'm sure there couldn't have been any need to send up from emergency. In fact, I asked the night staff afterwards and they said everything had been quite all right. They'd have told me if they'd had to borrow anything from the main theater. . . . I even went down myself and checked up on everything before operating started.

"What about you, nurse? You weren't on duty either, so I suppose you wouldn't know?"

"Well, no, I wasn't, sir," said Woody; she looked at Barney, also standing by. "You would know if anything had been sent for."

"I don't think anything was," said Barnes.

Sister Bates marched to the telephone and rang across the sisters' mess. "No, definitely nobody left the emergency theater. Sister Gibson was on duty and she says they had everything they wanted."

"It seemed a bit funny, sir, being masked," said McCoy, disappointed by the prosaic turn his blood curdling story was taking.

"It would if it were any key but the theater key," said Moon. "What time was this?" he said.

McCoy had no idea what time it had been, but he had noticed the key back on its hook when he went to his meal at midnight. "Was it a man or a woman who came in for it?" asked Barney.

"I don't know, sir," said McCoy.

"You don't know?"

"Because of the mask," insisted Sgt. McCoy.

Which of the two bombshells it was that kept Detective Inspector Cockrill at the hospital that night, he never knew; or at any rate, never acknowledged. He was standing with one leg already in his car, as Maj. Moon arrived to tell him about the first, and as the second crashed, without benefit of air raid warning, in a neighboring field. Inspector Cockrill was interested in bombshells, but he did not like bombs, and he had a 15 mile drive home.

"I'll stay," he said.

Sgt. McCoy was astonished beyond measure at the success of his recital, and hastened to spread the extraordinary news that the detective had actually turned back and was staying for the night. The sinister word "murder" licked thru the hospital like a forest fire, and an agitated commandant summoned the inspector to the V. A. D. mess, to calm her young ladies down.

Sixty faces turned toward him thru a fog of Irish stew as he made his way to their dining room and solemnly mounted a chair. He stood before them, completely unselfconscious, his macintosh hanging in folds about him, and made them a little speech.

He knew how to be charming when he would and now shamelessly exploited his gift. "You all look like sensible, responsible [and very delightful] young ladies," was the burden of his song; "I'm here on a perfectly ordinary, uninteresting, regulation inquiry into the death of a patient in the operating theater, and I look to you not to talk a lot of nonsense about it; or better still not to talk about it at all."

Esther and Frederica and Woods, who usually carried their food to their quarters and there reheated and consumed it, had been obliged to have their supper in the mess on account of Cockrill's visit. They assembled with the two V. A. D.s on duty in St. Elizabeth's, who were commonly known as Chalk and Cheese; and Mary Bell, who had been in the reception room when Higgins was admitted. Cockrill saw this lady first.

Mary Bell emerged from the office. "What's he like?" asked Chalk and Cheese.

"Well, rather an old pet, actually not at all terrifying. There wasn't much I could tell him."

"Why did you volunteer? Because you were there when Higgins was admitted?"

"Yes, I thought I'd better. Of course I didn't even see him, actually; Maj. Moon took him in and sent him straight down to St. Elizabeth's by the outside stretcher bearers who brought him in the ambulance. Nobody knew his name; we didn't even get it till early in the morning. His wife arrived about 7, and I had to cope with her, poor old dear. I was late going off duty."

"What else did the detective ask you?"

"Well, he wrote down my name and address and he asked me if I'd ever seen or heard of Higgins before and of course I never had."

The club's regular Thursday buffet suppers will start next week.

Week-End Events.

On the calendar for this week-end are:

A Spanish-Portuguese tea the Pan-American council will give at 3 p. m. today in its headquarters as a salute to Guatemala and Brazil, with a talk by Dr. Carlos Enrique Pones of Guatemala and color films shown by Mr. and Mrs. G. William Thatcher.

A tea the same organization will give from 4 to 6 p. m. tomorrow in the home of one of its founders, Mrs. William Cuthbertson, to which old, new, and prospective members have been invited.

A tea the University of Chicago settlement will give at 4:30 p. m. tomorrow, with Dr. Henry T. Ricketts, president of the board of directors, presiding.

The last of the Evening Series parties, a dance at 8 o'clock tonight at the Edgewater Beach hotel, with the John Walsh Baldwins, the Austin Clarks, and the Ogden Cooks assisting Mrs. Francis Wilson as hostess.

Household Forum

—By Louise Bargelt—

Mrs. Tom B., Chicago—Speaking of post-war houses—it would be a comfort if all medicine cabinets were designed with roll-up doors. No danger of doors swinging out and giving you a bump or a black eye.

Mrs. Jack T., Peoria, Ill.—When I can remember it, I take my eggs out of refrigerator an hour before I'm going to use them. I get more volume from them if I want to beat them, if chill is gone from them. Yolks aren't so apt to break or shells to crack.

Mrs. N. Moore, 5712 Dorchester av., Chicago—When large areas of worn out plastic coated shower curtains are usually still in good condition I find that they make excellent shelf and drawer linings. Being smooth, dust repellent, and in many instances transparent they can sometimes be made into lovely lamp shade covers.

Kitchen Pointers

By Mary Meade

"When I bake pie shells they always seem to shrink and lose shape. I wonder what I have been doing wrong," writes a troubled cook.

This baking difficulty undoubtedly is due to rolling the pastry too thin and stretching it to fit the pie pan. When the stretched pie dough is baked, it has a tendency to shrink and results in a shell too small to hold a standard recipe of cooked filling. For a single pie shell, use 1½ cups flour; roll dough ⅛ inch thick, fit loosely in pie plate and trim, leaving a one inch overhanging border for the fluted rim. Here's a little trick for taking the bubbles out of the unbaked crust and getting it to fit the pan smoothly: Make a small piece of dough into a ball and with this pat the bottom and sides of the pie crust after placing it in the pan. Then prick the crust thoroly with tines of a fork.

"Can I prepare orange juice the night before and keep it in the refrigerator for breakfast?" telephoned a young women who apparently was anxious to keep all the precious vitamin C of the orange intact and yet catch a few extra morning winks.

We told our vitamin minded friend it would be much wiser to extract the juice from the orange as shortly as possible before drinking. Vitamin C, for which oranges are famous, is easily destroyed by contact with air and, in fact, is so unstable that even tho the juice is kept in a covered container in the refrigerator, there is considerable vitamin loss. Storage also affects the fine flavor of the freshly squeezed orange juice. Juice stored for even a short time usually has a definitely "leftover" and somewhat bitter taste.

For answers to the cooking questions which perplex you and for specific recipes desired, call or write Mary Meade, Chicago Tribune. Spectacle Re-Creating Alaskan History to Be Presented in Coliseum

"Alaskan Stampede," a spectacle said to combine the techniques of the legitimate stage, radio, and motion pictures, will open at the remodeled, air conditioned Coliseum about the middle of June, under the general direction of Leo Seltzer of the Coliseum management.

Approved by the department of the interior, the production will recreate Alaskan history and topography and will tell its story in musical comedy style in a setting of snow capped mountains with a real lagoon equipped for an ice show, an Indian trading post, an Eskimo village, and a U. S. O. encampment. Some 9,000 yards of material are said to have been used to create the blue dome and starlit sky overhead. Newly perfected sound devices are being installed, and a special lighting system will eliminate stage curtains by directing the eye to each new scene in the course of continuous production.

Writers and technicians from New York and Hollywood are working on the production, and principals will be announced in a few days. Harold M. Sherman, author of the movie, "Mark Twain," is supplying scenario and lyrics, while Leonard Whitcup and Wilson Sawyer are writing the score. A chorus of more than 100 voices is ready for rehearsal, and several young Chicagoans have been engaged to understudy the leading roles.

The bidding:

West opened his fourth highest heart and declarer won with the 10. Declarer could count eight tricks in plain sight—two hearts, four diamonds, and two clubs—so he crossed to dummy with a diamond and led the spade eight toward his own hand, hoping to establish a spade trick for himself before the defenders could get their heart suit rolling. East accommodatingly played the spade deuce and declarer's jack knocked out West's king. Now, whatever West returned, the contract was ice cold.

East should have given his spade play a little more consideration. It was fairly obvious that the defenders' hope lay in establishing the suit West had opened, and it was equally obvious that West might need a heart lead thru the closed hand. Moreover, if East ducked the first spade, West might lose his only reentry, just as he actually did. Since East had the spade nine, declarer, if he had the king and lacked the jack, would finesse against West anyway, so there was no possibility of loss from putting up the spade ace immediately and returning a heart. That play, incidentally, would have spelled the doom of the contract.

Parents Should Be Considerate of Older Child

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1944: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

"Watch your own behavior when your second [or third] baby comes" is our advice to mothers, in response to many letters we've had about the unhappiness or undesirable ways of first born little sons or daughters.

At various times we've covered many angles of the matter, but one we've seldom touched on is that of always making five year old Joey or four year old Sue give in to the baby.

"Give it to him, he's only a baby, Joey."

"Let him have it, you're a great big girl; don't be cross when he breaks it."

"Why, I'm surprised at you, Sue, you must learn to give in—you're the oldest."

This sort of thing is unwise and unfair, especially when the older little sister or brother is really not very far past babyhood and can't be expected to understand.

Such an attitude on a mother's part may lead to unhappiness—or jealousy in the older child.

This is too bad because most little boys and girls take great joy in having a baby sister or brother, and treated fairly and lovingly themselves they are only too ready to be generous and proud and protective. Really, it's cheating them of a lovely experience to make discriminations that are unfortunate, or to show favoritism to the smallest one.

Be very fair, very considerate and as ready as ever with your interest and lovingness toward your first little boy or girl. But particularly think about it in relation to her books, her playthings, her pencils and paper and the work she may be doing at the moment.

Protect her belongings. Don't let the baby break them or soil them. Don't make her always give in to the baby. Don't make her give up whatever the baby wants or cries for. Don't let him smudge her drawing or tear her books.

If you show a real respect for her things and protect them from the baby she will appreciate it, and be more generous and tolerant herself. It won't foster selfishness if done in the right way. It is the other attitude that makes an older child overly possessive.

Provide the baby with toys right for his age, let him climb and explore as much as possible and divert his attention, and substitute something else of interest when he yearns for the possessions dear to the heart of his bigger sister or brother.

'Gone with the Wind' Starts Fifth Year in London Movie House

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 12.—The American movie, "Gone with the Wind," recently opened for the fifth straight year at the Ritz theater in London. This is believed to be a world's record for any film in any theater and beats London's previous longest run, also set by an American film, "Ben Hur," which appeared for 49 weeks in the mid-'20s.

"Gone with the Wind," featuring Clark Gable and Vivien Leigh, opened at three theaters simultaneously April 18, 1940, ran 12 weeks at one house, eight at another, and still is going at the third at admission prices up to $2.30.

SECOND FREE GOLF LESSON ATTRACTS 14,000

PENSIVE RATES 2-1 SPOT TODAY IN PREAKNESS

Platter Looms as Chief Rival.

$60,710 for Winner

BALTIMORE, Md., May 12 (AP).—The probable field for tomorrow's 54th running of the $50,000 added, mile and three-sixteenths Preakness stakes at Pimlico listed according to post positions, with probable riders and odds:

Horse.	Jockey.	Prob odds.
Stir Up	Eddie Arcaro	3-1
Pensive	Conn McCreary	2-1
Platter	Johnny Longden	5-2
Alorter	George Woolf	20-1
Stymie	No boy	30-1
Gay Bit	Jack Westrope	10-1
Gramps Image	Leonard Bowers	8-1

Baltimore, Md., May 12 (AP).—The quest for the 3 year old turf championship will be resumed on the Pimlico racing strip tomorrow when seven horses test their speed and stamina in the 54th Preakness, with the richest check in the history of the event awaiting the winner of the 1 3-16 mile race.

Thirty-five thousand fans are expected to jam the stands to see if Warren Wright's Pensive, winner of the Kentucky Derby last Saturday, can capture Maryland's most famous horse race and thus take a secure hold on the 3 year old crown. The weather man predicts summer temperatures and a fast track.

Platter Is Threat.

Despite the ease with which Pensive, the son of the English Derby winner, Hyperion, won the Kentucky Derby, he is expected to be no better than a 2 to 1 choice to take down $60,710 of the gross purse of $80,210. Post time will be 3:05 p. m. Chicago time.

The chief reason Pensive probably will not be a shorter priced favorite is because among the seven names dropped into the entry box this morning was that of George D. Widener's Platter, which passed up the Derby. Maryland folk don't easily forget horses that make a favorable impression, and Platter did just that in winning the Pimlico Futurity and Walden stakes here last fall.

May Be Co-Favorites.

Pensive will have the benefit of racing experience as a 3 year old since he has been out eight times and has yet to finish out of the money. In Platter he'll have a rival that is in top shape, altho he has started only once this season and that in a six furlong dash, in which he finished a fast closing second.

Altho the early odds quoted Platter at 5 to 2, there were some who said they wouldn't be surprised to see the two horses go postward as co-favorites, with Stir Up, from Mrs. Payne Whitney's Greentree stable, beaten favorite in the Derby, third in line at 3 to 1.

Completing the field will be Mrs. A. J. Abel's Gramps Image, A. C. Ernst's Alorter, Robert Bruce Livie's Gay Bit, and Mrs. Ethel D. Jacobs' Stymie.

6 Named for Great Lakes Stakes Today

BY MAURICE SHEVLIN.

Sportsman's Park today turns into the stretch of its most successful race meeting with six thorobreds, headed by A. S. Higgins' Quizzle and Mrs. Clyde Troutt's veteran campaigner, Take Wing, named for the first running of the $2,500 Great Lakes handicap, a mile and a sixteenth event for 3 year olds and up.

Quizzle, victor in his last start, the first division of the $2,500 Western Avenue handicap last Saturday, drew top weight of 116 pounds, five more than Take Wing, winner of the 1942 Stars and Stripes handicap at Arlington Park, was allotted. Others in the field include Martian, a winner in his last out; Bob's Dream, Amy's Third, and Believe, which ran second to Quizzle in the Western Avenue.

Meeting Closes Monday.

John L. Keeshin, president of the National Jockey club which operates the Cicero half mile track, anticipates the same sort of crowd as attended the opening program two weeks ago and broke all wagering records for the plant when 22,000 patrons poured $824,054 thru the mutuel machines.

Another bright, warm day, tho windy to the point of being disagreeable, brought 9,886 yesterday and for the 11th time in 12 days the mutuel handle went over half a million dollars. Final figures for the afternoon were announced at $549,311, raising the handle for the meeting to $7,080,308.

The 14 day meeting will close Monday, after which the scene shifts to nearby Hawthorne Park, where the 29 day Lincoln Fields session will open Tuesday.

Tawny Lady Wins.

Mrs. A. M. Creech's Tawny Lady, piloted by Sylvester Haynes, took the first of the day's two feature races, a $1,500 allowance event for 3 year olds, named in honor of Mrs. Howard Linn. J. M. Hutchins' Observer was second and D. Lewis' Old Silk third in a field of six. The winner was the betting choice and paid $4.60.

The second feature, named in honor of Sophie Tucker, was won by H. G. Knott's Tex Hygro with Eddie Franklin in the saddle. In the Night was second, a neck back, and K. Cup Cake took third. The winner's price was $8.40. Both Mrs. Linn, Chicago society woman, and Sophie Tucker, the radio and stage star, were clubhouse guests of Keeshin.

The daily double put the fans in the right frame of mind for a large afternoon of wagering as two fair longshots hit the wire first and a $2 ticket became worth $188.60. Gay Thorn, ridden by Claude Hooper, won the opener and paid $17.80. Free Style, with Paul Glidewell up, took the second and refunded $30.40.

WIFE DIVORCES DI MAGGIO; GIVEN CHILD'S CUSTODY

Mrs. Joe Di Maggio.

Los Angeles, Cal., May 12 (AP).—Mrs. Joe Di Maggio, formerly Dorothy Arnold of the screen, obtained a divorce today from the former New York Yankee outfielder after she had testified weepingly that he had wrecked their marriage by his "cruel indifference."

"Joe never acted like a married man," she testified. "He would stay out until the early morning hours with men friends, leaving me at home alone. He rarely took me out evenings and when he did he would embarrass me by criticizing everything I did."

Superior Judge Stanley Mosk granted Mrs. Di Maggio the custody of the child, Joseph Paul Di Maggio Jr., 2.

STAFF OF PROS WORKS LATE AT FOUR COURSES

Tribune School Will Resume Monday.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

The students at the second lesson of the 12th annual free golf school conducted by THE TRIBUNE, shocked by the unseemly behavior of the weather man, last night flocked to the four courses of the Chicago park district to the number of 14,000. They found their teachers, members of the Illinois section of the Professional Golfers' Association of America, as bewildered as they were. Blue skies? July temperatures? Why, the whole business was unheard of.

The regulars who have attended the preceding 11 schools, not to mention the inaugural class of the 1944 session last Monday, last night found themselves encumbered by the weather gear with which they have become accustomed in their trips to the free lessons. They found the four classrooms on the park district courses dry, with the thermometer touching nigh onto 85.

Weather Man Is a Prince.

The situation was a mite disturbing to the pupils, who have had to fight their way thru rain for the better part of the last two years in order to obtain the fundamentals of golf. The weather man, that prince among men, gave out with the finest display of atmospheric conditions the school has seen in its 12 year career as the oldest and largest plan of mass teaching in the history of the game.

Thus, the 1944 school, which attracted 4,000 to last Monday's opening class in spite of a steady downpour, raised the aggregate of free lessons in the ABC's of the game for the length of the classes begun in 1933 to 432,500.

Keep Teachers Busy.

Whereas the professionals who are donating their services to the school since its inception have been used to arguing with cold and wind and rain for the last several years, the classes last evening were the most prolonged this system of simplifying the game has seen. The teachers at all four courses, who had planned to conclude the lesson after one hour, found themselves besieged by questioners who kept them on overtime duty until as late as 9:10 p. m.

The school will be continued next week, with lessons on Monday and Friday nights at the same four courses of the Chicago park district, all beginning at the same time —7:15 o'clock. The faculty last night agreed to concentrate on one of golf's main weaknesses — the slice —in the last pair of instructions, both of which will be devoted to the swing. If you missed the first two lessons, you still have a chance to catch up on the basic principles of the game, since the Illinois P. G. A. members have promised to include the grip and stance in their final two classes.

Pvt. Harbert Helps Out.

Pvt. Melvin [Chick] Harbert, the Battle Creek, Mich., swinger, currently stationed with the Chicago air WAC recruiting office, came out to Jackson park with Maestro Jerry Glynn to whack a few of his typical long drives. That done, Pvt. Harbert thought he might be on his way, but the class at the old south side layout refused to let him go, and he wound up with a separate group of his own out of the 4,000 who attended the Jackson Park class. On deck, as usual, were such veteran teachers as Bruce Herd and Frank Lovrine of Flossmoor, Chuck Tanis of Olympia Fields, George Knox of Calumet and Johnny Bird and Frank Shires of South Shore. Judge E. A. Tilley, one of Chicago's top golf enthusiasts, contributed eight putters to the school pool, which will be presented to the U. S. O. Center on the night of May 20.

Eddie Bush, secretary and treasurer of the Illinois section, put on one of the best shotmaking demonstrations ever seen for the 3,500 students who crowded the Columbus park classroom, where Bill Gordon

Shoe Box Lunch.

Time was when a shoe box lunch proclaimed
A traveling bourgoiszee,
Remember our kind o' superior smile
At such homespun gaucherie?
But not long ago on a de luxe coach
I could have moaned with pain
When, barred from a crowded diner,
Our, old friend appeared again;
Weak from hunger, ready to fail
For just any sort of snack at all,
I heard a familiar crackle and crunch—
Across the aisle, a shoe box lunch!

A lady sat there calmly pickin'
At a breast of succulent home fried chicken,
I manfully tried to look away,
But ever and always my glance would stray;
What's this, am I about to beg—
Is that a hard boiled deviled egg?
And she must, I know, have heard me sigh
When she topped it off with apple pie;
Maybe it does take war to free us
From ever so many silly ideas,
For never again, I have a hunch,
Shall I look down my nose at a shoe box lunch!

Phillies Rout Derringer in Fifth Inning

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Charley Grimm's Cubs who experienced 24 hours of luxury by breaking their 13 game losing streak the previous day, went back yesterday to the habits of an indigent cellar dweller. They were started on a fresh backward streak thru the courtesy of the Philadelphia Phillies, who were so violent about it that the eighth placers succumbed, 9 to 3. It was the Cubs' 14th trimming in 16 games, in case you have overlooked the tell-tale standings of the clubs.

Some 2,000 ladies' day guests showed up to find out for themselves what is wrong with the Cubs, and the latter, always anxious to please, furnished the answer in the shortest possible time. They allowed themselves to be knocked about by four runs in the first inning, and from then on it was just a matter of going thru the motions.

Northey Smacks a Homer.

Paul Derringer, who now has five defeats and nothing else for the season, was the victim of the assault that had the Cubs down for the count before they had had their first chance at bat swinging. An error started the veteran off under a handicap, but in the wake of the blunder came some solid hits, one Ron Northey's third homer of the year, which accounted for half the four runs. Another homer, this one by Ted Cieslak, jarred Derringer further in the fourth, and he quit in the fifth, an inning that netted four more runs before Rescuer Dale Alderson could rescue Rescuer Paul Erickson.

The Cubs Go Walking.

The Cubs' attack, if you can call it such, was one of those things in which their activities consisted mainly of walking up to the plate and walking back again. They deluged Charley Schanz, a Coast league graduate, with a total of eight hits, their first run resulting from passes to Don Johnson and Phil Cavarretta in the opening inning. Up to the end of the fifth they made only two hits, both by Cavarretta. In the sixth they picked up three without scoring because Pinch Man Lou Novikoff pinched into a double play. The remainder of their terrific assault occurred in the ninth.

What started Derringer on the wrong track was a fumble by Johnson on Ford Mullen, who scored on a double by Elvin Adams. Jim Wasdell singled to drive in Adams and Northey then exploded his homer, the ball arching into the right field seats. Cieslak's homer happened at the opening of the fourth, finding a resting place in the left field bleacher.

Erickson Takes the Stage.

Adams beat out a bunt with one gone in the fifth and sprinted to third on Wasdell's single to center. Johnson erred again by fumbling Northey's roller, Adams scoring. At this point Erickson opened his limited engagement. He walked Tony Lupien, filling the bases. The next happening was a single by Bob Finley on which two of his mates scored. Erickson reloaded the bases by passing Cieslak, and was promptly dismissed to make room for Alderson, who retired the next three batters, one more run going home.

In the Cubs' ninth Mickey Kreitner singled, and with two out John Ostrowski batted for Johnson. He holsted a tall fly to center and Adams obligingly let the wind carry it beyond his reach for a double, Kreitner scoring. Then Cavarretta's third hit sent home Ostrowski with the day's final run.

TWO CUBS CALLED

Four of the Cubs—Bill Schuster, Hank Wyse, Bill Fleming, and Ed Sauer—were guests yesterday of Uncle Sam, being given their pre-induction physical tests. It was the second visit for Sauer, who after his first examination was classified 4-F.

Sauer again was rejected, while Wyse and Fleming were accepted and Schuster was held over for further examination.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Philadelphia, Pa., May 12.—A Chicago victory tonight would have restored the White Sox to the first division of the American league. But the trouble was that enormous Buck Newsom, with 19,708 new followers looking on, kept the Sox away from first base from the second to ninth innings. This famine resulted in a 4 to 2 victory for the Athletics. The Mackmen thus won the series, two successes to one.

All the Chicago hitting prior to the ninth, singles by Thurman Tucker, Wally Moses, and Tom Turner in the second inning, produced the Sox's two runs. Thereafter the Sox didn't get on base until Leroy Schalk singled at the start of the ninth—a few minutes after the A's had slammed out two doubles and a triple off Buck Ross to score two runs and break a 2 to 2 tie. Guy Curtright's single in the ninth completed the Sox's hit total of five.

Siebert's Homer Ties Score.

The Sox led 2 to 0 only briefly, The A's made a run before anybody was out in their half of the second inning on a double by Irv Hall and a single by George Kell. At the start of the fourth Dick Siebert tied the score with a homer.

Then a pitchers' battle ensued between the two Bucks until the home eighth when the following sad events transpired:

After Jo-Jo White had bounced to Ross, Ford Garrison dropped one in short right field which went for a double when Moses tried for a diving catch. Tucker ran to the wall in left center for Roberto Estalella's drive, and for an instant it seemed he had made a miracle catch. But the ball dropped to earth and Garrison, who held up near third, ran home with the winning run, Estalella reaching second. Frank Hayes then shot a line drive to short center. Tucker tried a diving catch, missed and the ball hopped into a triple, Estalella scoring.

On to Washington!

Then came the Sox ninth and Schalk's aforesaid famine-breaking single. Skeeter Webb was permitted to bat and fouled out, but Curtright singled to right, Schalk stopping at second. Hal Trosky smashed one to left, but Garrison was in the right spot to receive it. Hall then ended the game with a nice play on Tucker's grounder.

In whipping the Sox twice in the three game series the A's have won half as many from the Sox as they took in 22 tries all last season. And the Chicagoans had to steal home in the 16th inning to capture the one victory. They will try to look better tomorrow night under the Washington lights than they looked under the Philadelphia globes tonight. Bill Dietrich will work against Roger Wolff in tomorrow night's enterprise.

OFFER DUTTON PRESIDENCY OF HOCKEY LEAGUE

Montreal, May 12 (AP).—Mervyn [Red] Dutton was tendered the presidency of the National Hockey league today at the annual league meeting here, but he declared he could not accept the position until he consulted with his business partners in the west.

The rest of the day-long session was taken up by the election of governors, committees, and the drafting of four minor league players by the New York Rangers and the Chicago Blackhawks.

The Blackhawks put in an application to draft Peter Roreck, Cleveland left wing who played with the Ottawa Commandos in the Quebec senior senior hockey league.

BROWNS DEFEAT SENATORS, 6-4, TO REGAIN LEAD

Five Runs in First Are Enough for Victory.

Washington, May 12 (AP).—The St. Louis Browns blasted out 15 hits to defeat Washington, 6 to 4, tonight and regain first place in the the American league race.

The Browns replaced New York in the top berth. The Yanks lost to Detroit today and dropped a game and a half behind St. Louis.

St. Louis teed off on Early Wynn for five runs in the first and added a run off Milo Candini in the sixth. It was Wynn's loss. Mark Christman and Frank Mancuso each connected three times for the Browns.

Bob Muncrief went the distance for St. Louis, yielding 10 hits, including Bobby Ortiz's homer in the left field bleachers in the first.

of Tam o' Shanter was in charge of the lesson. Mel Johnson of Butterfield and his son, Herb, machinist's mate in the navy, who was in the landing at Fedala and later won the African Open championship; Johnny Walker of Keller's Fairways, and John Holtz of Tam o' Shanter completed the west side staff.

Enthusiasm Runs High.

Most enthusiastic classes of the evening were conducted at Marquette park and the Diversey layout in Lincoln park. Jerry Cooke of Edgewater and Lew Waldron of Keller's Fairways, supported by Alex Cunningham of North Shore, president of the Illinois section, and his assistant, Bill Brown, and Howie Atten, storekeeper, first class, who has been a navy veteran since 1940, were held over nearly an extra hour at Diversey because of their suggestion to their class not to be afraid to ask questions about the game.

Tom Walsh of Westgate Valley, one of the original founders of the school, and Maurie White of La Grange and Red Denison of Midlothian were in charge of the class at Marquette. They, too, were forced to continue their stay because of the interest in the question box they conducted after the lesson proper was finished.

WFA MAY LIFT CORN FREEZE, SENATORS TOLD

Federal Bungling Assailed by Reed.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 12.—Freezing of corn sales in 125 middle western counties may be lifted in a few days, Marvin Jones, war food administrator, told a group of senators from grain and live stock producing states today at a meeting called to protest manipulation of corn sales.

Jones made his statement after the senators had told him the corn freeze was bankrupting hog producers because they could not get corn for feed and were dumping hogs on the market.

May Touch Goal in Week.

"Just give us a few more days and we may be able to release corn for feeding," Jones said after listening to the senators' complaints for half an hour. "We need 80 million bushels for war purposes. We already have commitments for 45 million bushels and the rest probably will be in hand within a week."

Sen. Reed [R., Kas.], who presided, drew from Jones the admission that 80 million bushels were not needed immediately. That quantity is the estimated supply needed between now and the corn harvest next fall, the WFA head said.

"Then why freeze the market now?" Reed asked. "You've got seven months to get 35 million bushels. You could pick up 5 million a month and release corn for feeding now when it's needed. This situation is the culmination of a lot of dumb plays by government agencies which have disregarded the advice of congress."

Holds Corn Can Be Had.

Jones protested that corn was not denied farmers for feeding. He said they could buy corn to feed hogs if granted certificates by their county agricultural adjustment administration committees.

Reed reminded Jones that such certificates are granted only for feeding hogs under the maximum weights on which the prices are supported by WFA. The weight was 330 pounds in January and was cut to 270 pounds in April.

The office of price administration announced a cut in the ceiling price of live hogs weighing more than 240 pounds from $14.75 to $14.00 a hundred pounds. The action was taken to discourage feeding of grain, especially corn, to the heavier hogs, OPA said. The new price becomes effective Monday, and is expected to encourage the marketing of heavy hogs.

19,000 HOGS HELD OVER

About 19,000 hogs remained unsold in the Chicago stock yards yesterday. All were of good to choice quality weighing 200 to 270 pounds. Buyers preferred other weights of good to choice quality which could be bought $1.75 to $2.75 a hundred pounds below the government weights floor price.

The few government weights farmers were able to sell brought $13.75. Clearance of hogs over 270 pounds was good, altho prices continued to fall. The average dipped 20 cents, to $12.80, lowest since February, 1942.

A small supply of cattle was offered and prices were steady, quality considered. Most sales of steers were at $13.75 to $15.90, the top in the absence of prime stock.

Lamb prices slumped to the lowest level since Feb. 11. Top grades sold at $15.90, compared with a high of $17.10 two weeks ago.

CIO STEELWORKERS BACK MERGER WITH ALUMINUM MAKERS

Cleveland, O., May 12 (AP).—A resolution authorizing union of the CIO United Steelworkers of America with the Aluminum Workers of America was adopted by the steel union's convention today after CIO President Philip Murray disclosed negotiations for uniting the two groups have been under way for several months.

The resolution authorized "international officers and the executive board of the United Steelworkers of America to arrange for an amalgamation with the Aluminum Workers of America upon such terms and conditions as the officers may approve."

Murray said officers of the aluminum workers' union had approved the amalgamation and would present it to their membership June 5. The aluminum workers union, he said, "found it difficult to expand and grow in the manner in which it should." The aluminum union has approximately 30,000 members.

Shafer Blasts Draft Use for Social Reform

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 12.—Use of selective service machinery by the New Deal to force "social reforms" that are retarding the war program was charged today by Rep. Shafer [R., Mich.] in a house speech.

The congressman asserted that deferments for "necessary" workers in industry are being denied unless their employers pay all their help the wage rates prescribed by the administration's war labor board.

Shaffer cited many complaints he has had from laundries, restaurants, and other businesses, which report that their key workers are denied deferments because they are not classified as "locally needed" by the war man power commission.

Must Obey WLB Edict.

To get this classification, [locally needed], he explained, the employer must show that every single worker, even a part time helper or a high school student, is paid the standard rate set by the WLB.

Citing the case of a laundry in his district, Shafer said it is threatened with a shutdown because of this policy, altho it pays every male employe at least 70 cents an hour in accordance with WLB rules.

"But because there are a few women and school girls making less than 50 cents an hour," the congressman continued, "the laundry cannot qualify for the 'locally needed' designation. Therefore, the entire plant is denied the coverage and protection to which it is entitled.

Assails Dogmatic Attitude.

"In other words, to be recognized as contributing to the war effort, an employer must certify that he does not have one single employe making less than an established war wage. If a man has 500 employes, 499 of whom earn at least the minimum rate, and one person—a part time school girl or messenger—receives less than the rate established by the WLB, his business cannot be declared 'locally needed.'

"Here is a case where Nero fiddles, while laundries, dry cleaners, hotels, and restaurants are being forced to close their doors because of the resultant drain of man power.

"I vehemently protest against these unethical and ridiculous provisions. This is a time to fight the war. It is not the time to initiate social reforms."

Prices of Rye Fall Again on Heavy Selling

Heavy selling again on the Chicago Board of Trade yesterday pushed nearby deliveries of rye to the lowest prices since mid-December.

Rye futures were off 2¼ to 3 cents a bushel at one time, with May leading. It sold at $1.22¾, off 9¾ cents from the high of last week under the weight of offerings from commission houses. Many stop loss orders were uncovered on the way down, and it was not until near the close that aggressive support developed. Short covering and support from professional traders who have been talking higher prices caused a strong rally and the finish was only ¾ to 1⅛ cents lower.

Wheat Loss Is Trimmed.

Wheat declined 1⅝ cents early with rye and on favorable weather conditions in the southwest, but recovered a large part of the loss later on mill buying and short covering. The close was ⅝ to ¾ cent lower, oats lost ¾ to 1 cent, and barley was ½ to 1⅝ cents lower.

Besides favorable weather in many sections of the main wheat and rye producing territory and a growing belief that the prospective yield of the grains is above the May 1 forecast by the department of agriculture, the new allied military operations in Italy caused much uneasiness and tended to create pessimistic sentiment.

Predict More Offerings.

Light trading appeared in May wheat in Kansas City at the ceiling price, the first business in more than two months. The July delivery in Minneapolis sold at $1.64¾, or ½ cent below the ceiling at one time, the lowest price in more than a month. Traders regarded this as indicating a possible loosening up in country offerings of old wheat.

Plowing for corn has been resumed in the drier areas of Iowa and Illinois, but field work was at a standstill in many parts of Nebraska because of rains.

BILL IS OFFERED TO AVOID 'GRAB' OF WAR PLANTS

Buying of Factories by SWPC Aided.

Washington, D. C., May 12 (AP).—Sen. Murray [D., Mont.] proposed legislation today which he said would prevent "big business" from gaining possession of most of the 15½ billion dollars worth of government owned war plants when peace comes.

The measure would authorize the Smaller War Plants corporation, headed by Maury Maverick, to acquire plants, equipment and surplus war materials for resale or subletting to small businesses.

Backed by Committee.

Offered by Murray with the backing of the senate small business committee of which he is chairman, the bill also would:

1. Authorize the SWPC to insure loans by private banks to small businesses for reconversion purposes and to advance loans when private financing is unavailable. The corporation's capitalization would be boosted to one billion dollars and its name changed to "Small Business corporation."

2. Make available to small business the thousands of government held patents, as well as technical and research assistance, in the reconversion period.

Small Business Perilled.

Murray said: "Big business has been steadily building a monopoly in the use and development of scientific knowledge." Without legislation, he added, "It is entirely likely that the weight of the tremendous increase in the industrial and publicly financed power of the large business units will crush out our small business and thus endanger the continuation of our system of free enterprise."

The senate war contracts subcommittee, also headed by Murray, said it soon would introduce a bill to create an office of demobilization and prescribe general policies regarding surplus property disposal, contract termination, unemployment compensation, and other post-war adjustments.

The subcommittee said this would supplement the contract termination bill passed by the senate May 4 and now before the house.

BRIEF CHARGES BANKERS LIFE'S ASSETS TAKEN

Assets of the former Illinois Bankers Life association, predecessor of the Illinois Bankers Life Assurance company, Monmouth, were "gratuitously appropriated" by two officials of the association for their personal use in 1929, a brief filed yesterday in the Illinois Appellate court by Vernon R. Loucks and Malcolm R. McKershar, attorneys for plaintiff policy holders of the association, asserted. The officials named in the brief were Hugh T. Martin and Arthur T. Sawyer, both deceased.

The case is before the court on an appeal from a decision by Circuit Judge Miner ordering the sale of the present company's 2,000 shares of capital stock at public auction, the proceeds to be distributed to association policy holders.

The brief said the association directors in soliciting proxies to authorize the reinsurance of its policies failed to inform the policy holders that the good will and going value were to be taken from them without consideration to the association.

Realty Survey Shows Wide Lack of Homes

BY AL CHASE.

The most severe shortage of dwelling space in United States history, a high volume of real estate sales, and an unparalleled demand for the "family type" home, one with two or three bedrooms, were reported yesterday in the 42nd semi-annual survey of the national realty market made by the National Association of Real Estate Boards.

The survey, which covered 376 cities and represents the data checked and opinion offered by real estate boards in those cities, showed a shortage of single-family dwellings exists in 92 per cent of the reporting cities, compared with 88 per cent six months ago.

Apartment Pinch Exists.

A shortage of apartments exists in 83 per cent of the cities. This is an unprecedented situation, the report on the survey said, but disclosed that demand for housing is easing in a few cities where employment has passed its peak.

Selling prices of real estate, especially residential property, are higher than a year ago in 88 per cent of the reporting cities. Sales volume is higher in 83 per cent.

"A large portion of today's buying is for use by the buyer," the report said. "In urban property it is estimated that an average of about 77 per cent of current sales are for the buyer's own use. Approximately 16 per cent are for investment. According to local estimates, an average of approximately 7 per cent of the buying is in hope of a profitable resale."

Farms Sold for Use.

A like condition prevails in farm transactions, the report said. The city boards estimated an average of 75 per cent of such buying is by farmers for their own use. Investment buying makes up 18 per cent of farm purchases.

Improved farms lead all market demands in many communities. Farm selling prices are higher than they were a year ago in 85 per cent of the reporting communities.

Warehousing is now the scarcest type of industrial space, members of the Society of Industrial Realtors reported to the national realty association. Factory space also is difficult to obtain in most cities.

"In general the largest cities have the most general market advance and most general rise in selling prices," the report concluded.

AIR LINE COSTS ARE BOOSTED BY TRAINING NEEDS

Hiring and training replacements for drafted employes increased the expenses of American Airlines in the quarter ended March 31, the company said yesterday in reporting a decrease in profit below a year ago despite a gain in gross revenue. Preparations to handle more planes when they become available also were a factor in raising operating costs.

Net income in the quarter was $597,796, or 95 cents a share, compared with an adjusted profit of $1,139,773, or $1.89 a share, a year earlier. Gross revenue increased to $7,456,864 from $6,973,648 a year ago.

Hamilton-Brown Shoe Company Fully Liquidated

St. Louis, Mo., May 12 (AP).—The 72 year history of the Hamilton-Brown Shoe company, once one of the largest shoe manufacturers in the world, was ended today with disbursement of $146,945 in remaining cash at a creditors' meeting in bankruptcy court. The company went into bankruptcy in 1939.

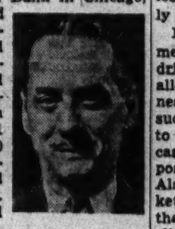
People and Events

Carl F. Kuehnle, president of the Central National Bank in Chicago, Roosevelt rd. and Halsted st., yesterday announced a number of promotions and said the bank's resources had risen to $54,612,781 from $35,174,490 a year ago. Arthur A. Ellerd and Irving L. Fass were elected vice presidents. Jack F. Braulik, Walter H. Corbett, Maurice M. Zusser, and Harry J. Lazarus were promoted to second vice presidents. New assistant cashiers are Sam C. Felish, Frank A. Koepke, George Hinkes, Frank W. Pape, William J. Weir, and Roland A. Wilson. Adam Cieciwa was named assistant auditor.



Arthur A. Ellerd.

Willard W. Cole, executive vice president of the Hub, Henry C. Lytton and Sons, announced yesterday the appointment of Margaret Weekley as buyer of women's hosiery, bags, gloves, costume jewelry, and other accessories. Miss Weekley formerly was associated with J. P. Allen in Atlanta, Ga., as stylist and fashion coördinator.

Margaret Weekley.

Elmer J. Stubbs, superintendent of transportation for the Erie railroad at Cleveland, was elected president of the American Association of Railroad Superintendents. He succeeds E. C. Gegenheimer, general superintendent of the Pennsylvania railroad at Williamsport, Pa.

Howard E. Mongtomery, former assistant manager of the Orrington hotel, Evanston, has become associated with the Hotels Windermere as executive assistant manager.

FOOD TRANSPORT THREATENED BY CONTAINER LACK

Washington, D. C., May 12 (AP).—The bureau of agricultural economics warned today that an acute shortage of containers and packaging material threatens a possible breakdown in the sale and distribution of this year's food production.

Asserting the lumber situation has grown more serious in recent months, the bureau said ways and means of packing more pounds of food with less weight of critical materials must be studied immediately.

"Every possibility of redesigning containers must be explored," the bureau said. "Every bag, box, crate, and metal container of any description that can be utilized for at least one more trip should be preserved."

RHEEM REPORTS ORDER BACKLOG OF 64 MILLIONS

Rheem Manufacturing company's unfilled orders on May 1 exceeded 64 million dollars, largest in its history, R. S. Rheem, president, said yesterday in his annual report to stockholders. The company, which manufactures sheet steel products, has expanded its research activities to develop new and improved post-war products, he said.

Profit for 1943 totaled $1,310,836, equal to $1.82 a common share, compared with adjusted net income of $481,101, or 93 cents a share on fewer shares, in 1942. Net sales were $54,864,829, a new high, against $32,988,887. Provision for federal income taxes totaled $3,960,000, compared with $553,000.

STOCKS SLUMP ON BIG ALLIED DRIVE IN ITALY

Many Issues Slide Point or More.

New York, May 12 (AP).—Stocks generally were lower today and, altho most declines were in fractions, losses of a point or more were fairly well distributed.

Bids were withdrawn and commitments trimmed as the big allied drive in Italy brought the belief the all-out invasion of Europe may be near. Customers reasoned that if such were the case it may be well to hold off purchases and expand cash positions as insurance against possible unsettlement of securities. Also, it was reasoned that the market faced a technical correction of the come back from the April decline.

Stock Average Declines.

The Associated Press 60 stock average was off 0.4 at 51.5, the largest decline since April 24. Transfers totalled 746,950 shares compared with 618,420 yesterday.

Comforting to optimistic traders was the sale of a stock exchange membership for $53,000, the highest price since April, 1940. A second transfer brought $50,000.

Prominent in the slide were Santa Fe, Great Northern, Gulf Mobile & Ohio, United States Steel, Chrysler, General Motors, United States Rubber, Western Union A, Boeing, Standard Oil [New Jersey], Allied Chemical, Park & Tilford, Distillers corporation, and Austin Nichols.

Eastman Kodak was ahead 2 points and modest improvement was held by Sears-Roebuck, American Can, Johns-Manville, and J. C. Penney.

RAIL BONDS SLIDE.

New York, May 12 (AP).—Rail loans were fractions to 2 points lower on the bond market today, the more speculative issues bearing the brunt of persistent liquidation that left the majority of other corporates untouched and many a shade higher. Offerings increased in the final hour and some bonds which had been resistant most of the day lost their support.

The Associated Press rail index slipped 0.4, industrials were up 0.1, utilities were unchanged on the average, and foreign loans gained 0.2. Turnover increased to $8,980,400 from $7,286,500 yesterday.

CHICAGO LIST LOWER.

Small declines predominated on the Chicago Stock exchange yesterday. Commonwealth Edison, the volume leader, lost a small fraction. Chicago corporation and Libby, McNeill & Libby were active, closing unchanged. Crane, General Outdoor Advertising, and Serrick sold at new 1944 highs. Crane reacted and closed at a net decline of ⅝.

PROPERTY TAKEN FOR WAR COVERS LARGE VARIETY

Washington, D. C., May 12 (AP).—The government made 49 requisitions of property for war purposes between Oct. 16, 1943, and April 15, 1944, the items ranging from 7,619,200 pounds of pepper for the war food administration and the war department to 100,000 bricks for the navy.

The report was made to President Roosevelt by WPB Chairman Nelson and transmitted to congress by the White House today.

Twelve of the requisitions were for food, one for 6 million pounds of rice for the army.

Included were 1,960 tons of iron and steel scrap for WPB, 1,750,000 gallons of kerosene for the navy, 89,421 pounds of crude rubber and 27,477 pounds of tin oxide for WPB, 15,000 tons of manganese ore for FEA, and 4,871 torpedo parts for the navy.

U. S. PLAYING CARD.

Please send me a report on the United States Playing Card company.—A. H.

Answer: Largest manufacturer of playing cards, the company has had a long record of profitable operations. Trade names include "Bicycle," "Bee," "Tally Ho," and "Congress."

Sales totaled $16,502,574 for 1943, against $12,503,178 for 1942, while net income of $1,235,820, or $3.20 a share, compared with $1,035,238, or $2.68 a share. Per share net for other recent years was: 1941, $2.90; 1940, $2.62; 1939, $2.53; 1938, $2.41; 1937, $2.11.

Sole capitalization is the 385,603 shares of $10 par value capital stock. Dividends have been paid each year since the present company was incorporated in 1917 as successor to one formed in 1894, $2.50 a share being paid from 1940 to 1943, inclusive.

Current assets of $11,453,775 at the end of 1943 included $1,544,521 cash and $6,648,944 of United States and Canadian government bonds, compared with current liabilities of $3,334,137.

CORRECTION.

The May 2 Investors' Guide column said that a newly formed subsidiary of American Enka corporation manufactures tire fabrics from rayon, cotton, and nylon. The company says that it has not formed a subsidiary and manufactures only rayon yarns.

Plans to End Stagnation of Capital Given

New York, May 12 [Special].—The cessation of "riskless investment" and "riskless banking" in order to stimulate new enterprise after the war was urged today by John Clifford Folger, president of the Investment Bankers Association of America. Speaking before a meeting of the National Association of Mutual Savings Banks, Folger outlined a program to enable investment bankers to end what he termed the "stagnation of capital."

"The people of this country have the capital needed for the post-war period," he said. "The banks are overflowing with it. It is increasing at the rate of nearly 40 billions a year. Much of this money is owned by the new rich, and the investment bankers must devise new and broader methods of distributing securities.

Termed Vital Post-War Job.

"I believe the investment bankers have the most important banking job of all in the post-war period. It is up to them to break the log jam brought about by stagnation of capital and devotion to a riskless economy."

Folger's program included streamlining the securities act to eliminate bottlenecks and encourage a free flow of capital, giving small investors the same chance to buy securities as the large buyers have, and correcting the present system of taxation on venture capital with relief from "excessive double taxation." He also urged the elimination of the capital gains tax.

"This will bring the large investor into the picture," he asserted. "Right now and for the time in sight he has little incentive to increase his income. He will, however, put his money to work if he has a chance for capital gains."

Home Building Boom Forecast.

Discussing the realty outlook, George C. Johnson, treasurer of the Dime Savings bank, of Brooklyn, N. Y., predicted the American people are about to enter on an era of improved home development "such as we never knew before."

A recent poll of depositors indicated they were saving for future needs, with special reference to home building, he said.

CERTAIN-TEED'S ANNUAL MEETING ACTION LIMITED

Baltimore, Md., May 12 (AP).—Attorneys for stockholders seeking to oust the management of Certain-teed Products corporation, agreed with company lawyers today to confine business at a thrice postponed annual meeting merely to the submittal of proxies.

The agreement reached before Judge Emory S. Niles, who next Monday will hear a court move to force an election of directors, provided for both sides to turn over proxies to the inspectors of elections committee, which will report to the court.

Another meeting has been called for next Wednesday.

Rawson G. Lizars of Chicago and associates are attempting to remove the present management of Certain-teed, headed by President Hector J. Dowd and Chairman B. G. Dahlberg, both of Chicago.

GOOD WEATHER PUSHES RETAIL VOLUME HIGHER

New York, May 12 (AP).—Good weather helped retail trade volume to exceed last week's total, and sales were estimated 7 to 11 per cent above a year ago, Dun & Bradstreet reported today.

Seasonal lines moved briskly. Mother's day merchandise sold well with major emphasis on cotton dresses and housecoats, cosmetics, jewelry, handkerchiefs, lingerie, handbags, and flowers. Summer play clothes also were in demand.

Huron Street Building Is Bought for $200,000

Efaich company yesterday bought the six story building at the northwest corner of Huron and Kingsbury sts. from the Tilt trust for $200,000. Walter F. Osborn was broker for the seller. Nicolson, Porter & List and William Kaplan represented the buyer. Thordarsen Electric company, which has occupied the property for 25 years, will vacate it within six months. Lewis J. Huskin, president of Efaich company and founder and president of the Ford Hopkins company, said Ford Hopkins will occupy the building with its general offices, laboratories, and warehouse.

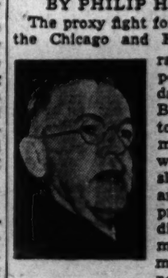
C. & E. I. PROXY CONTROL FIGHT ENDS IN PEACE

Boatner's Director Slate Withdrawn.

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

The proxy fight for the control of the Chicago and Eastern Illinois railroad ended peacefully yesterday when V. V. Boatner, a director opposing the management, withdrew his slate of directors and voted his proxies for the directors recommended by the management. The recommendation included five of the management's own members, five in the Boatner group, and three representing the Reconstruction Finance corporation, who have largely supported the management.



V. V. Boatner.

Immediately after the opening of the stockholders' meeting in the afternoon Boatner announced that after a conference and in the interest of harmony he would vote with the management. His action caused surprise because, in remarks at an informal morning session, he had sharply criticized the management and the RFC's relationship with the management.

Decide to Hear Boatner.

The meeting was not called in the morning pending the determination of whether proxies were sufficient for a formal session. However, it was decided to let Boatner talk, after a plea by his attorney, F. W. Potter.

A tabulation of the proxies indicated Boatner had lost his fight to win stockholder approval of his actions by approximately two to one.

C. T. O'Neal, president, presided at both sessions. In his formal statement to the directors he reported the C. & E. I.'s 1943 earnings results and said that the road in the first four months this year had a steady business gain. Railway operating revenues in the period approximated $11,176,079, a gain of $687,835 above a year earlier.

Operation Income Dips.

Net operating income was $1,256,345, compared with $1,633,896 a year ago. O'Neal said the decrease resulted largely from increased wages granted employes.

O'Neal said the road this year has paid a dividend of $1 a share on the class A stock—it paid $2.50 a share on the class A and 50 cents a share on the common in 1943—and that further dividends in 1944 will receive full consideration.

"Consideration has been given to the refinancing of the first mortgage series A, 4 per cent bonds, but thus far no acceptable plan has been found," O'Neal said.

Explains His Motives.

Boatner, in addressing the group at the morning session, said one of his principal motives for his opposition to the management and the Reconstruction Finance corporation was his wish to have the management of the company in the hands of directors who are independent and who are not subservient to a government agency.

HELP WANTED OMITTED ONLY ON SATURDAYS

Because of newsprint restrictions, Help Wanted and Employment Agency ads are omitted on Saturdays.

This enables the Tribune to utilize to the best advantage of readers and advertisers the total weekly supply of paper allocated to such advertising under the Tribune's conservation program.

For Chicago's biggest job directory, consult tomorrow's Sunday Tribune — which prints twice as many job offers as all other Chicago Sunday newspapers combined.
